Home A Short History Of An Idea:

Home Witold Rybczynski, 2001-03-05 Our need for domestic well being is deeply rooted and home is the unique phenomenon that answers that yearning Witold Rybczynski takes a close and entertaining look at the place we all know and which is such an elusive mixture of house and household dwelling and refuge of notions of ownership and affection From Jane Austen s homely novels to the sleek lines of Art Deco from luxurious Rococo to the nostalgia of Ralph Lauren Rybczynski peels away the layers of design technology and habit to reveal something of the true nature of home Using vivid historical examples to conjure lifestyles as distant as the Dutch domesticity of Vermeer and the aristocratic excess of Versailles HOME takes us on a journey inviting us to visit the houses of people throughout time and across the world Modernity is here too in all its electrical gas heated vacuum cleaning glory but there is also recognition of the desire for personal touches and individual comfort that resist the logical progression towards efficient minimalism Le Corbusier called a house a machine for living in but Rybczynski s writing asks us to reclaim our homes from the architects whose plans surely need to live in harmony with less easily categorised ideas like pleasure and ease domesticity and intimacy HOME opens a rare window into our private lives and how we really want to live

Property Law in the Society of Equals Christopher Essert, 2024 Property Law in the Society of Equals is an account of the property law and its justificatory foundations It begins with the common worry that property is an inequalitarian institution and shows that contrary to the worry property is actually an essential constituent of a society of equals Property law is the solution to the Problem of Yours and Mine a moral problem about the impossibility of our relating to one another on terms of equality absent an institution that allows us to have things as our own This understanding of property not only shows why property is required for us to have equal relations it also provides a distinctive perspective on the ways in which our current institutions of property are defective from their own internal point of view and require radical reform The book uses this abstract account to explain contemporary property law The book explains private law doctrines including trespass licence nuisance acquisition transfer tenancy the law of servitudes it also illuminates the boundaries between property rights and personal rights and between property rights and contract rights and explores various liminal cases of property through that lens In addition the book critiques property internally showing how property's justification requires a state to provide homes to all of its subjects and showing how other parts of the public law of property including various forms of land use regulation should be understood as part of the law of property rather than external limitations on it
