The Making of Anti-Muslim Protest Joel Busher, 2015-10-23 Activism in any social movement group is as Deborah Gould observes a project of collective world making It is about changing the world out there by influencing policy and public opinion but is also about the way it transforms the lives of participants activists generate new identities cultures social ties rich and varied emotional experiences and interpretations of the world around them Movements are more likely to be able to attract and sustain support when as projects of collective world making they feel compelling to activists and would be activists In this book Busher explores what has made activism in the English Defence League EDL an anti Muslim protest movement that has staged demonstrations across the UK since 2009 so compelling to those who have chosen to march under its banner Based on sixteen months of overt observation with grassroots activists he explores how people became involved with the group how they forged and intensified belief in the EDL cause how they negotiated accusations that they were just another racist far right group and how grassroots EDL activism began to unravel during the course of 2011 but did not do so altogether Providing a fresh insight as to how contemporary anti minority protest movements work on the inside this book will be of interest to students scholars and activists working in the areas of British politics extremism social movements community relations and current affairs more generally

Global Fragments Anke Bartels,Dirk Wiemann,2007 While the world seems to be getting ever smaller and globalization has become the ubiquitous buzz word regionalism and fragmentation also abound This might be due to the fact that far from being the alleged production of cultural homogeneity the global is constantly re defined and altered through the local This tension pervading much of contemporary culture has an obvious special relevance for the new varieties of English and the literature published in English world wide Postcolonial literatures exist at the interface of English as a hegemonic medium and its many national regional and local competitors that transform it in the new English literatures Thus any exploration of a globalization of cultures has to take into account the fact that culture is a complex field characterized by hybridization plurality and difference But while global or transnational cultures may allow for a new cosmopolitanism that produces ever changing fluid identities they do not give rise to an egalitarian global village an asymmetry between centre and periphery remains largely intact albeit along new parameters The essays collected in this volume offer readings of literary theoretical and filmic texts from the postcolonial world These texts are read as attempts to articulate the global with the local from a perspective of immersion in the actual diversity of life worlds focusing on such issues as consumption identity politics and modes of affiliation In this sense they are global fragments locally refractured figurations of an experience of world wide interconnectedness
