Good Practices in Health Financing Pablo Gottret, George Schieber, Hugh R. Waters, 2008-06-20 For humanitarian reasons and the concern for households economic and health security the health sector is at the center of global development policy Developing countries and the international community are scaling up health systems to meet the Millennium Development Goals MDGs and are improving financial protection by securing long term support for these gains Yet money alone cannot buy health gains or prevent impoverishment due to catastrophic medical bills well structured results based financing reforms are needed Unfortunately global evidence of successful health financing policies that can guide the reform effort is very limited and therefore the policy debate is often driven by ideological one size fits all solutions Good Practices in Health Financing Lessons from Reforms in Low and Middle Income Countries attempts to begin to fill the void by systematically assessing health financing reforms in nine low and middle income countries that have managed to expand their health financing systems to both improve health status and protect against catastrophic medical expenses The participating countries are Chile Colombia Costa Rica Estonia the Kyrgyz Republic Sri Lanka Thailand Tunisia and Vietnam The study seeks to identify common enabling factors of their good performance While the findings for each country are important collectively they send a clear message to the global community that more attention is needed to define good practice and then to evaluate and disseminate the global evidence base

Health Financing in Indonesia , 2009-01-01 In 2004 the Indonesian government made a commitment to provide its entire population with health insurance coverage through a mandatory public health insurance scheme It has moved boldly already provides coverage to an estimated 76 4 million poor and near poor funded through the public budget Nevertheless over half the population still lacks health insurance coverage and the full fiscal impacts of the government s program for the poor have not been fully assessed or felt In addition significant deficiencies in the efficiency and equity of the current health system unless addressed will exacerbate cost pressures and could preclude the effective implementation of universal coverage Ue and the desired result of improvements in population health outcomes and financial protection For Indonesia to achieve UC systems performance must be improved and key policy choices with respect to the configuration of the health financing system must be made Indonesia s health system performs well with respect to some health outcomes and financial protection but there is potential for significant improvement High level political decisions are necessary on key elements of the health financing reform package The key transitional questions to get there include the benefits that can be afforded and their impacts on health outcomes and financial protection how the more than 50 percent of those currently without coverage will be insured how to pay medical care providers to assure access efficiency and quality developing a streamlined and efficient administrative structure how to address the current supply constraints to assure availability of promised services how to raise revenues to finance the system including the program for the poor as well as currently uninsured groups that may require government subsidization such as the more than 60 million informal sector workers the 85 percent of workers in firms of less than five employees and the 70 percent of the population living in rural areas
