Echoes of a Voice James W. Sire, 2014-04-21 Early evening a young boy alone on his pony on the rim of the Nebraska Sandhills Three darkening thunderclouds rising higher and higher on the horizon An electric atmosphere a quickening light cooling breeze A slight shiver and the boy wonders Am I being pursued by the Father the Son and the Holy Ghost These sudden unbidden unexpected strange experiences We all have them What are they Mere plucking on the emotional strings of our material selves Or do they have a deeper meaning Do they signal the Presence of something other maybe some Other maybe some one Other some thing or some one above below beyond our normal waking consciousness James W Sire has studied a massive number of these accounts He pairs them with his own experiences and turns to scientists philosophers and theologians for explanation These experiences he concludes are signals of transcendence or what N T Wright calls echoes of a voice the voice of Jesus calling us to follow him into God s new world This book is an account of the author s journey to this conclusion

Cross-Language Relations in Composition Bruce Horner, Min-Zhan Lu, Paul Kei Matsuda, 2010-05-09 Cross Language Relations in Composition brings together the foremost scholars in the fields of composition second language writing education and literacy studies to address the limitations of the tacit English only policy prevalent in composition pedagogy and research and to suggest changes for the benefit of writing students and instructors throughout the United States Recognizing the growing linguistic diversity of students and faculty the ongoing changes in the English language as a result of globalization and the increasingly blurred categories of native foreign and second language English speakers editors Bruce Horner Min Zhan Lu and Paul Kei Matsuda have compiled a groundbreaking anthology of essays that contest the dominance of English monolingualism in the study and teaching of composition and encourage the pursuit of approaches that embrace multilingualism and cross language writing as the norm for teaching and research The nine chapters comprising part 1 of the collection focus on the origins of the English only bias dominating U S composition classes and present alternative methods of teaching and research that challenge this monolingualism In part 2 nine composition teachers and scholars representing a variety of theoretical institutional and professional perspectives propose new compelling and concrete ways to understand and teach composition to students of a global plural English a language evolving in a multilingual world Drawing on recent theoretical work on genre complexity performance and identity as well as postcolonialism Cross Language Relations in Composition offers a radically new approach to composition teaching and research one that will prove invaluable to all who teach writing in today s multilingual college classroom The Publishers Weekly, 1905

American Book Publishing Record, 2005 Ways of Curating Hans Ulrich Obrist, 2014-03-27 Drawing on his own experiences and inspirations from staging his first exhibition in his tiny Zurich kitchen in 1986 to encounters and conversations with artists exhibition makers and thinkers alive and dead Hans Ulrich Obrist s Ways of Curating looks to inspire all those engaged in the creation of culture Moving from meetings with the artists who have inspired him including Gerhard Richter and Gilbert and George to the creation of the first public museums in the 18th century recounting the practice of inspirational figures such as Diaghilev and Walter Hopps skipping between exhibitions his own and others continents and centuries Ways of Curating argues that curation is far from a static practice Driven by curiosity at its best it allows us to create the future

Cultural Grammars of Nation, Diaspora, and Indigeneity in Canada Christine Kim, Sophie McCall, Melina Baum Singer, 2012-05-09 Cultural Grammars of Nation Diaspora and Indigeneity in Canada considers how the terms of critical debate in literary and cultural studies in Canada have shifted with respect to race nation and difference In asking how Indigenous and diasporic interventions have remapped these debates the contributors argue that a new cultural grammar is at work and attempt to sketch out some of the ways it operates The essays reference pivotal moments in Canadian literary and cultural history and speak to ongoing debates about Canadian nationalism postcolonialism migrancy and transnationalism Topics covered include the Asian race riots in Vancouver in 1907 the cultural memory of internment and dispersal of Japanese Canadians in the 1940s the politics of migrant labour and the domestic labour scheme in the 1960s and the trial of Robert Pickton in Vancouver in 2007 The contributors are particularly interested in how diaspora and indigeneity continue to contribute to this critical reconfiguration and in how conversations about diaspora and indigeneity in the Canadian context have themselves been transformed Cultural Grammars is an attempt to address both the interconnections and the schisms between these multiply fractured critical terms as well as the larger conceptual shifts that have occurred in response to national and postnational arguments

Class Interruptions Robin Brooks, 2021-12-20 As downward mobility continues to be an international issue Robin Brooks offers a timely intervention between the humanities and social sciences by examining how Black women's cultural production engages debates about the growth in income and wealth gaps in global society during the late twentieth and early twenty-first centuries Using an interdisciplinary approach this innovative book employs major contemporary texts by both African American and Caribbean writers Toni Morrison, Gloria Naylor, Dawn Turner, Olive Senior, Oonya Kempadoo, Merle Hodge and Diana McCauley to demonstrate how neoliberalism within the broader framework of racial capitalism reframes structural inequalities as personal failures, thus obscuring how to improve unjust conditions Through interviews with authors, textual analyses of the fiction and a diagramming of cross-class relationships Brooks offers compelling new insight on literary portrayals of class inequalities and division She expands the scope of how the Black women's literary tradition since the 1970s has been conceptualized by repositioning the importance of class and explores why the imagination matters as we think about novel ways to address long-standing and simultaneously evolving issues
