Transport For Disabled People - Volume I: HC 116 Great Britain: Parliament: House of Commons: Transport Committee, 2013-09-17 In the UK some 11.5m people already live with a recognised disability and more than a fifth of them experience some difficulty when using transport networks So it's essential that the Department for Transport delivers an ambitious Accessibility Action Plan Changes made ahead of the 2012 Paralympic Games delivered access for disabled people to significantly more parts of the public transport network for the first time and highlighted the immense value of such improvements for all Yet a year later there is a risk that some of the momentum from London 2012 is being lost because further key accessibility improvements planned have been watered down or abandoned The Committee's recommendations include imposing penalties on bus operators who claim to offer accessible routes but then fail to provide accessible buses the phased introduction of audio visual information systems on all buses over the next ten years phasing out the need for disabled travellers having to book organised assistance in advance financial incentives to encourage investment in fully accessible vehicles by taxi and private care hire vehicle operators and a change to EU rules so that in future airlines are required to allow carers to travel free of charge when the airline judges a disabled person incapable of travelling independently The Cabinet Office should convene a working group of ministers and officials to improve cross government working on accessibility in order to secure the full benefits to be gained from widening disabled people's access to employment and training healthcare and wider participation in all parts of society People's Songs, 1946 Organized to create promote and distribute songs of labor and the American people House of Commons - Public Administration Select Committee: Truth to Power: How Civil Service Reform Can Succeed - HC 74 Great Britain: Parliament: House of Commons: Public Administration Select Committee, 2013-09-06 The Public Administration Select Committee PASC has concluded a year long inquiry into the future of the Civil Service with only one recommendation that Parliament should establish a Joint Committee of both Houses to sit as a Commission on the future of the Civil Service It should be constituted within the next few months and report before the end of the Parliament with a comprehensive change programme for Whitehall with a timetable to be implemented over the lifetime of the next Parliament The Report considers the increased tensions between ministers and officials which have become widely reported and places the problems in Whitehall in a wider context of a Civil Service built on the Northcote Trevelyan settlement established in 1853 and the Haldane principles of ministerial accountability set out in 1919 The government's Civil Service Reform Plan lacks strategic coherence and clear leadership from a united team of ministers and officials The Northcote Trevelyan Civil Service remains the most effective way of supporting the democratically elected Government and future administrations in the UK Divided leadership and confused accountabilities in Whitehall have led to problems a low level of engagement amongst civil servants in some departments and agencies and a general lack of trust and openness the Civil Service exhibits the key characteristics of a failing organisation with the leadership are in denial about the scale of the challenge they face There is a persistent lack of key skills and capabilities across Whitehall and an unacceptably high level of churn of lead officials which is incompatible with good government Not for Rent Stacy Wakefield, Stacy Wakefield-Forte, Grrrt, 2003 Resistance is more important than ever Living in a country with a president we did not elect who is waging a war without popular support vast numbers of Americans are feeling disempowered alienated from our government leaders and frightened What can we do The British activists from the 1990s documented in Not For Rent have some ideas to share with us In 1995 the British Parliament passed a draconian new law which curtailed civil liberties to a shocking extent The Criminal Justice Act essentially turned squatting underground parties and raves a nomadic lifestyle and protesting into criminal acts Travelling through England and Scotland the summer after this law went into effect Stacy and Grrrt discovered that not only were squatting protesting and parties still happening the law had politicized an entire generation More and more young people felt compelled to resist both to show their disregard for a government which did not represent them and to create exciting creative alternatives to the mainstream culture The activist underground was thriving The way Bush s government has used the events of September 11th to pick away at our civil liberties is reminiscent of this time The numbers of frustrated people who have taken to the streets to protest his war show how widespread the disillusionment with his government is But Not for Rent is not a book about unjust laws It is a vibrant celebration of creative resistance political alternatives and social engagement It is about what is possible when smart socially conscious people get together and create communities on their own terms Use it for inspiration
