Housing Inequality In Chinese Cities Routledge Contemporary China Series:

Housing Inequality in Chinese Cities Youqin Huang, Si-ming Li, 2014-03-05 In recent decades Chinese cities have experienced profound social economic and spatial transformations In particular Chinese cities have witnessed the largest housing boom in history and unprecedented housing privatization China now is a country of homeowners with more than 70 per cent of urban residents owning homes higher than many developed countries This book shows how China's spectacular housing success is not shared by all social groups with rapidly rising housing inequality and residential segregation increasingly prevalent in previously homogeneous Chinese cities It focuses on the two extremes of the residential landscape and reveals the stark contrast between low income households who live in shacks in so called urban villages and the nouveaux riches who live in exclusive gated villa communities Over four parts the contributors look at the degree to which inequality affects Chinese cities and the extent of residential differentiation housing for the urban poor and in particular housing for migrants from rural China housing for the rapidly expanding Chinese middle class and the new rich and finally governance in residential neighbourhoods Housing Inequality in Chinese Cities presents theoretically informed and empirically grounded research into the polarized residential landscape in Chinese cities and as such will be of great interest to students and scholars of Chinese studies urban geography urban sociology and urban studies

China's Urban Revolution Austin Williams, 2017-10-19 By 2025 China will have built fifteen new supercities each with 25 million inhabitants It will have created 250 Eco cities as well clean green car free people friendly high tech urban centres From the edge of an impending eco catastrophe we are arguably witnessing history's greatest environmental turnaround an urban experiment that may provide valuable lessons for cities worldwide Whether or not we choose to believe the hype there is little doubt that this is an experiment that needs unpicking understanding and learning from Austin Williams The Architectural Review's China correspondent explores the progress and perils of China's vast eco city program describing the complexities which emerge in the race to balance the environment with industrialisation quality with quantity and the liberty of the individual with the authority of the Chinese state Lifting the lid on the economic and social realities of the Chinese blueprint for eco modernisation Williams tells the story of China's rise and reveals the pragmatic political and economic motives that lurk behind the successes and failures of its eco cities Will these new kinds of urban developments be good humane healthy places Can China find a third way in which humanity nature economic growth and sustainability are reconciled And what lessons can we learn for our own vision of the urban future This is a timely and readable account which explores a range of themes environmental political cultural and architectural to show how the eco city program sheds fascinating light on contemporary Chinese society and provides a lens through which to view the politics of sustainability closer to home

Masculinity, Marriage and Rural Men in Urban China Sarah Gosper, 2024-12-31 This book explores the conjuncture and interrelationship between three so called crises facing Chinese society a crisis of marriage a crisis of masculinity and a crisis of mobility Based on sustained ethnographic research on unmarried lower class rural men from two distinct social and class categories namely migrant workers employed in the food delivery and express mail delivery industries and tertiary educated white collar professionals the book reveals how the increasing socio economic precarity of rural men and their largely unrealised desires to marry and have children demonstrates a fundamental reconfiguration of Chinese masculinity and mobility in urban China and the social impact on central Chinese institutions The book also reveals the futile efforts to fulfil hegemonic models of masculinity in contemporary China and addresses the heterogeneity of unmarried lower class rural men as they navigate marriage manhood and mobility Exploring gender relations in China and contributing to global studies of heterosexual masculinities this book will appeal to students and scholars of Chinese culture and society gender studies and social anthropology

From Village Commons to Public Goods Anne-Christine Trémon, 2023-06-09 Illuminating the complex processes of China's uneven urbanization through the lens of the transition from village commons to public goods this book is set in three urbanized villages in Shenzhen Chengdu and Xi'an which have experienced similar demographic explosions and dramatic changes to their landscapes the livelihoods of its inhabitants and the power structures governing their residents Graduated provision is the delivery of public goods informed by the teleological ideology of urbanization and by neoliberalism with Chinese characteristics and has been employed as an answer to the challenges of making public goods such as welfare provisions public parks education and senior care equally accessible to all in recently urbanized communities
