Enander, 2025-09-09 A fresh fascinating up to the moment appraisal of black holes the massive astronomical objects with a gravitational pull so strong nothing can escape them not even light that situates them at the center of our understanding of our place on Earth and of the universe Humanity s relationship with black holes began in 1783 in a small English village when clergyman John Michell posed a startling question What if there are objects in space that are so large and heavy that not even light can escape them Almost 250 years later in April 2019 scientists presented the first picture of a black hole Profoundly inspired by that image physicist Jonas Enander has traveled the world to investigate how our understanding of these elusive celestial objects has evolved since the days of Michell With the particular goal of discovering our human connection to black holes Enander visits telescopes and observatories delves deeply into archives and interviews over 20 world leading experts including several Nobel laureates With Facing Infinity he takes us on a spellbinding journey into the universe s greatest mystery deciphers the most mind bending science and answers questions surrounding how black holes work where they come from and what role they play in the universe Along the way Enander discovers how our desire to understand black holes inadvertently paved the way for the invention of Wi Fi and the calibration of our global navigation satellites how astronomical discovery became entangled with colonial conflicts and how our looking outward gave us critical evidence of the impact of climate change Facing Infinity helps us appreciate and understand as never before these mysterious celestial objects and our surprising connections to them

Board of Commissioners for Foreign Missions Life 24x a Second Elsie M. Walker, 2024 Life 24x a Second highlights the life sustaining and life affirming power of cinema Author Elsie Walker pays particular attention to pedagogical practice and students reflections on what the study of cinema has given to their lives This book provides multiple perspectives on cinema that matters for the deepest personal and social reasons from films that represent psychological healing in the face of individual losses to films that represent humanitarian hope in the face of global crises Ultimately Walker shows how cinema that moves us emotionally can move us toward a better world Life 24x a Second makes the case for cinema as a life force in uplifting and widely relatable ways Walker zeroes in on films that offer hope in relation to the Black Lives Matter movement Imitation of Life 1959 and BlacKkKlansman 2018 contemporary feminism Nobody Knows 2004 rite of passage experiences of mortality and mourning Ikiru 1952 and A Star Is Born 2018 and first love grief Call Me by Your Name 2017 and Portrait of a Lady on Fire 2019 Life 24x a Second invites readers to reflect on their own unique film to person encounters along with connecting them to others who love cinematic lessons for living well Reforming Early Retirement in Europe, Japan and the USA Bernhard Ebbinghaus, 2008-10-16 Since the 1970s early exit from work has become a major challenge in modern welfare states Governments employers and unions alike once thought of early retirement as a peaceful solution to the economic problems of mass unemployment and industrial restructuring Today governments and international organizations advocate the postponement of retirement and an increase in activity among older workers Comparing the USA eight European countries and Japan this book demonstrates significant cross national differences in early retirement across countries and over time The study evaluates the impact of major variations in welfare regimes production systems and labor relations It stresses the importance of the pull factor of extensive welfare state provisions particularly in Continental Europe the push factor of labor shedding strategies by firms particularly in Anglo American market economies and the role of employers and worker representatives in negotiating retirement policies particularly in coordinated market economies Over the last three decades early retirement has become a popular social policy and employment practice in the workplace adding to the fiscal crises and employment problems of today s welfare states Attempts to reverse early retirement policies have led to major reform debates Unilateral government policies to cut back on social benefits have not had the expected employment results due to resistance from employers workers and their organizations Successful reforms require the cooperation of both sides This study provides comprehensive empirical analysis and a balanced approach to studying both the pull and the push factors affecting early exit from work needed to understand the development of early retirement regimes Postwar Laura McEnaney, 2018-09-07 When World War II ended Americans celebrated a military victory abroad but the meaning of peace at home was yet to be defined From roughly 1943 onward building a postwar society became the new national project and every interest group involved in the war effort from business leaders to working class renters held different visions for the war s aftermath In Postwar Laura McEnaney plumbs the depths of this period to explore exactly what peace meant to a broad swath of civilians including apartment dwellers single women and housewives newly freed Japanese American internees African American migrants and returning veterans In her fine grained social history of postwar Chicago McEnaney puts ordinary working class people at the center of her investigation What she finds is a working class war liberalism a conviction that the wartime state had taken things from people and that the postwar era was about reclaiming those things with the state s help McEnaney examines vernacular understandings of the state exploring how people perceived and experienced government in their lives For Chicago s working class residents the state was not clearly delineated The local offices of federal agencies along with organizations such as the Travelers Aid Society and other neighborhood welfare groups all became what she calls the state in the neighborhood an extension of government to serve an urban working class recovering from war Just as they had made war the urban working class had to make peace and their requests for help large and small constituted early dialogues about the role of the state during peacetime Postwar examines peace as its own complex historical process a passage from conflict to postconflict that contained human struggles and policy dilemmas that would shape later decades as fatefully as had the war

Development-induced Displacement Chris de Wet,2005-11-01 Some ten million people worldwide are displaced or resettled every year due to development projects such as the construction of dams irrigation schemes urban development transport conservation or mining projects The results have usually been very negative for most of those people who have to move as well as for other people in the area such as host populations People are often left socially and institutionally disrupted and economically worse off with the environment also suffering as a result of the introduction of infrastructure and increased crowding in the areas to which people had to move The contributors to this volume argue that there is a complexity and a tension inherent in trying to reconcile enforced displacement of people with the subsequent creation of a socio economically viable and sustainable environment Only when these are squarely confronted will it be possible to adequately deal with the problems and to improve resettlement policies Hawaii Public Interest Protection Act of 1971 United States.
