Migratory Men Garth Stahl, Yang Zhao, 2023-06-02 Foregrounding the ways in which men experience transnational migration Migratory Men Place Transnationalism and Masculinities considers how we conceptualise and theorise mobile men in a global context Bringing together studies from around the world e.g. Australia Pakistan Tunisia Zimbabwe and Italy this collection foregrounds how the transnational migratory experience profoundly reshapes men's complex identity practices Specifically the collection highlights how transnational migratory aspirations and experiences often lead men to reimagine local patterns of masculinity and/or reaffirm prescriptive gender roles as they encounter new spaces places In presenting interdisciplinary research the international scholars consider the powerful roles of economics politics and social class in shaping masculinities Furthermore the contributors emphasise how men affectively and agentially experience migration and how interaction with new spaces places can often lead to negotiations between disempowerment and empowerment As such this collection will appeal to both non academic readers who share transnational migratory aspirations and experiences and academic readers across the social sciences with interests in gender and sexuality migration and diaspora transnationalism and contemporary masculinities Chapter 13 of this book is freely available as a downloadable Open Access PDF at <http://www.taylorfrancis.com> under a Creative Commons Attribution Non Commercial No Derivatives CC BY NC ND 4.0 license

The American People Reynolds Farley, John Haaga, 2005-09-08 For more than 200 years America has turned to the decennial census to answer questions about itself More than a mere head count the census is the authoritative source of information on where people live the types of families they establish how they identify themselves the jobs they hold and much more The latest census taken at the cusp of the new millennium gathered more information than ever before about Americans and their lifestyles The American People edited by respected demographers Reynolds Farley and John Haaga provides a snapshot of those findings that is at once analytically rich and accessible to readers at all levels The American People addresses important questions about national life that census data are uniquely able to answer Mary Elizabeth Hughes and Angela O Rand compare the educational attainment economic achievement and family arrangements of the baby boom cohort with those of preceding generations David Cotter Joan Hermsen and Reeve Vanneman find that unlike progress made in previous decades the 1990s were a time of stability and possibly even retrenchment with regard to gender equality Sonya Tafoya Hans Johnson and Laura Hill examine a new development for the census in 2000 the decision to allow people to identify themselves by more than one race They discuss how people form multiracial identities and dissect the racial and ethnic composition of the roughly seven million Americans who chose more than one racial classification Former Census Bureau director Kenneth Prewitt discusses the importance of the census to democratic fairness and government efficiency and notes how the high stakes accompanying the census count especially the allocation of Congressional seats and federal funds have made the census a lightning rod for criticism from politicians The census has come a long way since 1790 when U S Marshals set out on horseback to count the population Today it holds a wealth of information about who we are where we live what we do and how much we have changed The American People provides a rich detailed examination of the trends that shape our lives and paints a comprehensive portrait of the country we live in today A Volume in the Russell Sage Foundation Census Series Handbook of the Sociology of Racial and Ethnic Relations Hernan Vera, Joe R Feagin, 2007-08-03 The study of racial and ethnic relations has become one of the most studied aspects in sociology and sociological research In both North America and Europe many traditional cultures are feeling threatened by immigrants from Latin America Africa and Asia Sociology is at the hub of the human sciences concerned with racial and ethnic relations Since this discipline is made of multiple paradigms and methodological orientations it has been able to make relevant contributions to disciplines ranging from individual psychology social psychology and psychiatry to economics anthropology linguistics cultural studies health care delivery and education

Blurring the Color Line Richard Alba, 2012-03-05 Richard Alba argues that the social cleavages that separate Americans into distinct unequal ethno racial groups could narrow dramatically in the coming decades During the mid twentieth century the dominant position of the United States in the postwar world economy led to a rapid expansion of education and labor opportunities As a result of their newfound access to training and jobs many ethnic and religious outsiders among them Jews and Italians finally gained full acceptance as members of the mainstream Alba proposes that this large scale assimilation of white ethnics was a result of non zero sum mobility which he defines as the social ascent of members of disadvantaged groups that can take place without affecting the life chances of those who are already members of the established majority Alba shows that non zero sum mobility could play out positively in the future as the baby boom generation retires opening up the higher rungs of the labor market Because of the changing demography of the country many fewer whites will be coming of age than will be retiring Hence the opportunity exists for members of other groups to move up However Alba cautions this demographic shift will only benefit disadvantaged American minorities if they are provided with access to education and training In Blurring the Color Line Alba explores a future in which socially mobile minorities could blur stark boundaries and gain much more control over the social expression of racial differences

Labour, Mobility and Temporary Migration Julie Knight, John Lever, Andrew Thompson, 2017-06-15 Labour Mobility and Temporary Migration delves into sociological research on Polish migrants who migrated to the lesser explored South Wales region after Poland joined the European Union in 2004 At the time of enlargement Polish migrants were characterised as being economically motivated short term migrants who would enter the UK for work purposes save money and return home However over ten years after enlargement this initial characterisation has been challenged with many of the once considered short term Poles remaining in the UK In the case of Wales the long term impact of this migration is only starting to be fully realised particularly in consideration of the different spatial areas urban semi urban and rural explored in this book Such impact is occurring in the post Brexit referendum period a time when the UK's position in the EU is itself complex and changing

Marked Devah Pager, 2024-05-31 Nearly every job application asks it have you ever been convicted of a crime For the hundreds of thousands of young men leaving American prisons each year their answer to that question may determine whether they can find work and begin rebuilding their lives The product of an innovative field experiment Marked gives us our first real glimpse into the tremendous difficulties facing ex offenders in the job market Devah Pager matched up pairs of young men randomly assigned them criminal records then sent them on hundreds of real job searches throughout the city of Milwaukee Her applicants were attractive articulate and capable yet ex offenders received less than half the callbacks of the equally qualified applicants without criminal backgrounds Young black men meanwhile paid a particularly high price those with clean records fared no better in their job searches than white men just out of prison Such shocking barriers to legitimate work Pager contends are an important reason that many ex prisoners soon find themselves back in the realm of poverty underground employment and crime that led them to prison in the first place Using scholarly research field research in Milwaukee and graphics Pager shows that ex offenders white or black stand a very poor chance of getting a legitimate job Both informative and convincing Library Journal Marked is that rare book a penetrating text that rings with moral concern couched in vivid prose and one of the most useful sociological studies in years Michael Eric Dyson

Not Working Alejandra Marchevsky, Jeanne Theoharis, 2006-04-10 Not Working chronicles the devastating effects of the 1996 welfare reform legislation that ended welfare as we know it For those who now receive public assistance work means pleading with supervisors for full time hours juggling ever changing work schedules and shuffling between dead end jobs that leave one physically and psychically exhausted Through vivid story telling and pointed analysis Not Working profiles the day to day struggles of Mexican immigrant women in the Los Angeles area showing the increased vulnerability they face in the welfare office and labor market The new work first policies now enacted impose time limits and mandate work requirements for those receiving public assistance yet fail to offer real job training or needed childcare options ultimately causing many families to fall deeper below the poverty line Not Working shows that the new welfare to work regime has produced tremendous instability and insecurity for these women and their children Moreover the authors argue that the new politics of welfare enable greater infringements of rights and liberty for many of America s most vulnerable and constitute a crucial component of the broader assault on American citizenship In short the new welfare is not working      Cracks in the Pavement Martin

Sanchez-Jankowski,2008-09-02 Neighborhoods have been central to American sociology since its inception yet we have understood little about how the institutions in urban communities evolve disappear or persist over time Instead as of late many scholars have treated neighborhoods as collections of individuals and families ignoring the institutional ecology Understanding the dynamic role of local institutions is critical not only to sociological scholarship but also to important public policy debates about urban poverty Mart n S nchez Jankowski offers the reader an important comprehensive look at how local institutions ranging from barbershops to street gangs to public housing both reflect and shape the culture and daily rhythms of the residents who live with them His ecological perspective offers an important missing link in debates about neighborhood effects and should be read by anyone interested in understanding urban poverty Dalton Conley author of Being Black Living in the Red Race Wealth and Social Policy in America In his famous and moving preface to Les Miserables Victor Hugo warns us that as long as there is poverty such tales will be told But stories are not often told about the resurgence of poor communities their struggles to mobilize and change their condition But this book does just that filling in the rest of the picture and not of individual Horatio Algernons but with textured and critical analysis of the barriers these communities face and the pathways they take to achieve social change Troy Duster New York University      Immigrant Experiences in North

The Colors of Poverty Ann Chih Lin, David R. Harris, 2008-08-14 Given the increasing diversity of the nation particularly with respect to its growing Hispanic and Asian populations why does racial and ethnic difference so often lead to disadvantage In The Colors of Poverty a multidisciplinary group of experts provides a breakthrough analysis of the complex mechanisms that connect poverty and race The Colors of Poverty reframes the debate over the causes of minority poverty by emphasizing the cumulative effects of disadvantage in perpetuating poverty across generations The contributors consider a kaleidoscope of factors that contribute to widening racial gaps including education racial discrimination social capital immigration and incarceration Mich le Lamont and Mario Small grapple with the theoretical ambiguities of existing cultural explanations for poverty disparities They argue that culture and structure are not competing explanations for poverty but rather collaborate to produce disparities Looking at how attitudes and beliefs exacerbate racial stratification social psychologist Heather Bullock links the rise of inequality in the United States to an increase in public tolerance for disparity She suggests that the American ethos of rugged individualism and meritocracy erodes support for antipoverty programs and reinforces the belief that people are responsible for their own poverty Sociologists Darren Wheelock and Christopher Uggen focus on the collateral consequences of incarceration in exacerbating racial disparities and are the first to propose a link between legislation that blocks former drug felons from obtaining federal aid for higher education and the black white educational attainment gap Joe Soss and Sanford Schram argue that the increasingly decentralized and discretionary nature of state welfare programs allows for different treatment of racial groups even when such policies are touted as race neutral They find that states with more blacks and Hispanics on welfare rolls are consistently more likely to impose lifetime limits caps on benefits for mothers with children and stricter sanctions The Colors of Poverty is a comprehensive and evocative introduction to the dynamics of race and inequality The research in this landmark volume moves scholarship on inequality beyond a simple black white paradigm beyond the search for a single cause of poverty and beyond the promise of one magic bullet solution A Volume in the National Poverty Center Series on Poverty and Public Policy Precarious Claims Shannon Gleeson, 2016-09-30 Inequality and power at work The landscape and logics of worker protections Navigating bureaucracies The aftermath of legal mobilization
