

GROUP DYNAMICS

DEFINITION

Group dynamics refers to the patterns of behavior and interpersonal relationships within a group. It encompasses how group members interact, communicate, make decisions, and assume specific roles, ultimately shaping the group's overall performance and effectiveness.

EXAMPLES

- Positive interdependence: A good group has a sense of positive interdependence. This is a term used to describe a group dynamic wherein individual and group goals are aligned.
- Shared purpose: One of the first things a group lays out when it comes together is its purpose.

Group Dynamics Uwe Bußmann, Silvia Schweighofer, 2011-08-08 Inhaltsangabe Abstract A group consists of some people who interact during a certain time The number of group members is that small that there is the possibility for every member to interact with every other group member face to face If people meet by accident who are not close friends it will be not a group If you want to learn more about the formation of groups you will find two leading models which display the phases of group formation On the one hand there is the Bernstein and Lowy model on the other hand Bruce Tuckman also designed a phase model which shows the formation of groups Roles in groups can be positive and negative They are supporting the group as collectivity and are not only the result of individual need abilities and characteristics There are different ways for the classification of groups Groups can be classified in general according to following characteristics size topic task of the group Also a way for classifying groups is the classification according the Riemann Thomann Cross The next chapters this assignment shows a rough overview of the various possibilities for the classification of groups As there are many influencing facts for the effectiveness of groups and very contradictory interests the advantages for one group of interest are the disadvantages for the other group of interest The economical group of interest measures the effectiveness of a group by its productivity flexibility and quality The individual in a group identifies effectiveness in the group by reasonable tasks feeling of togetherness in the group and diverse interpersonal relationships At workplaces with friends together or even with complete strangers informal groups emerge nearly everywhere in real life The aims of informal groups are usually but not always different from those of formal groups The development within the group is apart from small differences not much different from formal groups The process of forming storming norming performing and eventually adjourning as Professor Tuckman has described is nearly the same One crucial point is that informal groups are NOT part of a formal organisation and members in most of these cases are free to leave whenever they want Therefore it is unusual to undergo e.g. a destructive storming Before it comes to such a storming often one or more members will leave the group in advance Leadership is especially in informal groups a difficult topic But
