Moral Foods Angela Ki Che Leung, Melissa L. Caldwell, 2020-02-29 Moral Foods The Construction of Nutrition and Health in Modern Asia investigates how foods came to be established as moral entities how moral food regimes reveal emerging systems of knowledge and enforcement and how these developments have contributed to new Asian nutritional knowledge regimes The collection s focus on cross cultural and transhistorical comparisons across Asia brings into view a broad spectrum of modern Asia that extends from East Asia Southeast Asia to South Asia as well as into global communities of Western knowledge practice and power outside Asia The first section Good Foods focuses on how food norms and rules have been established in modern Asia Ideas about good foods and good bodies shift at different moments in some cases privileging local foods and knowledge systems and in other cases privileging foreign foods and knowledge systems The second section Bad Foods focuses on what makes foods bad and even dangerous Bad foods are not simply unpleasant or undesirable for aesthetic or sensory reasons but they can hinder the stability and development of persons and societies Bad foods are symbolically polluting as in the case of foreign foods that threaten not only traditional foods but also the stability and strength of the nation and its people The third section Moral Foods focuses on how themes of good versus bad are embedded in projects to make modern persons subjects and states with specific attention to the ambiguities and malleability of foods and health The malleability of moral foods provides unique opportunities for understanding Asian societies dynamic position within larger global flows connections and disconnections Collectively the chapters raise intriguing questions about how foods and the bodies that consume them have been valued politically economically culturally and morally and about how those values originated and evolved Consumers in modern Asia are not simply eating to satisfy personal desires or physiological needs but they are also conscripted into national and global statemaking projects through acts of ingestion Eating then has become about fortifying both the person and the nation
