Information, Incentives, and Education Policy Derek A. Neal, 2018-05-14 Derek Neal writes that economists must analyze public education policy in the same way they analyze other procurement problems He shows how standard tools from economics research speak directly to issues in education For mastering the models and tools that economists of education should use in their work there is no better resource available The Inner Lives of Markets Ray Fisman, Tim Sullivan, 2016-06-07 America's economic revolution isn't just driven by technology It's about markets The past twenty five years have witnessed a remarkable shift in how we get the stuff we want If you've ever owned a business rented an apartment or shopped online you've had a front row seat for this revolution in progress Breakthrough companies like Amazon and Uber have disrupted the old ways and made the economy work better all thanks to technology At least that's how the story of the modern economy is usually told But in this lucid wry book Ray Fisman and Tim Sullivan show that the revolution is bigger than tech it is really a story about the transformation of markets From the auction theories that power Google's ad sales algorithms to the models that online retailers use to prevent internet fraud even the most high tech modern businesses are empowered by theory first envisioned by economists And we're all participants in this revolution Every time you book a room on Airbnb hire a car on Lyft or click on an ad you too are reshaping our social institutions and our lives The Inner Lives of Markets is necessary reading for the modern world it reveals the blueprint for how we work live and shop and offers wisdom for how to do it better

Unequal Learning Xin Xiang, 2025 Inequality has been soaring across the globe in the past decades And the reproduction of inequality begins early in the life cycle in homes and schools In Unequal Learning Xin Xiang analyzes the different kinds of learning that goes on in four drastically different Chinese schools a rural school in a mountainous area a public school in an impoverished region of an emerging city a low cost private school serving rural migrants and a prestigious metropolitan public school that attracts the children of elite professionals and government officials As she shows the different learning opportunities available in these four communities contribute to the widening gulf between the rising metropolitan middle class and China's working classes Within classrooms children in urban elite schools experience pedagogies drastically different from those in less privileged communities despite the common preoccupation with preparing for exams Outside classrooms urban elite children learn to lead collaborate and compete through a variety of organized activities while rural children acquire competency in farm and household work Though these particular schools are located in China Xiang demonstrates how these four Chinese schools and communities reflect global trends as much as local peculiarities Ultimately addressing these pervasive and deep rooted educational inequalities requires moving beyond the paradigms of closing achievement gaps and reducing learning poverty Xiang calls for a thorough rethinking of whose knowledge and contribution counts and what good schools look like in China and beyond Powerfully argued and deeply researched this will be essential reading not just for scholars of China but anyone interested in how education systems both reproduce and exacerbate inequality

Teaching History with Big Ideas S. G. Grant, Jill M. Gradwell, 2010-07-16 In the case studies that make up the bulk of this book middle and high school history teachers describe the decisions and plans and the problems and possibilities they encountered as they ratcheted up their instruction through the use of big ideas Framing a teaching unit around a question such as Why don't we know anything about Africa offers both teacher and students opportunities to explore historical actors ideas and events in ways both rich and engaging Such an approach exemplifies the construct of ambitious teaching whereby teachers demonstrate their ability to marry their deep knowledge of subject matter students and the school context in ways that fundamentally challenge the claim that history is boring

Scripting the Moves Joanne W. Golann, 2025-03-18 An inside look at a no excuses charter school that reveals this educational model's strengths and weaknesses and how its approach shapes students Silent single file lines Detention for putting a head on a desk Rules for how to dress how to applaud how to complete homework Walk into some of the most acclaimed urban schools today and you will find similar recipes of behavior designed to support student achievement But what do these scripts accomplish Immersing readers inside a no excuses charter school Scripting the Moves offers a telling window into an expanding model of urban education reform Through interviews with students teachers administrators and parents and analysis of documents and data Joanne Golann reveals that such schools actually dictate too rigid a level of social control for both teachers and their predominantly low income Black and Latino students Despite good intentions scripts constrain the development of important interactional skills and reproduce some of the very inequities they mean to disrupt Golann presents a fascinating sometimes painful account of how no excuses schools use scripts to regulate students and teachers She shows why scripts were adopted what purposes they serve and where they fall short What emerges is a complicated story of the benefits of scripts but also their limitations in cultivating the tools students need to navigate college and other complex social institutions tools such as flexibility initiative and ease with adults Contrasting scripts with tools Golann raises essential questions about what constitutes cultural capital and how this capital might be effectively taught Illuminating and accessible Scripting the Moves delves into the troubling realities behind current education reform and reenvisioning what it takes to prepare students for long term success
