It provides an expansive overview of eighteenth and nineteenth century poetry in the European languages. The essays take account of interrelated currents in American, Argentinian, Brazilian, Bulgarian, Canadian, Caribbean, Chilean, Colombian, Croatian, Czech, Danish, English, Estonian, Finnish, French, German, Greek, Hungarian, Irish, Italian, Mexican, Norwegian, Peruvian, Polish, Romanian, Russian, Serbian, Slovak, Spanish, Swedish, and Uruguayan literature. Contributors adopt different models for comparative study: tracing a theme or motif through several literatures; developing innovative models of transnational influence; studying the role of Romantic poetry in socio-political developments; or focusing on an issue that appears most prominently in one national literature yet is illuminated by the international context. This collaborative volume provides an invaluable resource for students of comparative literature and Romanticism.

The Romanticism series in the Comparative History of Literatures in European Languages is the result of a remarkable international collaboration. The editorial team coordinated the efforts of over 100 experts from more than two dozen countries to produce five independently conceived yet interrelated volumes that show not only how Romanticism developed and spread in its principal European homelands and throughout the New World but also the ways in which the affected literatures in reaction to Romanticism have redefined themselves into Modernism. A glance at the index of each volume quickly reveals the extraordinary richness of the series' total contents.

Romantic Irony sets the broader experimental parameters of comparison by concentrating on the myriad expressions of irony as one of the major impulses in the Romantic philosophical and artistic revolution and by combining cross-cultural and interdisciplinary studies with special attention also to literatures in less widely diffused language streams.

Romantic Drama traces creative innovations that deeply altered the understanding of genre at large, fed popular imagination through vehicles like the opera, and laid the foundations for a modernist theater of the absurd.

Romantic Poetry demonstrates deep patterns and a sharing of crucial themes of the revolutionary age which underlie the lyrical expression that flourished in so many languages and environments.

Nonfictional Romantic Prose assists us in coping with the vast array of writings from the personal and intimate sphere to modes of public discourse, including Romanticism's own self-commentary in theoretical statements on the arts, society, life, the sciences, and more. Nor are the discursive dimensions of imaginative literature neglected in the closing volume.

Romantic Prose Fiction, where the basic Romantic themes and story types—the romance, novel, novella, short story, and other narrative forms—are considered throughout Europe and the New World. This enormous realm is seen not just in terms of Romantic theorizing but in the light of the impact of Romantic ideas and narration on later generations. As an aid to readers, the introduction to Romantic Prose Fiction explains the relationships among the volumes in the series and carries a listing of their tables of contents in an appendix. No other series exists comparable to these volumes, which treat the entirety of Romanticism as a cultural happening across the whole breadth of the Old and New Worlds and thus render a complex picture of European spiritual strivings in the late eighteenth and the nineteenth centuries, a heritage still very close to our age.

Franklin, Laurel Fulkerson, 2020-08-27 The Augustan period in Rome was a golden age for poetry and also the age in which the cult of the author began in the west By examining some early poetic understandings of what it might have meant to be Vergil Ovid and Tibullus Constructing Authors and Readers in the Appendices Vergiliana Tibulliana and Ovidiana explores what those authors meant to near contemporaries and what the construction of authorship they were a part of meant to the later western tradition Constructing Authors and Readers in the Appendices Vergiliana Tibulliana and Ovidiana takes its starting point from the Appendices attached to three major Augustan poets exploring how their different conditions of production and the differences between their authorising authors result in different notions of what an appendical text ought to contain So for instance Vergil's biography leaves ample room for juvenilia while Ovid's does not the Tibullan appendix explicitly engages with a wider poetic community Moving beyond questions of forgery and deception some chapters ask how we would be able to know the difference between texts of genuine and of disputed authorship given that most of the stylistic features that distinguish authors are replicable Other chapters make the case for re evaluation of poems that have been neglected or disparaged and still others make sense of individual works in their likely context of composition The volume is the first to treat in conjunction the majority of the appendical works ascribed to Vergil Ovid and Tibullus and to draw connections across corpora Psychoanalytic Perspectives On Women Elanie V.
