Morgan, Pittu Laungani, 2021-03-24 The make up of the contemporary nation state is increasingly multiethnic and statistics show that in many cases no one group is numerically the largest Interethnic relations are given global visibility by the media while much that happens among different groups depends on context Editors John D Morgan King's College London and Pittu Laungani South Bank and Manchester Universities England have gathered leading international authorities to produce Death and Bereavement Around the World the first of a five volume presentation and analysis of the ways different peoples experience dying and grief Effective bereavement care requires a knowledge of an individual's physical social educational and spiritual existence since the expressions of grief and the needs that emerge vary widely from one to another and are subject to past experiences cultural expectations personal beliefs and relationships An individual's identity comes from a sense of personal uniqueness solidarity with group ideals continuity with the past present and future and from the culture by which an individual is raised or adopted This first volume discusses the major religious traditions of the world and how they help followers deal with the fundamentals of life Rites of Passage Guerric Debona, Francis Agnoli, David Scotchie, 2018-10-04 Rites of Passage is a much needed practical homiletic resource for priests and deacons who preach Christian baptisms weddings and funerals The three authors a religious priest a diocesan priest and a permanent deacon draw from the scriptural and liturgical resources available to the preacher for these three important ritual moments to suggest ways to build an effective homily This book will serve as a helpful and engaging resource for priests and deacons in parish life and as a blessing to the faithful The Final Transition Richard Kalish, 2019-06-04 This text is not just another reader on death but rather a carefully developed book created specifically for those persons whose major interests are either death education death counseling or of course both The audience which this book addresses include persons who have had either experience in death counseling or education or previous academic work those who are contemplating professional work in the field or who are already in the process of developing this area as one of their fields of competence and individuals who are already either counselors or educators or otherwise involved in the fields of mental health or education and who wish to learn more about the relationship of death and grief to their work Shepherding God's Flock Jay E. Morgan,2016-12-05 An elderly Chinese immigrant hospitalized with terminal disease requests to burn incense A 30 year old Roman Catholic gay male dying of AIDS is consumed by deepening moral guilt troubled by beliefs he thought he abandoned years ago A mother whose teenage son died of an aneurism is angry at God over his death yet fearful of expressing that anger lest He punish her again A young widower seemingly has difficulty expressing grief believing it to be a sign of weak faith All of these examples illustrate the kinds of issues that clinicians and counselors constantly encounter For although North American society has long been characterized as secular this does not deny the potency of spiritual concerns and religious values on the individual level Polls affirm that vast majorities of North Americans both believe in God and consider religion important in their lives This is clearly evident when one faces the crisis of dying or bereavement For one of the strengths of belief is that it provides support and succor at a time when secular explanations are largely silent For these reasons educators and clinicians have long recognized the significance that religious and spiritual themes have in counseling with the dying and bereaved Yet in cultures as religiously diverse as the U S and Canada caregivers and educators may feel inadequate to the task Death and Spirituality addresses this need Specifically it seeks to reach two perhaps overlapping audiences First it considers the needs death related counselors and educators seeking to provide them with both a sense of the norm of religious tradition and the religious and spiritual issues that might arise in illness and bereavement as well as suitable interventions approaches and resources that might be useful in assisting clients in examining and resolving such issues The book also speaks to the complementary needs of clergy who also may wish to assist parishioners and others as they face the spiritual and psychological crisis of dying and grief
