Health in Prisons A. Gatherer,World Health Organization. Regional Office for Europe,2007 Based on the experience of many countries in the WHO European Region and the advice of experts this guide outlines some of the steps prison systems should take to reduce the public health risks from compulsory detention in often unhealthy situations to care for prisoners in need and to promote the health of prisoners and prison staff This requires that everyone working in prisons understand how imprisonment affects health what prisoners health needs are and how evidence based health services can be provided for everyone needing treatment care and prevention in prison Other essential elements are being aware of and accepting internationally recommended standards for prison health providing professional care with the same adherence to professional ethics as in other health services and while seeing individual needs as the central feature of the care provided promoting a whole prison approach to care and promoting the health and well being of people in custody

The paradox of self-harm in prison: psychopathy or an evolved coping strategy? Julia Griller,2014-02-01 Deliberate self harm DSH refers to intentionally self inflicted injuries and is mainly explained by abuse or neglect severe psychopathy or at least a trait of a mental disorder Most functions of DSH serve intrapersonal motives but interpersonal reasons are also found These range from seeking for attention pity and sympathy to benefits like care help or avoidance of unpleasant tasks or persons To the latter belongs the deterrence of assaulters a benefit especially desirable for prisoners due to the hostile and brutal environment of prisons This book scrutinizes two hypotheses of avoidance of attacks in prisons by the use of episodes of DSH as costly signals building upon the signaling theory developed in economics and biology The first hypothesis is that DSH is an honest signal of fearlessness intended to repel other inmates from attacking The second deals with the avoidance of assaulters by signaling madness via DSH to achieve relocation into an asylum The underlying motive in this case is the need of protection and thus DSH serves as a cry for help to prison authorities All necessary requirements of both hypotheses are examined provided with evidence from existing research and analyzed with the help of mathematical models Psychiatric and Mental Health Nursing Ruth Elder,Katie Evans,Debra Nizette,2008-11-07 This new edition focuses on practice in mental health and psychiatric care integrating theory and the realities of practice Mental wellness is featured as a concept and the consideration of a range of psychosocial factors helps students contextualise mental illness and psychiatric disorders
