Husen, 2022-05-27 Environmental Physiological and Chemical Controls of Adventitious Rooting in Cuttings provides a review of the environmental physiological and chemical controls of adventitious rooting in cuttings obtained from plants In plants adventitious roots which are highly useful for vegetative propagation or clonal propagation are produced mainly from leaves hypocotyls stems or shoots Vegetative propagation may occur naturally by using propagules such as roots underground and aerial stems leaves buds and bulbils It may also be done artificially through regenerative organs rhizomes bulbs and corms and by utilizing specialized methods like cutting grafting and layering This book covers the latest tactics surrounding these processes As a plethora of factors affect the adventitious rooting of cuttings adding to the complexity of the phenomenon The main factors which control adventitious root formation are types of cuttings presence of leaf area on cuttings types of hormones and their concentration duration of hormonal treatment quick dip long soak dry dip spray dip or total immerse method maturation juvenile or mature genotype explant position and more all of which are discussed here Provides a comprehensive and exclusive book on the environmental physiological and chemical factors associated with adventitious root formation in cutting with up to date literature and lucid illustrations Presents a multidimensional approach and a broad range of explanation on adventitious root formation associated with mature and juvenile cutting Discusses a number of molecular histological and physiological markers associated with adventitious root formation in numerous plant species Elaborates on how external and internal factors control the cell tissue initiation differentiation and overall adventitious root formation in cutting
