The Storyworld Accord Erin James, 2015-07-01 Storyworlds mental models of context and environment within which characters function is a concept used to describe what happens in narrative Narratologists agree that the concept of storyworlds best captures the ecology of narrative interpretation by allowing a fuller appreciation of the organization of both space and time by recognizing reading as a process that encourages readers to compare the world of a text to other possible worlds and by highlighting the power of narrative to immerse readers in new and unfamiliar environments Focusing on the work of writers from Trinidad and Nigeria such as Sam Selvon and Ben Okri The Storyworld Accord investigates and compares the storyworlds of nonrealist and postmodern postcolonial texts to show how such narratives grapple with the often collapsed concerns of subjectivity representation and environment bringing together these narratological and ecocritical concerns via a mode that Erin James calls econarratology Arguing that postcolonial ecocriticism like ecocritical studies has tended to neglect imaginative representations of the environment in postcolonial literatures James suggests that readings of storyworlds in postcolonial texts helps narrative theorists and ecocritics better consider the ways in which culture ideologies and social and environmental issues are articulated in narrative forms and structures while also helping postcolonial scholars more fully consider the environment alongside issues of political subjectivity and sovereignty Tomes of Terror Mark
