Large Scale Forest Restoration The Earthscan Forest Library:

Large-scale Forest Restoration David Lamb, 2014-09-19 Landscapes are being degraded and simplified across the globe This book explores how forest restoration might be carried out to increase landscape heterogeneity improve ecological functioning and restore ecosystem services in such landscapes It focuses on large landscape scale reforestation because that is the scale at which restoration is needed if many of the problems that have now developed are to be addressed It also shows how large scale forest restoration might improve human livelihoods as well as improve conservation outcomes A number of governments have undertaken national reforestation programs in recent years some have been more successful than others The author reviews these to explore what type of reforestation should be used where this should be carried out and how much should be done For example are the traditional industrial forms of reforestation necessarily the best to use in all situations How can forest restoration be reconciled with the need for food security And are there spatial thresholds that must be exceeded to generate economic and environmental benefits The book also examines the policy and institutional settings needed to encourage large scale reforestation This includes a discussion of the place for incentives to encourage landholders to undertake particular types of reforestation and to reforest particular locations It also considers forms of governance that are likely to lead to an equitable sharing of the costs and benefits of forest restoration Nature & Faune journal, Volume 32, Issue 1

Food and Agriculture Organization of the United Nations, 2018-07-26 This edition of Nature Faune journal explores the science and innovations technical social and policy that can support the achievement of the African dream of restoring 100 million hectares of its degraded land Articles in this edition share experiences on challenges opportunities and successful restoration including farmer managed natural regeneration improved management of smallholder woodlots reforestation evergreen agriculture with intercropped trees and associated sustainable land management practices such as water harvesting and erosion control Africa s Great Green Wall is presented in this edition as a transformative model for rural communities sustainable development In particular the lessons learned from the Action Against Desertification programme funded by the European Union and implemented by FAO with partner countries and organizations are discussed paving a way towards the implementation of African Forest Landscape Restoration Initiative Initiatives to address land degradation and desertification trends in Africa promote sustainable land management and restoration of degraded forests and landscapes include Africa s Great Green Wall initiative and 2016 s African Forest Landscape Restoration Initiative AFR100 Most of the articles dwelt on how efforts to this end are being pursued Forest Landscape Restoration Stephanie Mansourian, John Parrotta, 2018-09-03 Forest landscape restoration FLR is a planned process that aims to regain ecological integrity and enhance human wellbeing in deforested or degraded landscapes The aim of this book is to explore options to better integrate the diverse dimensions spatial disciplinary sectoral and scientific of implementing FLR It demonstrates the value of an integrated and interdisciplinary approach to help implement FLR focusing specifically on four issues understanding the drivers of forest loss and degradation in the context of interdisciplinary responses for FLR learning from related integrated approaches governance issues related to FLR as an integrated process and the management creation and use of different sources of knowledge in FLR implementation The emphasis is on recognising the need to take human and institutional factors into consideration as well as the more obvious biophysical factors A key aim is to advance and accelerate the practice of FLR given its importance particularly in a world facing increasing environmental challenges notably from climate change The first section of the book presents the issue from an analytical and problem orientated viewpoint while later sections focus on solutions It will interest researchers and professionals in forestry ecology geography environmental governance and landscape studies

Forests, Business and Sustainability Rajat Panwar,Robert Kozak,Eric Hansen,2015-12-14 Forests are under tremendous pressure from human uses of all kinds and one of the most significant threats to their sustainability comes from commercial interests This book presents a comprehensive examination of the interactions between the forest products sector and the sustainability of forests It captures the most current sustainability concerns within the forestry sector and various sustainability oriented initiatives to address these Experts from around the world analyze interconnected topics including market mechanisms regulatory mechanisms voluntary actions and governance and outline their effectiveness potential and limitations By presenting a novel overview of the burgeoning field of business sustainability within the forestry sector this book paves a way forward in understanding what is working what is not working and what could potentially work to ensure sustainable business practices within the forestry sector

Forest Governance and Management Across Time Erland Mårild,Camilla Sandstrom,Annika Nordin,and Others,2017-09-22 The influence of the past and of the future on current time tradeoffs in the forest arena are particularly relevant given the long term successions in forest landscapes and the hundred years rotations in forestry Historically established path dependencies and conflicts determine our present situation and delimit what is possible to achieve Similarly future trends and desires have a large influence on decision making Nevertheless decisions about forest governance and management are always made in the present in the present time appraisal of the developed situation future alternatives and in negotiation between different perspectives interests and actors This book explores historic and future outlooks as well as current tradeoffs and methods in forest governance and management It emphasizes the generality and complexity with empirical data from Sweden and internationally It first investigates from a historical perspective how previous forest policies and discourses have influenced current forest governance and management Second it considers methods to explore alternative forest futures and how the results from such investigations may influence the present Third it examines current methods of balancing tradeoffs in decision making among ecosystem services Based on the findings the authors develop an integrated approach Reflexive Forestry to support exchange of knowledge and understandings to enable capacity building and the establishment of common ground Such societal agreements or what the authors elaborate as forest social contracts are sets of relational commitment between involved actors that may generate mutual action and a common directionality to meet contemporary challenges

Sustainable Forest Management John L. Innes, Anna V. Tikina, 2016-12-19 Sustainable Forest Management provides the necessary material to educate students about forestry and the contemporary role of forests in ecosystems and society This comprehensive textbook on the concept and practice of sustainable forest management sets the standard for practice worldwide Early chapters concentrate on conceptual aspects relating sustainable forestry management to international policy In particular they consider the concept of criteria and indicators and how this has determined the practice of forest management taken here to be the management of forested lands and of all ecosystems present on such lands Later chapters are more practical in focus concentrating on the management of the many values associated with forests Overall the book provides a major new synthesis which will serve as a textbook for undergraduates of forestry as well as those from related disciplines such as ecology or geography who are taking a course in forests or natural resource management

Forests and Globalization William Nikolakis, John Innes, 2014-09-19 The overarching contribution of this book is a review and assessment of the current and future impacts of globalization on the world's forests The work has been developed by the Resources for the Future Task Force for the International Union of Forest Research Organizations IUFRO Four key themes are addressed the effect of globalization on forests including future trade flows plantations as the primary source of forest products and its consequences including plant breeding and forest health the effect of new products such as bio products and markets on forests and the emergence of forest ecosystem services and their impact on the landscape and human communities These four themes are examined in detail to map out the impacts of these trends for forests throughout the world and at multiple scales and how forest research needs to be adapted to address these trends Overall the volume provides a major synthesis of current thinking and knowledge on the topic for advanced students as well as policy makers and professionals in the forest sector

Gender and Forests Carol J. Pierce Colfer, Bimbika Sijapati Basnett, Marlène Elias, 2016-04-14 This enlightening book brings together the work of gender and forestry specialists from various backgrounds and fields of research and action to analyse global gender conditions as related to forests Using a variety of methods and approaches they build on a spectrum of theoretical perspectives to bring depth and breadth to the relevant issues and address timely and under studied themes Focusing particularly on tropical forests the book presents both local case studies and global comparative studies from Africa Asia and Latin America as well as the US and Europe The studies range from personal histories of elderly American women's attitudes toward conservation to a combined qualitative quantitative international comparative study on REDD to a longitudinal examination of oil palm and gender roles over time in Kalimantan Issues are examined across scales from the household to the nation state and the global arena and reach back to the past to inform present and future considerations The collection will be of relevance to academics researchers policy makers and advocates with different levels of familiarity with gender issues in the field of forestry

Rainforest Tourism,

Conservation and Management Bruce Prideaux, 2014-09-19 Globally rainforests are under threat on numerous fronts including clearing for agriculture harvesting for timber and urban expansion Yet they have a crucial role in biodiversity conservation climate change mitigation and providing other ecosystem services As the term is used in this book rainforests include both temperate and tropical although the emphasis is on tropical rainforests Rainforests are also attractive tourist spaces and where they have been used as a tourism resource have generated significant income for local communities However not all use of rainforests as a tourism resource has been sustainable This book argues that sustainability must be the foundation on which tourism use of this complex but ultimately fragile ecosystem must be built upon It provides a multi disciplinary perspective incorporating rainforest science management and tourism issues The book is organized into four sections commencing with Rainforest Ecology and Management followed by People and Rainforests Opportunities for Rainforest Tourism Development and finally Threats to Rainforests Each major rainforest region is covered including the Amazon Central America Africa Australia and south east Asia in the context of a specific issue For example rainforests in Papua New Guinea are examined in the context of community based ecotourism development while the rainforests in Borneo are discussed in an examination of wildlife issues Other issues covered in this manner include governance empowerment issues for rainforest peoples and climate change

The context of REDD+ in Ethiopia Melaku Bekele, Yemiru Tesfaye, Zerihun Mohammed, Solomon Zewdie, Yibeltal Tebikew, Maria Brockhaus, Habtemariam Kassa, 2015-06-23 Specifically the paper identifies and analyzes several direct drivers of deforestation and forest degradation in Ethiopia including forest clearance for both subsistence and large scale agriculture illegal and unsustainable extraction of wood mainly for charcoal and firewood overgrazing and recurrent forest fires It also reviews underlying drivers including rapid population increase and the associated growing demand for land and energy extensive legal and institutional gaps including lack of stable and equitable forest tenure lack of stakeholder participation in forest management and benefit sharing schemes and weak law enforcement These drivers and the dominant actors behind them ranging from small scale subsistence farmers to national and global investors are discussed in the context of the political economy including the policy and institutional framework of the country The implications of the overall forest condition to the objectives and requirements of REDD are evaluated and key issues that need to be addressed for efficient effective and equitable implementation of REDD are discussed These key issues include reconciling the apparently contradictory policies and programs particularly those that negatively affect the forestry sector improving the forest tenure and governance system augmenting economic return from forests to communities and individuals creating more efficient and effective forest institutions at all levels and enhancing sectoral and regional coordination among implementing agencies

Community Forestry in Nepal Richard Thwaites, Robert Fisher, Mohan Poudel, 2017-12-11 Community forestry focuses on the link between forest resources and livelihoods and contributes to forest conservation and reforestation It is widespread in Nepal with a very high proportion of the rural population involved and is widely recognized as one of the most successful examples of community forestry in Asia Through a combination of literature reviews and original research this volume explores key experiences and outcomes of community forestry in Nepal over the last four decades as a model for improving forest management and supporting local livelihoods The book takes a critical approach recognizing successes especially in forest conservation and restoration along with mixed outcomes in terms of poverty reduction and benefits to forest users It recognizes the way that community forestry has continued to evolve to meet new challenges including the global challenges of climate change environmental degradation and conservation as well as national demographic and social changes due to large scale labour migration and the growing remittance economy In addition to examining the changes and responses the book explores ways that community forestry in Nepal might move forward Lessons from Nepal have relevance to community forestry and community based approaches to natural resource management around the world that are also experiencing global pressures and opportunities

Capturing Carbon and Conserving Biodiversity Ian R. Swingland,2013 For decades conservation has been based on the donor driven principle It hasn't worked For centuries environmental pollution or degradation has been addressed by the same attitude the Polluter Pays principle That hasn't worked either The cycle has to stop But while everyone talks about using a market driven approach few know how to do it Faced with the situation on the ground what do you do What is happening How can you engage a system so that it is self sustaining and the people self motivated This study explores how the growing market in carbon can help to conserve carbon based life forms It discusses how reducing global warming and saving biodiversity can both be achieved with the right market conditions The contributors include conservation biologists ecologists biologists economists lawyers community and tribal specialists financial specialists market makers environment specialists climatologists resource managers atmospheric scientists project developers and corporate fund managers

The Forest Landscape Restoration Handbook Jenny Rietbergen-McCracken, Stewart Maginnis, Alastair Sarre,2012-05-04 Forest loss and degradation have caused a decline in the quality of ecosystem services around the world But fixing the problem takes more than just planting trees practitioners increasingly realize that a landscape approach is essential This handbook authored and edited by international authorities in the field of forestry is the first practical guide to using forest landscape restoration FLR to repair the damage done to forest lands by poor land management practice Using research backed by respected institutions such as ITTO and the World Conservation Union IUCN it explains how to increase the resilience of landscapes and the communities they support through FLR The main aim of FLR is not to re-establish pristine forest even if this were possible rather the objective is to make landscapes more resilient and thereby keep future management options open It also aims to support communities as they strive to increase and sustain the benefits they derive from land management This book explains the concept of FLR and guides the reader through the steps that must be taken to put it into practice It is an indispensable aid for practitioners in all aspects of forestry and natural resource management

What Have Plants Ever Done for Us?

Stephen Harris, 2015 When did the British Government become the world's largest drugs pusher What tree is frequently used to treat cancer Which everyday condiment is the most widely traded spice on the planet Plants are an indispensable part of our everyday life From the coffee bush and grass for cattle which give us milk for our cappuccinos to the rubber tree which produces tyres for our cars our lives are inextricably linked to the world of plants Taking us on a chronological journey Stephen Harris identifies fifty plants that have been key to the development of the Western world discussing trade politics medicine travel and chemistry along the way Plants have provided paper and ink chemicals that could kill or cure vital sustenance and stimulants Some such as barley have been staples from earliest times others such as oil palm are newcomers to Western industry Moreover with time uses change beets which have been used variously as a treatment for leprosy source of sugar and animal feed are now showing potential as biofuels What may the future hold for mandrake or woad We remain dependent on plants for our food our fuel and our medicines Their effects on our lives as the stories in this wide ranging and engaging book demonstrate continue to be profound and often unpredictable
