The Bookseller, 1960      Last Stand In Singapore Graham Clayton, 2015-12-01 The story of 488 RNZAF Squadron during the fall of Singapore early in 1942 This gripping history has been written using the diaries letters photographs and personal reminiscences of members of 488 Squadron who were based just outside Singapore City and valiantly kept planes in the air against Japanese attacks until just before the city was overwhelmed The story of their day to day life at a time of crisis their hard work and their valour is eye opening The remaining ground crew were granted passage on one of the last ships to leave the island when the Japanese were just 1 kilometre from the city centre The ship had accommodation for 23 passengers yet there were approximately 3000 people crammed on board The overcrowding was the least of their worries      Last Flight from Singapore Arthur G. Donahue, 2013-10 This is a new release of the original 1943 edition      Battle Story: Singapore 1942 Chris Brown, 2012 The intention of this book is to provide an outline of the historical economic and military environment surrounding the campaign Page 7      Unsung Heroes Robin Keown, 2016 An account of the escape from Singapore by New Zealand's 488 Squadron ground crew along with other allied services and civilians in 1942      Fortress Kenneth Attiwill, 1960 Peter finds his demanding two year old brother an ever increasing problem      The Storm at Kalidjati Francis Hansen, 2017-07-18 This book follows the course of the post Singapore campaign from its beginnings to the bitter end woven around the story of 49th Bty 48th LAA Regiment and other Royal Artillery units to show how politics and military commands affected both ends of the scale top to bottom from the General to the Gunner from the Brigadier to the Bombadier What happened is often told in their own words and almost always taken from contemporary accounts It is the true story of the fiasco in the Far East following the Allies first attempt to set up a joint command to stop the all conquering Japanese as first Hong Kong then Malaya Singapore and the Philippines fell before them It was impossible to resource properly from the start and ABDACOM's collapse left thousands of British and Australian personnel on the island of Java with orders to fight to the last man and the last bullet The magic carpet out was only available for a select few The senior officers who had staffed ABDACOM generally departed and officers and men with particular skills or abilities that the Allies desperately needed were shipped away as the Japanese net closed around Java Generally those left behind were those who were expendable They were left under the command of the colonial Dutch commanders men who had never expected nor been trained to deal with such a situation Their defence plan for the island had two parts Firstly to try to use what ships and aircraft they had to stop the Japanese landing on Java in the first place The second post invasion plan was based on the assumption that there were only two beaches where the Japanese might land Given this the Allied forces would undertake a fighting retreat to delay the invaders so that any relief force that might be around would have time to turn up Failing this the last stand would be around the city of Bandoeng in the mountainous central spine of the island As plans go it was not particularly ambitious but given the circumstances and the forces at their disposal it was the best they could do The major flaw in this was that it relied on the Japanese landing on one or both of two beaches Unfortunately they also landed on a third only forty miles away by good roads from Kalidjati one of the two major airbases on the island It should have been obvious that such a facility so close to the coast would be a prime target for the enemy There was plenty of room there for their fighter and bomber aircraft and they could destroy the puny defence forces on Java within days And the airfield was also only a few miles from a road leading to Bandoeng a shorter route to the one the Dutch commanders hoped the invaders would take If the Japanese took Kalidjati the whole defence plan would be in ruins The loss of Kalidjati is the centrepiece and climax of this book Kalidjati was where it all went wrong and with Kalidjati lost Java was doomed What happened there on 1st March 1942 was a perfect storm when everything that could go wrong did go wrong It was a microcosm of the chaotic campaign that followed the fall of Singapore a hostile climate no knowledge of the local language no orders or intelligence from above lack of essential equipment stores and ammunition and incompetence indecisiveness and inadequate communications at all levels Many men paid a terrible price for their superiors failings in the flash flood that swept through the airfield that day     Last Flight From Singapore Arthur Gerald 1913-1942 Donahue,2021-09-09 This work has been selected by scholars as being culturally important and is part of the knowledge base of civilization as we know it This work is in the public domain in the United States of America and possibly other nations Within the United States you may freely copy and distribute this work as no entity individual or corporate has a copyright on the body of the work Scholars believe and we concur that this work is important enough to be preserved reproduced and made generally available to the public To ensure a quality reading experience this work has been proofread and republished using a format that seamlessly blends the original graphical elements with text in an easy to read typeface We appreciate your support of the preservation process and thank you for being an important part of keeping this knowledge alive and relevant     The Siege of Singapore Thean Soo Lim,1989     Last Flight from Singapore Arthur Gerald Donahue,1943 Romanlignende beretning om forfatterens oplevelser under luftoperationerne i Fjern sten under 2 verdenskrig     Last Stand Keith Douglass,2006 When a group of modern day Japanese samurai begins an assault on the high seas the only force standing between them and total victory is the might of Carrier Battle Group Fourteen in the 23rd and final book of this series Original     The Battle For Singapore Peter Thompson,2006-05-31 The true story of the the greatest defeat and largest capitulation in British military history The Fall of Singapore on 15 February 1942 is a military disaster of enduring fascination For the 60th anniversary of the liberation of the island Peter Thompson tells the explosive story of the Malayan campaign the siege of Singapore the ignominious surrender to a much smaller Japanese force and the Japanese occupation through the eyes of those who were there the soldiers of all nationalities and members of Singapore s beleaguered population An enthralling and perceptive account which never loses sight of the human cost of the tragedy Yorkshire Evening Post An insightful and dramatic analysis The Good Book Guide     We Shall Remember ,2022
