The New Dimensions of the European Landscapes R.H.G Jongman, 2005-05-09 The European Landscape is under stress of changing land use and a changing attitude of its users Globalization the disappearance of the iron curtain and the recent EU enlargement to 25 countries have changed the economic and environmental dimensions of Europe Europe is changing its face from a western and eastern part to one European Union and to fast connections between its centres of activity The rural and cultural heritage of Europe has to be adapted to cope with this change However its landscape is worth to be conserved as well because it represents the European history in the same way as castles and churches It even more represents the history of the common people because it has been the tradition of the rural population that made these landscapes It cannot be prevented that Europe is changing and it is good that Europe adapts to the new dimensions of the world We in Europe have to define what we think is important and what must be conserved what can be adapted to be used for new functions and what can be abolished because it has no value These decisions will determine the new dimensions of the European landscapes The Frontis Workshop on the New Dimensions of the European Landscape was held on 10 12 June 2002 Wageningen University and Research Centre organized this workshop aiming to develop visions on the landscape in Europe its development and design in the future and to strengthen the international network in landscape planning

Dynamic Patterns Karen M'Closkey, Keith VanDerSys, 2017-03-27 Dynamic Patterns explores the role of patterns in designed landscapes Patterns are inherently relational and the search for and the creation of patterns are endemic to many scientific and artistic endeavors Recent advances in optical tools sensors and computing have expanded our understanding of patterns as a link between natural and cultural realms Looking beyond the surface manifestation of pattern M Closkey and VanDerSys delve into a multifaceted examination that explores new avenues for engagement with patterns using digital media Examining the theoretical implications of pattern making they probe the potential of patterns to conjoin landscape s utilitarian and aesthetic functions With full color throughout and over one hundred and twenty images Dynamic Patterns utilizes work from a wide range of artists and designers to demonstrate how novel modes of visualization have facilitated new ways of seeing patterns and therefore of understanding and designing landscapes

Landscape Theory in Design Susan Herrington, 2016-12-08 Phenomenology Materiality Cybernetics Palimpsest Cyborgs Landscape Urbanism Typology Semiotics Deconstruction the minefield of theoretical ideas that students must navigate today can be utterly confusing and how do these theories translate to the design studio Landscape Theory in Design introduces theoretical ideas to students without the use of jargon or an assumption of extensive knowledge in other fields and in doing so links these ideas to the processes of design In five thematic chapters Susan Herrington explains the theoretic groundings of the theory of philosophy why it matters to design an example of the theory in a work of landscape architecture from the twentieth and twenty first centuries debates surrounding the theory particularly as they elaborate modern and postmodern thought and primary readings that can be read as companions to her text An extensive glossary of theoretical terms also adds a vital contribution to students comprehension of theories relevant to the design of landscapes and gardens Covering the design of over 40 landscape architects architects and designers in 111 distinct projects from 20 different countries Landscape Theory in Design is essential reading for any student of the landscape

Measuring Landscapes Andre Botequilha Leitao,Joseph Miller,Jack Ahern,Kevin McGarigal,2012-09-26 This practical handbook bridges the gap between those scientists who study landscapes and the planners and conservationists who must then decide how best to preserve and build environmentally sound habitats Until now only a small portion of the relevant science has influenced the decision making arenas where the future of our landscapes is debated and decided The authors explain specific tools and concepts to measure a landscape s structure form and change over time Metrics studied include patch richness class area proportion patch number and density mean patch size shape radius of gyration contagion edge contrast nearest neighbor distance and proximity These measures will help planners and conservationists make better land use decisions for the future

Forests and Landscapes Stephen Richard John Sheppard,Howard W. Harshaw,2001-01-01 Forests are an important component in the visual appeal of landscapes There is an increasing recognition of the importance of this subject among foresters and environmental scientists Increasingly forest resource managers must consider the aesthetic consequences of timber harvesting operations and management plans This book is the first to address this subject area It consists of 15 chapters and is divided into four parts It brings together not only foresters and ecologists but also landscape architects psychologists and philosophers It should therefore attract a wide readership Contributors are leading research workers in their subjects from Canada the USA and UK

Landscape Perspectives Marc Antrop,Veerle Van Eetvelde,2017-12-19 Climb a mountain and experience the landscape Try to grasp its holistic nature Do not climb alone but with others and share your experience Be sure the ways of seeing the landscape will be very different We experience the landscape with all senses as a complex dynamic and hierarchically structured whole The landscape is tangible out there and simultaneously a mental reality Several perspectives are obvious because of language culture and background Many disciplines developed to study the landscape focussing on specific interest groups and applications Gradually the holistic way of seeing became lost This book explores the different perspectives on the landscape in relation to its holistic nature We start from its multiple linguistic meanings and a comprehensive overview of the development of landscape research from its geographical origins to the wide variety of today

s specialised disciplines and interest groups Understanding the different perspectives on the landscapes and bringing them together is essential in transdisciplinary approaches where the landscape is the integrating concept

Landscape Interfaces Hannes Palang, G. Fry, 2013-06-29 This book has been initiated by the workshop on Cultural heritage in changing landscapes held during the IALE International Association for Landscape Ecology European Conference that started in Stockholm Sweden in June 200 1 and continued across the Baltic to Tartu Estonia in July The papers presented at the workshop have been supported by invited contributions that address a wider range of the cultural heritage management issues and research interfaces required to study cultural landscapes The book focuses on landscape interfaces Both the ones we find out there in the landscape and the ones we face while doing research We hope that this book helps if not to make use of these interfaces then at least to map them and bridge some of the gaps between them The editors wish to thank those people helping us to assemble this collection First of all our gratitude goes to the authors who contributed to the book We would like to thank Marc Antrop Mats Widgren Roland Gustavsson Marion Potschin Barbel Tress Tiina Peil Helen Soovali and Anu Printsman for their quick and helpful advice opinions and comments during the different stages of editing Helen Soovali and Anu Printsman together with Piret Pungas thank you for technical help
