Language Inclusive Education Exploring Listening:

The Language of Inclusive Education Elizabeth Walton, 2015-12-22 The Language of Inclusive Education is an insightful text which considers the writing speaking reading and hearing of inclusive education Based on the premise that humans use language to construct their worlds and their realities this book is concerned with how language works to determine what we know and understand about issues related to inclusion in education Using a variety of analytical tools the author exposes language at work in academic and popular literature and in policy documents Areas of focus include What inclusive education means and how it is defined How metaphor works to position inclusive education How textbooks construct inclusive education How we use language to build what we understand to be difference and disability with particular reference to ADHD and Asperger's Syndrome Listening to children and young people as a means to promote inclusion in schools Woven through this volume is the argument for a more critical awareness of how we use language in the field that we call inclusive education This book is a must read for any individual studying practicing or an interest in inclusion and exploring the associations with language

Handbook of Research on Inclusive and Accessible Education Maguvhe, Mbulaheni Obert, Mpya, Nwacoye Gladness, Sadiki, Marubini Christinah, 2024-02-16 In the vast expanse of education a pervasive issue remains in the marginalization and lack of visibility of individuals with disabilities Despite a strong desire for inclusivity recent research suggests that fewer than 5% of children with disabilities in 51 countries across sub Saharan Africa and South Asia are enrolled in primary school This exclusion is not solely in enrollment numbers even those who manage to attend face learning environments ill equipped to adapt to their needs leading to further isolation Girls with disabilities in particular endure heightened vulnerability to abuse reflecting a systemic failure to provide an environment that fosters equality dignity and respect for all The Handbook of Research on Inclusive and Accessible Education emerges as an inspiration for change providing a profound solution to the persistent issue of exclusion The book encapsulates a collective effort to reimagine education It advocates for a paradigm shift moving away from the confinement of special schools and towards inclusive mainstream settings By addressing controversies sharing successes and outlining prospects the book serves as a comprehensive guide for special school governing bodies curriculum advisors university lecturers and all stakeholders committed to reshaping education

Inclusive Education isn't Dead, it Just Smells Funny Roger Slee, 2018-05-15

Positing inclusive education as a cornerstone of democracy social equality and effective education this unique book offers a timely response to the recent conservative backlash which has dismissed inclusive education as a field of research and practice which has become outdated and unfit for purpose With profound insight and clarity Slee delves deep into the architecture of modern day schooling to show how inclusive education has been misappropriated and subverted manifesting itself in a culture of ableism an ethic of competitive individualism and the illusion of special educational needs A unique book in both form and content the author draws on music and art theory on real life observations and global experience contemporary education policy and practice to reject calls for a return to segregated schooling and put forward a compelling counterargument for schooling which models the kind of world we want our children to live in a world of authentic rather than divided communities A timely response to a modern day debate with global relevance Inclusive Education isn't Dead it Just Smells Funny will be of interest to researchers and educators policy makers parents and practitioners with an interest in inclusive education

Bloomsbury CPD Library: Supporting Children with Special Educational Needs and Disabilities Cherryl Drabble, Bloomsbury CPD Library, 2016-09-22

According to the most recent SEND Code of Practice every teacher is a teacher of children with special educational needs and disabilities and yet teachers often receive little or no training in this area Despite their best intentions they are therefore often ill equipped to rise to the challenge of helping their students achieve the best possible educational outcomes This comprehensive resource will equip primary and secondary teachers and SENDCos with the training and skills they need to fully support children with SEND in mainstream classrooms Cherryl Drabble draws on her vast experience as a CPD leader NQT mentor and her many years of working with SEND to share guidance practical activities and strategies for evaluating and strengthening your practice and that of your colleagues The book provides a set of ready to use training plans accompanied by PowerPoint slides available to download online for free so you can train your colleagues in this essential area and ensure the best support possible for students with SEND across your school In total the book offers over 50 hours of CPD equating to a cost of less than 50p per hour of training

Cultivating Inclusive Practices in Contemporary K-12 Education O'Connor Jr., Johnny R., 2018-10-12

Due to state and federal policies there has been an increased emphasis on educating students with disabilities along with their nondisabled peers This can significantly impact the way that educators view instructional design as well as influence the academic program planning of school districts There is an apparent need for resources that provide additional insight and perspective into plans that facilitate these types of programs Cultivating Inclusive Practices in Contemporary K 12 Education is an essential reference source that discusses comprehensive methods for teaching students across a broad spectrum of capabilities The chapters within extend the knowledge base of inclusion by encompassing a variety of elements

necessary for training and organizational development ensuring that each student is placed within his her least restrictive environment Featuring research on topics such as educational environments support frameworks and teaching strategies this book is ideally designed for educators administrators policymakers consultants and academicians seeking coverage on comprehensive methods for teaching students across a broad spectrum of capabilities Inclusive Education for the 21st Century Linda Graham,2020-07-16 Placing a student on the autism spectrum in a busy classroom with a pair of noise cancelling headphones and an aide to deal with the inevitable meltdowns is often done in the name of inclusion but this is integration and not inclusive How can teachers and schools create genuinely inclusive classrooms that meet the needs of every student Research evidence indicates the strategies that make schools inclusive for students with disability benefit all students Yet many schools are still operating under twentieth century models that disadvantage students especially those with disability Inclusive Education for the 21st Century provides a rigorous overview of the foundational principles of inclusive education and the barriers to access and participation It explores evidence based strategies to support diverse learners including specific changes in curriculum pedagogy and assessment practices and the use of data It addresses the needs of children with physical sensory and intellectual disabilities as well as those with complex learning profiles including mental health issues With chapters from leading experts from Australia and the UK Inclusive Education for the 21st Century addresses common issues in both primary and secondary schools Underpinned throughout by research evidence it is designed to assist educators to develop the deep knowledge required to make inclusive education a reality in all schools

Narrative and Metaphor in Education Michael Hanne,Anna A. Kaal,2018-12-07 Human beings rely equally on narrative or storytelling and metaphor or analogy for making sense of the world Narrative and Metaphor in Education integrates the two perspectives of narrative and metaphor in educational theory and practice at every level from pre school to lifelong civic education Bringing together outstanding educational researchers the book interweaves for the first time the rich strand of current research about how narrative may be used productively in education with more fragmentary research on the role of metaphor in education and invites readers to look both ways The book consists of research by 40 academics from many countries and disciplines describing and analysing the intricate connections between narrative and metaphor as they manifest themselves in many fields of education including concepts of education teacher identity and reflective practice teaching across cultures teaching science and history using digital and visual media in teaching fostering reconciliation in a postcolonial context special needs education civic and social education and educational policy making It is unique in combining study of the narrative perspective and the metaphor perspective and in exploring such a comprehensive range of topics in education Narrative and Metaphor in Education will be of great interest to academics and researchers in the fields of education and educational policy as well as teacher educators practising and future teachers It will also appeal to psychologists sociologists applied linguists and communications specialists Social, Educational, and Cultural

Inclusion as Social Justice , 2020-07-13 Inclusion as Social Justice Theory and Practice in African Higher Education discusses the extent to which education enables equitable social access for diverse student populations in the context of historical sidelining of indigenous knowledge systems and epistemic injustice of colonial epistemologies in Africa The goal is to theoretically unpack the social differentials and micro inequities that practically disempower diverse students in African higher education To this end the book features aspects of diversity such as gender rurality refugee status and disability in general with hearing and visual impairment as prime illustrations It is argued that despite the ethically defensible and socially just policy and structural interventions for transforming higher education meant to redress the legacy of colonial injustices urban universities present epistemological equity challenges for students from rural communities Similarly the opaque fate of students displaced from their home countries and currently studying in universities in host countries is analyzed The book illustrates the access case for gender and disability in higher education using empirical studies and examples from Tanzania Kenya Ethiopia Zimbabwe and South Africa Challenges facing students in higher education in these countries and the strategies the students devise to succeed in the institutions are analyzed Mediating Learning in Higher Education in Africa, 2021-05-25 Historically African higher education teaching and learning have relied on Western models paradigms assumptions concepts and procedures among other research related aspects Western hegemony and ideology has influenced and continues to influence the epistemologies and both the methods and outcome of higher education research The connection between teaching and learning is that teaching generates new forms of learning and learning challenges methods of teaching Western claims to universality objectivity and neutrality have dominated research paradigms in African higher education institutions to the detriment of alternative approaches and conceptions of knowledge Methods aligned to African teaching and learning are often unrecognised and thus underutilised despite calls for the mantra for decolonial research methods What are the African indigenous ways of teaching and learning How are they related to the present African university These puzzling questions provoke the minds of scholars on Africa to confront the discourse on decolonisation of higher education as they engage head on and interrogate contemporary teaching and learning methods Mediating Learning in Higher Education in Africa From Critical Thinking to Social Justice Pedagogies provides critical reflections to some of the above questions that affect African Higher Education as it seeks to transform itself and provide directions for the future

Professionalisation of Students with Disabilities into the Teaching Profession in South African Higher Education Sibonokuhle Ndlovu, 2024-07-15 To solve the global challenges of the present society contemporary scholarship requires that all diverse social groups are included in knowledge production through education Professionalisation is one way in which diverse social groups can engage in knowledge production in higher education While all kinds of professionalisation produce citizens who can contribute to the social political and economic development the teaching profession is foundational as most people have come through the hands of teachers from basic to higher education Teaching has been referred to as the noblest of professions because it does not only require acquisition of knowledge and skills but high levels of professionalism dignity honour and the ability to lead by example While inclusion of all diverse social groups is topical after attainment of independence in African countries largely and in South Africa particularly professionalisation of students with disabilities into the teaching profession and in settings for integrated learning has received little attention from scholars in the disability field Professionalisation of Students with Disabilities into the Teaching Profession in South African Higher Education critically reflects on what affordances and challenges face students with disabilities in professionalisation into the teaching professions and on how students are socialised to identify with the profession It does so from the lived experiences of students with disabilities the academics who teach them the support staff and the author's nuanced understanding of the professionalisation the teaching profession and transformation to include all in the South African context of higher education

Learning foreign languages: experiences of persons with disabilities and special educational needs and their teachers Ewa Domagala-Zysk, Jitka Sedláčková, Katarzyna

Karpińska-Szaj,2025-09-22 In many parts of the world it is not a person's native language but a foreign one which is used for education work or entertainment This is true for many European countries whose inhabitants need to learn English as a foreign language if they want to participate in education or among diverse fields in the workforce In other parts of the world it might be Spanish Hindi Mandarin Chinese Arabic or other languages which will be serving a similar role This need for learning a second language is understood well in many educational programs including those for students with special educational needs However to date there is not much research of the experiences of persons with diverse additional needs as learners of foreign languages The most robust literature covers the field of additional language acquisition among Deaf and Hard of Hearing DHH people cf Domaga a Zy k Podlowska Moritz 2021 and others Goals methods and forms of teaching are fairly well described and DHH students needs have been documented extensively
