Developing Thinking and Understanding in Young Children Sue Robson, 2019-09-10 The third edition of this essential book presents a comprehensive and accessible overview of contemporary theory and research about young children's developing thinking and understanding Sue Robson's detailed exploration of the ideas and theories is enlivened by transcripts of children's activities and conversations taken from practice and contemporary research helping readers to make links between theory research and practice This new edition brings together up to date research into neuroscience and digital learning combining theory with discussions for best practice Each chapter also includes ideas for further reading and suggested activities Key chapters explore the following Theories of cognitive development The social emotional and cultural contexts of children's thinking Developments in brain science and young children The central roles of play and language in young children's developing thinking Children's conceptual development visual thinking and thinking in music This book is crucial reading for all those interested in how young children develop through their thoughts and actions including students of Early Years studies teachers and early years practitioners Contemporary Perspectives on Research on Child Care in Early Childhood Education Olivia Saracho, 2021-04-01 Child care environments have received extensive research

attention by those interested in understanding how participating in nonparental child care might influence the children's development and learning Throughout the United States US Census Bureau 2011 and Europe Organization for Economic Cooperation and Development 2006 a large number of young children are cared for outside of the home by non-parental adults Young children's nonparental care is commonly referred to as child care and is provided to children whose ages range from birth to 12 years of age The provision of child care services has become an increasingly important part of early childhood education In fact the United Nations Children's Fund 2019 states that a large majority of children worldwide spend at least some of their week in child care such arrangements include center care family child care in-home child care relative child care and supplemental child care Child care researchers have been conducting studies to understand how participating in nonparental child care might influence the children's development and learning outcomes There are more than enough child care studies to make numerous major inferences For example research outcomes show that child care quality seems to be more influential than either the kind of child care or age of admission in determining the children's development and learning The adults' child care affects the quality in child care In the environment adults who are caring for the children have the opportunity to effectively assume both nurturing and instructional roles to help young children cultivate their social and cognitive abilities The teachers' effectiveness is related to their individual characteristics such as formal education, specialized training and the classroom environment However the majority of the studies show that both family and quality of child care have the most significant effects on the children's development and learning Therefore the concept of child care has heavily influenced modern views Researchers, scholars and educators are beginning to understand the current foundations based on theoretical frameworks that contribute to the purposes of the child care in the United States and Europe The contents of the child care volume reflect the major shifts in the views of these early childhood researchers, scholars and educators in relation to research outcomes on child care its historical roots the role of child care in early childhood education and its relationship to theory, research and practice

Early Childhood Curriculum for All Learners

Ann M. Selmi, Raymond J. Gallagher, Eugenia R. Mora-Flores, 2014-08-12 Early Childhood Curriculum for All Learners Integrating Play and Literacy Activities is designed to teach early childhood professionals about the latest research on play and early literacy and then to show them practical methods for adapting this research to everyday classroom practices that will encourage the development of learning skills The authors link solid play-based research to specific developmentally appropriate practices By combining these two areas the text demonstrates that academic learning and play activities are highly compatible and that children can and do develop academic skills through play In addition the text focuses on socio-dramatic play a recently acknowledged essential aspect of child-initiated play interactions It provides specific strategies that link these interactive behaviors with the early academic skills needed for the initial primary grades Implementation of the information presented in this book will enable children to experience a richer transition into primary education classrooms

The Secret of Natural Readers Ada Anbar, 2004-10-30 It has been recognized since the 1980s that literacy begins to develop a long time before formal schooling begins In today's literate environment children start learning to read much as they learn to speak through playful print interactions with their parents older siblings or other adults beginning in year one A sharp debate about the best approach to developing early childhood literacy is now brewing between reading instruction experts who tend to advocate direct instruction of skills and preschool educators who know that preschoolers learn best through play This book provides a model for action that may help to settle the debate Interactions that involve the printed word occur spontaneously between young children and adults in the context of daily life activities This is true to a greater or lesser degree in essentially all socioeconomic and cultural environments Recognizing the critical importance of the early years for the development of literacy the National Association for the Education of Young Children NAEYC and the International Reading Association IRA formulated in 1998 a joint position statement regarding early literacy That statement included a set of general recommendations for teaching practice But following the Bush administration's No Child Left Behind legislation of January 2002 and the establishment of the Reading First and Early Reading First programs early childhood educators are now under heavy pressure to be more specific and to issue standards or shared expectations for the literacy development of all children below kindergarten age Utilizing the actual experiences of six preschool children The Secret of Natural Readers documents the process of reading development through stories of their early years The author discusses the implications of natural reading development and its feasibility among preschoolers from different segments of the population She also spells out for parents and early childhood teachers critical information on how preschool children should learn to read
