Textbooks in American Society Philip G. Altbach, Gail P. Kelly, Hugh G. Petrie, Lois Weis, 1991-09-27 In recent years textbooks have been widely criticized for low standards lack of imaginativeness and insensitivity to racial and gender issues Increasingly they are cited as another weak link in American public education This book goes beyond the headlines to examine how textbooks are produced how they are selected and what pressures are placed on textbook authors and publishers The book focuses on the relationship of the textbook to the educational system and includes important issues such as the politics of textbook policy the determinants of textbook content the role of textbooks in educational reform and the process of selection at the state level The authors offer current research on textbook policy including perspectives from those directly involved with textbooks from several thoughtful analyses by textbook editors and publishers to the views of California s Superintendent of Public Instruction

(Re)Constructing Memory: Education, Identity, and Conflict Michelle J. Bellino, James H. Williams, 2017-02-08 How do schools protect young people and call on the youngest citizens to respond to violent conflict and division operating outside and sometimes within school walls What kinds of curricular representations of conflict contribute to the construction of national identity and what kinds of encounters challenge presumed boundaries between us and them Through contemporary and historical case studies drawn from Cambodia Egypt Northern Ireland Peru and Rwanda among others this collection explores how societies experiencing armed conflict and its aftermath imagine education as a space for forging collective identity peace and stability and national citizenship In some contexts the erasure of conflict and the homogenization of difference are central to shaping national identities and attitudes In other cases collective memory of conflict functions as a central organizing frame through which citizenship and national identity are re constructed with embedded messages about who belongs and how social belonging is achieved The essays in this volume illuminate varied and complex inter relationships between education conflict and national identity while accounting for ways in which policymakers teachers youth and community members replicate resist and transform conflict through everyday interactions in educational spaces

Narrating the Soviet Era in Russian School History Textbooks

Olga Konkka,2025-09-03 This study focuses on how Russian history textbooks published between 1992 and 2021 dealt with the topic of the Soviet period 1917 1991 Representations of this part of Russia s past in school manuals have provoked vivid debates and bolstered government intervention in the field while a gradual shift towards a less critical narrative of the USSR in more recent textbooks is often presented as directed by Vladimir Putin This study combines research into these texts and inquiry into those who write publish approve or criticize them Bringing together these perspectives provides a more complex view of school textbooks as final products of both top down and bottom up processes This volume is aimed at postgraduates researchers and academics specializing in Soviet history contemporary Russian politics and society and history education and textbooks
