Chapters 36-49: Responding to Literature: Point of View

Point of view refers to the perspective from which the reader views the story. Point of view comes across in the way that a story is narrated.

- Sometimes, one character is telling us the story: "I watched as Thomas was led to the Slammer to begin his day of punishment." If a character is telling us the story as they see it and they are using the words "I" and "we" frequently, it is called FIRST PERSON POINT OF VIEW.
- Sometimes, the narrator is directly addressing the reader: "You should never count your chickens before they hatch." The word "you" is used frequently. This is called SECOND PERSON POINT OF VIEW, it is often used when giving instructions. It is not often used in fiction.
- Often the narrator is telling us the story from above. They aren't a character in the story but are describing the action for us. The words "he," "she," and "they" are used frequently. If this is the case, then it is called THIRD PERSON POINT OF VIEW. But there are TWO versions of this.
 - If the narrator only knows the feelings and emotions of one character, it is called THIRD PERSON LIMITED. We are limited to only one perspective. Thomas wondered why the Glade's doors shut at night. This is in contrast to...
 - THIRD PERSON OMNISCENT. This is where we get to see into the minds of many characters and the narrator bounces back and forth between many different characters. Thomas wondered why the Glade's doors shut at night. Alby was always worried that the doors would shut with him on the outside.

In your opinion, from what of Point of View is The Maze Runner told?
