Voice Leading David Huron, 2016-08-26 An accessible scientific explanation for the traditional rules of voice leading including an account of why listeners find some musical textures more pleasing than others Voice leading is the musical art of combining sounds over time In this book David Huron offers an accessible account of the cognitive and perceptual foundations for this practice Drawing on decades of scientific research including his own award winning work Huron offers explanations for many practices and phenomena including the perceptual dominance of the highest voice chordal tone doubling direct octaves embellishing tones and the musical feeling of sounds leading somewhere Huron shows how traditional rules of voice leading align almost perfectly with modern scientific accounts of auditory perception He also reviews pertinent research establishing the role of learning and enculturation in auditory and musical perception Voice leading has long been taught with reference to Baroque chorale style part writing yet there exist many more musical styles and practices The traditional emphasis on Baroque part writing understandably leaves many musicians wondering why they are taught such an archaic and narrow practice in an age of stylistic diversity Huron explains how and why Baroque voice leading continues to warrant its central pedagogical status Expanding beyond choral style writing Huron shows how established perceptual principles can be used to compose analyze and critically understand any kind of acoustical texture from tune and accompaniment songs and symphonic orchestration to jazz combo arranging and abstract electroacoustic music Finally he offers a psychological explanation for why certain kinds of musical textures are more likely to be experienced by listeners as pleasing Proust, Mann, Joyce in the Modernist Context, Second Edition Gerald

Renowned poets and scholars address the question of how poetry sounds and signifies in different contexts. Soundings in Context brings together the second and third University at Buffalo Robert Creeley Lectures in Poetry and Poetics by the renowned literary and textual scholar Jerome McGann and the innovative prolific Canadian poet, essayist, and novelist Lisa Robertson respectively. The volume's first half presents McGann's Reading I Mean: Articulating Poetry as a Multi-Player Game with responses by Nikolaus Wasmoen and Steve McCaffery; the second presents Lisa Robertson's Doux Chantier: Refrain for a Nightingale with responses by Shannon Maguire and Liz Howard. Initially given at different moments and since revised, the pieces considered in the lectures range widely, moving from the Romantics and medieval troubadour poetry to T. S. Eliot, Jackson Mac Low, Jacques Roubaud, and far beyond. Still, they are collectively concerned with questions of voice, recitation, and reception in different contexts, with sonic patterning and its modes of significance, and with foregrounding an embodied experience of oral and written language as opposed to its interpretation. McGann, Robertson, and their interlocutors all propose affective, pragmatic approaches to poetry that allow it to surface as materially formative, alive, and lived. Reading their contributions together offers an opportunity to see how these values present themselves in differing cultures of poetic scenography across space and time.
