Making a Living, Making a Difference Maria Ågren,2016-11-01 What do people do all day What did women and men do to make a living in early modern Europe and what did their work mean As this book shows the meanings depended both on the worker and on the context With an innovative analytic method that is yoked to a specially built database of source materials this book revises many received opinions about the history of gender and work in Europe The applied verb oriented method finds the work verbs that appear incidentally in a wide variety of early modern sources and then analyzes the context in which they appear By tying information technologies and computer assisted analysis to the analytic powers both quantitative and qualitative of professional historians the method gets much closer to a participatory observation of the micro patterns of early modern life than was once believed possible

This book directly addresses a number of broad problems often debated by historians of gender and early modern Europe First it discusses the problem of assessing more accurately the incidence character and division of work Second it analyzes the configurations of work and human difference Third it deals with the extent to which work practices created notions of difference gender difference but also other forms of difference and conversely to what extent work practices contributed to notions of sameness and gender convergence Finally it studies the impact of processes of change Drawing on sources from Sweden the authors show the importance of multiple employment the openness of early modern households the significance of marriage and marital status the gendered nature of specific tasks and the ways in which state formation and commercialization were entangled in people s everyday lives Schools Making a Difference Martin Thrupp,1999-05-16

Does an effective school really come about through the actions of teachers and school leaders or does it also require an advantaged student intake This question reflects a longstanding research debate about whether or not the social class mix of a school s student intake has much effect on individual achievement Schools Making a Difference Let s Be Realistic presents new evidence which suggests that school mix is likely to be important because of the way many school processes are deeply influenced by student intake characteristics Low socioeconomic schools face numerous intake related constraints which make them highly resistant to improvement efforts By suggesting that failing schools are often overwhelmed rather than ineffective this book provides a sympathetic reappraisal of the performance of teachers and school leaders in such schools It also offers a critical response to the often unrealistic claims of the school effectiveness and school improvement movement and a fresh critique of market reforms in education Making a Difference Honglin Chen,Ken Cruickshank,2009-01-23 The rapid worldwide growth in migration asylum seekers and refugees and reactions to this the expansion of media and technology political and economic changes at international and local levels are both challenges and opportunities for research in applied linguistics This book presents 23 articles by key researchers exploring the ways in which applied linguistics can play a role making a difference in people s lives It is a timely publication when access to powerful discourses is increasingly an issue for many of the world s populations The book showcases the contribution of applied linguists working in such areas as language teaching and learning policy development discourse analysis language assessment language development and bilingualism in the UK Asia and Australasia The book is aimed at teachers teacher educators undergraduate and postgraduate students who are working in the areas of the applied linguistics and language education but also to anyone with an interest in language and the impact that it has on our lives The whole idea is that so many of us live our lives applying linguistics and yet we don t even think about it Shirley Brice Heath in Heath and Kramsch 2004 82 Individuals Institutions and the Uses of Literacy Shirley Brice Heath and Claire Kramsch in Conversation Journal of Applied Linguistics 1 1 75 94 Making a Difference Ian M. Mette,Dwayne Ray Cormier,Yanira Oliveras,2023-09-22 Making A Difference aims to equip educators with a framework for providing instructional leadership that ensures culturally responsive instruction

Changing what is taught how it is taught and who it is intended for is one of the most effective ways of contributing to a more progressive equitable and inclusive society This requires instructional leaders to mitigate harmful educational practices from prepackaged curricula and teacher evaluation systems Through specific structures schools can support teachers to become culturally responsive instructors through formative feedback structures that can transform schools from systems of oppression into systems of opportunity
