Solid Waste Management Elizabeth M. Thomas-Hope, 1998 Solid waste has become a major consequence of development and modernization yet some of the greatest challenges to its management are felt most keenly in the developing countries This is part of the larger paradox of development namely that factors that create the most intransigent problems currently facing the developing countries are invariably those which derive from development itself Introduction This volume presents a collection of papers which with perspectives from Africa and the Caribbean raise critical issues in the management of solid waste It is intended to offer a basis for discussion among the wide range of disciplines and sectors involved in solid waste management and suggest directions for future work both in the theoretical and practical dimensions of the challenge with which developing countries are confronted

The Anthropocene David R. Butler, 2021-12-21 This book is devoted to the Anthropocene the period of unprecedented human impacts on Earth's environmental systems and illustrates how Geographers envision the concept of the Anthropocene This edited volume illustrates that geographers have a diverse perspective on what the Anthropocene is and represents The chapters also show that geographers do not feel it necessary to identify only one starting point for the temporal onset of the Anthropocene Several starting points are suggested and some authors support the concept of a time transgressive Anthropocene Chapters in this book are organized into six sections but many of them transcend easy categorization and could have fit into two or even three different sections Geographers embrace the concept of the Anthropocene while defining it and studying it in a variety of ways that clearly show the breadth and diversity of the discipline This book will be of great value to scholars researchers and students interested in geography environmental humanities environmental studies and anthropology The chapters in this book were originally published as a special issue of the journal Annals of the American Association of Geographers Nutrition Education Materials Holly Berry Irving,1987
