Production of Disaster and Recovery in Post-Earthquake Haiti Juliana Svistova, Loretta Pyles, 2018-02-21 Natural disasters have long been seen as naturally generated events but as scientific technological and social knowledge of disasters has become more sophisticated the part that people and systems play in disaster events has become more apparent Production of Disaster and Recovery in Post Earthquake Haiti demonstrates how social processes impact disasters as they unfold through the distribution of power and resources the use of discourses and images of disaster and the economic and social systems and relations which underlie affected communities The authors show how these processes played out in post earthquake Haiti to set in motion the mechanics of the disaster industrial complex to re produce disasters and recovery rather than bring sustainable change The book reveals that disaster and recovery rhetoric helped create fertile conditions for neoliberal disaster governance militarized and digital humanitarianism non profiteering and disaster opportunism to flourish while further disenfranchising marginalized populations However the Haiti earthquake as is the case with all disaster sites was ripe with mutual aid community building and collective action all of which further local resilience The authors seek to re construct dominant discourses policies and practices to advance equitable participatory partnerships with local community actors and propose a praxis for a people s recovery as an action oriented framework for resisting the transnational disaster industrial machinery The authors argue for new synergies in policymaking and program development that can respond to emergencies and plan for true long term sustainable development after disasters that focuses as much on humans and the natural world as it does on economic progress Production of Disaster and Recovery in Post Earthquake Haiti will be of great interest to students and scholars of disaster studies humanitarian studies development studies Haitian studies geography and environmental studies as well as to non governmental organizations humanitarians and policymakers
