Health Disparities Respiratory Medicine Gerald:

Health Disparities in Respiratory Medicine Lynn B. Gerald, Cristine E. Berry, 2015-12-14 This book discusses health disparities in respiratory medicine and suggests methods to reduce them. In the United States, health disparities are well documented in the care of patients with respiratory disorders, particularly among minorities who often have higher rates of disease and poorer health outcomes. Similarly, differences in health and health outcomes exist between differing socioeconomic groups, with lower income groups generally having poorer health and higher rates of chronic illness. Health Disparities in Respiratory Medicine investigates these differing outcomes through the complex connections between access and quality of treatment available to these groups. Chapters are organized around either causes of diseases or types of care, including tobacco smoke exposure, environmental air quality, acute respiratory distress syndrome, chronic obstructive pulmonary disease, and end of life care. This volume is an ideal resource for pulmonologists, health care administrators, and policy makers who aim to understand disparities in respiratory medicine and take steps to improve the differences among groups.

Global Epidemiology of Cancer Jahangir Moini, Nicholas G. Avgeropoulos, Craig Badolato, 2022-03-22 GLOBAL EPIDEMIOLOGY OF CANCER Cancer is the second highest cause of death in the United States and a leading cause of death globally. Our goals are to discuss the global epidemiology of various cancers with detailed information on their prevalence, incidence, and clinical considerations. Epidemiology is the key to understanding the mortality and morbidity of cancer and how we can prevent, diagnose, and treat the disease. Prevention of cancer is essential for saving lives. Prevalence and incidence of cancer are key factors that each government and population must be aware of. Advances in the study of cancer occur on a regular basis, and this book provides the latest insights about relationships between the disease and stem cells, tumorigenesis, molecular interactions, pathways, channels, and immunity. Global Epidemiology of Cancer: Diagnosis and Treatment meets the needs of readers by providing current information about epidemiology, including molecular epidemiology, diagnosis, and treatment. Providing logical step-by-step information on various cancers, this book consolidates all of the most up-to-date information and data from verified studies on all different types of cancers in the United States and throughout the world. Chapters are presented so that each includes an overview, clinical manifestations, epidemiology, pathophysiology, etiology, and risk factors, diagnosis, treatment, prevention, and prognosis. Global Epidemiology of Cancer: Diagnosis and Treatment will be invaluable to graduate and postgraduate students, including medical students, nurses, physician assistants, residents in oncology, public health students, and allied health students. Chronic Obstructive Pulmonary Disease, An Issue of Clinics in Chest Medicine Gerard Criner, Bartolome R. Powerless Diana Hernández,Jennifer Laird,2025-04-08

Energy serves as the lifeblood of our daily experiences It permeates virtually every aspect of our existence facilitating nourishment safety and productivity When affordability threatens energy s availability a family s living situation can become untenable too cold too hot too dark and too often unhealthy and unsafe In Powerless sociologists Diana Hernández and Jennifer Laird reveal the hidden hardship of energy insecurity the inability to adequately meet household energy needs Approximately one in ten households in the U S are energy insecure and four in ten are at risk for energy insecurity These statistics alone do not convey the acute pain of utility shutoffs or the relentless toll of chronic energy hardships marked by difficult choices and harsh living conditions Drawing on survey data and interviews with one hundred energy insecure individuals and families Hernández and Laird detail the experience of energy insecurity Individuals and families suffering from energy insecurity endure economic hardships such as difficulty paying utility bills utility debt and disconnection from utility services They also struggle with physical challenges such as poor housing conditions and poor or dysfunctional heating and cooling systems They are often forced to make difficult choices about what bills to pay These decisions are sometimes referred to as heat or eat choices as families cannot afford to pay for heating and food at the same time Energy insecure individuals and families employ a variety of strategies to keep energy costs down to avoid having to make these hard choices This includes deliberate underconsumption of energy enduring physical discomfort and using dangerous alternatives such as open flames ovens or space heaters to try to maintain a comfortable temperature in their home To be energy insecure is to suffer Despite the heavy toll of energy insecurity most people confront these difficulties behind closed doors believing it is a private matter Thus the enormous social crisis of energy insecurity goes unnoticed Hernández and Laird argue that household energy is a basic human right and detail policies and practices that would expand access to consistent safe clean and affordable energy Their proposals include improving the current energy safety net which is limited and often does not serve the most energy insecure due to stringent program requirements and administrative burdens They also suggest redesigning rates to accommodate income promoting enrollment and expansion of discount programs reforming utility disconnection policies improving energy literacy and ensuring an equitable shift to renewable energy resources Powerless creates a comprehensive picture of the complex social and environmental issue of energy insecurity and shows how energy equity is not just an aspiration but an achievable reality Migration, Health and Inequality Felicity Thomas, Doctor Jasmine Gideon, 2013-01-10 Should migrants have the same rights as citizens to health care services What do we mean by rights and by health And how do we uphold such rights when diasporic networks provide a diversity of opportunities and constraints for people seeking to maintain or restore their health Answering these pressing questions this book highlights recent developments in the areas of migration human rights and health from a range of countries Looking at diverse health issues from HIV to reproductive and maternal health and a variety of forms of migration including asylum seeking labour migration and trafficking this timely volume exposes the factors that contribute to the vulnerability of different mobile groups as they seek to uphold their wellbeing Migration Health and Inequality argues that we need to look beyond host country responses and biomedical frameworks and include both the role of transnational health networks and indigenous popular or lay ideas about health when trying to understand why many migrants suffer from low levels of health relative to their host population Offering a broad range of linkages between migrant agency transnationalism and diaspora mechanisms this unique collection also looks at the impact of migrant health on the health and rights of those communities that are left behind Advances in Occupational and Environmental Lung Diseases An Issue of Clinics in Chest Medicine E-Book Carrie A. Ailing in Place Michele Morrone, 2020-02-28

In Ailing in Place Michele Morrone explores the relationship between environmental conditions in Appalachia and health outcomes that are too often ascribed to individual choices only She applies quantitative data to observations from environmental health professionals to frame the ways in which the environment as a social determinant of health leads to health disparities in Appalachian communities These examples these stories of place trace the impacts of water quality waste disposal and natural resource extraction on the health and quality of life of Appalachian people Public health is inextricably linked to place Environmental conditions such as contaminated water unsafe food and polluted air are as important as culture community and landscape in characterizing a place and determining the health outcomes of the people who live there In some places the state of the environment is a consequence of historical activities related to natural resources and cultural practices In others political decisions to achieve short term economic objectives are made with little consideration of long term public health consequences
