Mapping The Nation Mappings Series:

Mapping the Nation Gopal Balakrishnan, 1996 Few political phenomena have proved as confusing or as difficult to comprehend as nationalism There is no established consensus on its identity genesis or future Are we for example in the process of being thrust back into a nineteenth century world of competitive and aggressive great powers and petty nationalisms Or rather are we being flung headlong into a new globalized and supra national millennium Has the nation state outlived its usefulness and exhausted its progressive and emancipatory role or has nationalism always been implicated in an exclusivist ethnic and militaristic logic Mapping the Nation seeks to address these and other questions about the nature and destiny of the national question in the present epoch A comprehensive and definitive reader on the subject with contributions from some of the most significant and stimulating theorists of the nation state it presents a wide range of divergent ideas and controversies Leading off with powerful statements of the classic liberal and socialist positions by Lord Acton and Otto Bauer there then follows an historical sociological debate between the late Ernest Gellner and the Czech historian Miroslav Hroch the one stressing the connections between nationalism and the transition away from agrarian society the other emphasizing its variability and real anthropological basis John Breuilly and Anthony D Smith two of the leading British specialists provide a counterpoint to each other with considerations on the respective importance of political leadership and continuing ethnic communities in the construction of nationalist movements Gopal Balakrishnan in a carefully honed critique of Benedict Anderson s seminal Imagined Communities and Partha Chatterjee from the Subaltern Studies circle offer crucial insights on the limitations of the Enlightenment approach to nationhood as do Sylvia Walby and Katherine Verdery with their reflections on the entanglements of nation gender and identity politics Sociologist Michael Mann delivers an authoritative refutation of the chatter about the death of the nation state Finally relating the theoretical questions directly to the politics of our time renowned historian Eric Hobsbawm provocative theorist Tom Nairn and the outstanding political philosopher Jürgen Habermas discuss with varying degrees of optimism and pessimism the future of the national project

Mapping Exile and Return Alain Epp Weaver, 2014 One of the most persistent if vexing issues facing not just theology but also political theory sociology and other disciplines is the ongoing Palestinian Israeli conflict For theology the problem is especially nettlesome on account of the church s shared history and tradition with Israel Palestinians including Palestinian Christians bear the brunt of suffering and dispossession in the current situation yet are burdened even more by Christian political appropriation of Zionism Through an analysis of Palestinian refugee mapping practices for returning to their homeland Alain Epp Weaver takes up the troubled issue of Palestinian dispossession and argues against the political theology embedded in Zionist cartographic practices that refuse and seek to eliminate evidence of co existence Instead Alain Epp Weaver offers a political theology of redrawing the territory compatible with a bi national vision for a shared Palestinian Israeli future

The World Through Maps John R. Short, 2003 An illustrated history of maps and mapmaking including reproductions of 200 antique maps Media and Mapping Practices in the Middle East and North Africa Alena Strohmaier, Angela Krewani, 2025-10-01 A few months into the popular uprisings in the Middle East and North Africa MENA region in 2009 10 the promises of social media including its ability to influence a participatory governance model grassroots civic engagement new social dynamics inclusive societies and new opportunities for businesses and entrepreneurs became more evident than ever Simultaneously cartography received new considerable interest as it merged with social media platforms In an attempt to rearticulate the relationship between media and mapping practices whilst also addressing new and social media this interdisciplinary book abides by one relatively clear point space is a media product The overall focus of this book is accordingly not so much on the role of new technologies and social networks as it is on how media and mapping practices expand the very notion of cultural engagement political activism popular protest and social participation Decolonizing the Map James R.

Akerman, 2017-06-16 Almost universally newly independent states seek to affirm their independence and identity by making the production of new maps and atlases a top priority For formerly colonized peoples however this process neither begins nor ends with independence and it is rarely straightforward Mapping their own land is fraught with a fresh set of issues how to define and administer their territories develop their national identity establish their role in the community of nations and more The contributors to Decolonizing the Map explore this complicated relationship between mapping and decolonization while engaging with recent theoretical debates about the nature of decolonization itself These essays originally delivered as the 2010 Kenneth Nebenzahl Jr Lectures in the History of Cartography at the Newberry Library encompass more than two centuries and three continents Latin America Africa and Asia Ranging from the late eighteenth century through the mid twentieth contributors study topics from mapping and national identity in late colonial Mexico to the enduring complications created by the partition of British India and the racialized organization of space in apartheid and post apartheid South Africa A vital contribution to studies of both colonization and cartography Decolonizing the Map is the first book to systematically and comprehensively examine the engagement of mapping in the long and clearly unfinished parallel processes of decolonization and nation building in the modern world Mapping Beyond Measure Simon Ferdinand, 2019-12-01 Over the last century a growing number of visual artists have been captivated by the entwinements of beauty and power truth and artifice and the fantasy and functionality they perceive in geographical mapmaking This field of map art has moved into increasing prominence in recent years yet critical writing on the topic has been largely confined to general overviews of the field In Mapping Beyond Measure Simon Ferdinand analyzes diverse map based works of painting collage film walking performance and digital drawing made in Britain Japan the Netherlands Ukraine the United States and the former Soviet Union arguing that together they challenge the dominant modern view of the world as a measurable and malleable geometrical space This challenge has strong political ramifications for it is on the basis of modernity's geometrical worldview that states have legislated over social space that capital has coordinated global markets and exploited distant environments and that powerful cartographic institutions have claimed exclusive authority in mapmaking Mapping Beyond Measure breaks fresh ground in undertaking a series of close readings of significant map artworks in sustained dialogue with spatial theorists including Peter Sloterdijk Zygmunt Bauman and Michel de Certeau In so doing Ferdinand reveals how map art calls into question some of the central myths and narratives of rupture through which modern space has traditionally been imagined and establishes map art's distinct value amid broader contemporary shifts toward digital mapping New Directions in Radical Cartography Phil Cohen, Mike Duggan, 2021-12-17 New Directions in Radical Cartography looks at the contemporary debates about the role of maps in society It explores the emergence of counter mapping as a distinctive field of practice and the impact that digital mapping technologies have had on cartographic practice and theory It includes original research accounts of mapping projects and detailed readings of maps The contributors explore how digital mapping technologies have sponsored a new wave of practices that seek to challenge the power that maps are commonly assumed to have They document the continued vitality of analogue maps in the hands of artists and activists who are pushing the boundaries of what is mappable in different ways New Directions in Radical Cartography draws on a rich body of mapping work that exists as part of community action urban ethnography environmental activism humanitarianism and public engagement

Creative Methods for Human Geographers Nadia von Benzon, Mark Holton, Catherine Wilkinson, Samantha Wilkinson, 2021-01-13 Introducing a broad range of innovative and creative qualitative methods this accessible book shows you how to use them in research project while providing straightforward advice on how to approach every step of the process from planning and organisation to writing up and disseminating research It offers Demonstration of creative methods using both primary or secondary data Practical guidance on overcoming common hurdles such as getting ethical clearance and conducting a risk assessment Encouragement to reflect critically on the processes involved in research The authors provide a complete toolkit for conducting research in geography while ensuring the most cutting edge methods are unthreatening to the reader Bulletin - Association of Canadian Map Libraries Association of Canadian Map Libraries, 1995

Language Mapping Jürgen Erich Schmidt, 2011-03-30 The Handbook of Language Mapping aims to explore the core methodological and theoretical approaches of linguistic cartography In both empirical and theoretical linguistics the spatial variation of language is of increasing interest and the visualization of language in space is therefore also of growing significance It is the precondition for correct data interpretation But how does it work What has to be considered when drawing a map And how has the problem been tackled so far This book provides answers to such questions by taking a closer look at the theoretical issues surrounding cartography and at the concrete practice of mapping The fundamental issues raised are addressed particularly well since linguistic geography is not only one of the domains with a lengthy tradition it is also one of the most progressive fields in linguistics At the same time because of their visual primacy linguistic maps directly confront the challenges of human perception and aesthetics In this context envisioning the fruits of language mapping is a fascinating and inspiring endeavor not just for experts With its accessible texts and wealth of full color images the handbook not only represents a comprehensive manual serving the interests of a variety of readers it also fills a gap in the ongoing linguistic discourse

Research Handbook on the Sociology of Knowledge Fran Collyer, 2025-07-15 This timely Handbook celebrates and contributes to the recent revitalisation of the sociology of knowledge A diverse group of leading experts from the global North and South provide a state of the art overview of a field which is developing rapidly with the growth of poststructuralist postcolonial and feminist approaches

Mapping with Words Sarah Wylie Krotz, 2018-11-30 Mapping with Words re conceptualizes settler writing as literary cartography The topographical descriptions of early Canadian settler writers generated not only picturesque and sublime landscapes but also verbal maps These worked to orient readers reinforcing and expanding the cartographic order of the emerging colonial dominion Drawing upon the work of critical and cultural geographers as well as literary theorists Sarah Wylie Krotz opens up important aesthetic and political dimensions of both familiar and obscure texts from the nineteenth century including Thomas Cary's Abram's Plains George Monro Grant's Ocean to Ocean and Susanna Moodie's Roughing it in the Bush Highlighting the complex territoriality that emerges from their cartographic aesthetics Krotz offers fresh readings of these texts illuminating their role in an emerging spatial imaginary that was at once deeply invested in the production of colonial spaces and at the same time enmeshed in the realities of confronting Indigenous sovereignties

The Semantic Web - ISWC 2016 Paul Groth, Elena Simperl, Alasdair Gray, Marta Sabou, Markus Krötzsch, Freddy Lecue, Fabian Flöck, Yolanda Gil, 2016-10-05 The two volume set LNCS 9981 and 9982 constitutes the refereed proceedings of the 15th International Semantic Web Conference ISWC 2016 which was held in Kobe Japan in October 2016 The 75 full papers presented in these proceedings were carefully reviewed and selected from 326 submissions The International Semantic Web Conference is the premier forum for Semantic Web research where cutting edge scientific results and technological innovations are presented where problems and solutions are discussed and where the future of this vision is being developed It brings together specialists in fields such as artificial intelligence databases social networks distributed computing Web engineering information systems human computer interaction natural language processing and the social sciences The Research Track solicited novel and significant research contributions addressing theoretical analytical empirical and practical aspects of the Semantic Web The Applications Track solicited submissions exploring the benefits and challenges of applying semantic technologies in concrete practical applications in contexts ranging from industry to government and science The newly introduced Resources Track sought submissions providing a concise and clear description of a resource and its expected usage Traditional resources include ontologies vocabularies datasets benchmarks and replication studies services and software Besides more established types of resources the track solicited submissions of new types of resources such as ontology design patterns crowdsourcing task designs workflows methodologies and protocols and measures culture and period convey our tendency to see our communities as the centre of the world if not the universe and by implication as superior to anything beyond our boundaries This study examines how cartography has been used to prop up a variety of imperialist enterprises Magazines, Tourism, and Nation-Building in Mexico Claire Lindsay, 2018-11-20 This open access book discusses the relationship between periodicals tourism and nation building in Mexico It enquires into how magazines a staple form of the promotional apparatus of tourism since its inception articulated an imaginative geography of Mexico at a time when that industry became a critical means of economic recovery and political stability after the Revolution Notwithstanding their vogue popularity reach and close affiliations to commerce and state over several decades magazines have not received any sustained critical attention in the scholarship on that period This book aims to redress that oversight It argues that illustrated magazines like Mexican Folkways 1925 1937 and Mexico This Month 1955 1971 offer rich and compelling materials in that regard not only as unique tools for interrogating the ramifications of tourism on the country's reconstruction but as autonomous objects of study that form a vital if complex part of Mexico's visual culture

The Social Life of Maps in America, 1750-1860 Martin Brückner, 2017-10-26 In the age of MapQuest and GPS we take cartographic literacy for granted We should not the ability to find meaning in maps is the fruit of a long process of exposure and instruction A carto coded America a nation in which maps are pervasive and meaningful had to be created The Social Life of Maps tracks American cartography's spectacular rise to its unprecedented cultural influence Between 1750 and 1860 maps did more than communicate geographic information and political pretensions They became affordable and intelligible to ordinary American men and women looking for their place in the world School maps quickly entered classrooms where they shaped reading and other cognitive exercises giant maps drew attention in public spaces miniature maps helped Americans chart personal experiences In short maps were uniquely social objects whose visual and material expressions affected commercial practices and graphic arts theatrical performances and the communication of emotions This lavishly illustrated study follows popular maps from their points of creation to shops and galleries schoolrooms and coat pockets parlors and bookbindings Between the decades leading up to the Revolutionary War and the Civil War early Americans bonded with maps Martin Brückner's comprehensive history of quotidian cartographic encounters is the first to show us how

Mappings Denis Cosgrove, 1999-04 This book explores what mapping meant in the past and how its meanings have altered The authors investigate mappings of terrestrial space on a large scale mapping and localism personal mappings on and of the human body cosmographic or imaginary mappings beyond the scale of direct earthly experience Becoming Places Kim Dovey, 2009-07-09 This book is about the practices and politics of place and identity formation the slippery ways in which who we are becomes wrapped up with where we are Drawing on the social theories of Deleuze and Bourdieu the book analyzes the sense of place as socio spatial assemblage and as embodied habitus through a broad range of case studies from nationalist monuments and new urbanist suburbs to urban laneways and avant garde interiors Landscapes of Capital Robert Goldman, Stephen Papson, 2013-04-30 Every era has its dominant representations Just as landscape painters of previous centuries captured and expressed new modes of perceiving history corporate advertisers now devise the imagined landscapes of global capitalism Advertising functions as an omnipresent discursive form publicly assembling and circulating the predominant tropes of our era This project is based on the premise that corporate advertising s landscapes help shape our epoch s imaginative conceptualizations of the spatial relations the temporal flows and the cultural geographies that correspond to the emergence of a high tech global economy In Landscapes of Capital Robert Goldman and Steven Papson examine how corporate television ads from the last fifteen years have organized predominant images tropes and narrative representations of a world in transition The volume takes particular interest in how relations of space time speed capital technology and globalization are narratively represented in advertising Goldman and Papson skillfully demonstrate how Capital represents itself at a moment of critical historical transition the passage into high tech globalization and the crises associated with it They argue that corporate ads can be read to reveal how Capital represents itself and the world that is being wrought in terms of the signifiers it prefers and the stories it tells International Encyclopedia of Human Geography, 2019-11-29 International Encyclopedia of Human Geography Second Edition Fourteen Volume Set embraces diversity by design and captures the ways in which humans share places and view differences based on gender race nationality location and other factors in other words the things that make people and places different Questions of for example politics economics race relations and migration are introduced and discussed through a geographical lens This updated edition will assist readers in their research by providing factual information historical perspectives theoretical approaches reviews of literature and provocative topical discussions that will stimulate creative thinking Presents the most up to date and comprehensive coverage on the topic of human geography Contains extensive scope and depth of coverage Emphasizes how geographers interact with understand and contribute to problem solving in the contemporary world Places an emphasis on how geography is relevant in a social and interdisciplinary context
