School Leadership in the Context of Standards-Based Reform Louis Volante,2012-05-16 Although standards based reform emerged in the United States and the United Kingdom the idea has spread across the world as an approach to systemic reform It might appear that there is a world wide tsunami of standards based reform that will standardize and homogenize the educational system across the globe This volume makes it very clear however that there is no one approach to standards based reform and countries change there is a danger in paying attention to its evolution and impact in only one context That s what makes this volume so valuable Louis Volante has drawn together descriptions from a wide range of countries all involved in large scale reform and using standards and assessments as part of their process What becomes very obvious is that the language may be the same but the words reflect different contexts and can represent very different ideals values and processes I m sure you will find this book as interesting and challenging as I have a gem that pushes your thinking and does not allow readers to remain neutral Lorna Earl

the Middle East and its far reaching implications for social structures and mainstream education Around the world increasing numbers of children receive private tutoring to supplement their schooling In much of the academic literature this is called shadow education because the content of tutoring commonly mimics that of schooling as the curriculum changes in the schools so it changes in the shadow While much research and policy attention has focused on private tutoring in East Asia and some other world regions less attention has been given to the topic in the Middle East Drawing on both Arabic language and English language literature this study commences with the global picture before comparing patterns within and among 12 Arabic speaking countries of the Middle East It presents the educational and cultural commonalities amongst these countries examines the drivers of demand and supply of shadow education and considers the dynamics of tutoring and how it impacts on education in schools In addition to its pertinence within the Middle East itself the book will be of considerable interest to academics and education policy makers broadly concerned with changing roles of the state and private sectors in education The Open Access version of this book available at www.taylorfrancis.com has been made available under a Creative Commons Attribution Non Commercial No Derivatives 4.0 license

Ready to Learn Tara Beteille, Namrata Tognatta, Michelle Riboud, Shinsaku Nomura, Yashodhan Ghorpade, 2020-03-06 Countries that have sustained rapid growth over decades have typically had a strong public commitment to expanding education as well as to improving learning outcomes South Asian countries have made considerable progress in expanding access to primary and secondary schooling with countries having achieved near universal enrollment of the primary school age cohort ages 6-11 except for Afghanistan and Pakistan Secondary enrollment shows an upward trend as well Beyond school many more people have access to skilling opportunities and higher education today Although governments have consistently pursued policies to expand access a prominent feature of the region has been the role played by nonstate actors private nonprofit and forprofit entities in expanding access at every level of education Though learning levels remain low countries in the region have shown a strong commitment to improving learning All countries in South Asia have taken the first step which is to assess learning outcomes regularly Since 2010 there has been a rapid increase in the number of large scale student learning assessments conducted in the region But to use the findings of these assessments to improve schooling countries must build their capacity to design assessments and analyze and use findings to inform policy
