Classroom Model Avgerinou, Maria D., Gialamas, Stefanos P., 2016-06-20 Blended learning has gained significant attention recently by educational leaders practitioners and researchers i Flex a variation of blended learning is based on the premise that certain non interactive teaching activities such as lecturing can take place by students without teachers direct involvement Classroom time can then be used for educational activities that fully exploit teacher student and student student interactions allowing for meaningful personalized feedback and scaffolding on demand Revolutionizing K 12 Blended Learning through the i Flex Classroom Model presents a well rounded discussion on the i Flex model highlighting methods for K 12 course design delivery and evaluation in addition to teacher performance assessment in a blended i Flex environment Emphasizing new methods for improving the classroom and learning experience in addition to preparing students for higher education and careers this publication is an essential reference source for pre service and in service teachers researchers administrators and educational technology developers

Transparency in Assessment - Exploring the Influence of Explicit Assessment Criteria Anders Jönsson, Frans Prins, 2019-04-03 In many schools and higher education institutions it has become common practice to share assessment criteria with students Sometimes it is required for accountability purposes at other times criteria are used as a means to communicate expectations to students However the idea that explicit assessment criteria should be shared with students has been contested On the one hand research has shown that explicit criteria may positively affect student performance reduce their anxiety as well as support students use of self regulated learning strategies On the other hand there are fears that explicit criteria may have a restraining influence on students learning as well as limiting their autonomy and creativity There are also indications of students becoming more performance oriented as opposed to learning oriented when being provided with explicit assessment criteria Taken together it is not fully understood under which circumstances it is productive for student learning to share explicit assessment criteria and under which circumstances it is not In particular empirical research on the proposed negative effects of sharing criteria with learners is limited and most fears voiced in the literature are based on individual experiences and anecdotal evidence In this book we therefore bring different perspectives on transparency in assessment together in order to further our understanding of how students are influenced by the use of explicit assessment criteria A deeper understanding of the influence of explicit assessment criteria on students understanding of criteria motivation and learning is equally imperative for future research and educational practice both of which need to go beyond individual opinions and convictions

International Perspectives on the Teaching of Literature in Schools

Andrew Goodwyn, Cal Durrant, Louann Reid, Lisa Scherff, 2017-08-31 Literature teaching remains central to the teaching of English around the world This edited text brings together expert global figures under the banner of the International Federation for the Teaching of English IFTE The book captures a state of the art snapshot of leading trends in current literature teaching as well as detailing predicted trends for the future The expert scholar and leading teacher contributors coming from a wide range of countries with fascinatingly diverse approaches to literature teaching cover a range of central and fundamental topics literature and diversity digital literatures pedagogy and reader response mother tongues the business of reading publishers adolescent fiction and censorship assessing responses to literature the changing definitions of literature and multimodal texts The collection reviews the consistently important place of literature in the education of young people and provides international evidence of its enduring value and contribution to education resisting the functionalist and narrowly nationalist perspectives of misguided government authorities International Perspectives on the Teaching of Literature in Schools will be of value to researchers PhD students literature scholars practitioners teacher educators teachers and all those in the extensive academic community interested in English and literacy around the world
