c. Characteristics

(1) General.—The Luger is the most common side arm in use in the German Army. It is a semiautomatic, recoil-operated, 8-shot pistol with a caliber of 9 mm (354 inch). It has a toggle-joint action very similar to that of the Maxim machine gun. It is fed by an 8-round magazine that fits into the butt and is held by a magazine catch similar to that on the U. 8. service automatic pistol (M1911 or M1911 Al Colt ,45), and located in approximately the same relative position.

(2) Table of characteristics.—

d. How to Operate

- (1) Safety.—The safety is on the left side of the receiver as you hold the pistol in firing. It is a lever pivoted at the lower end. When the safety lock is turned down and to the rear, the safety catch is on and the pistol will not fire. With the lock in this position, the German word gesickert ("made safe") is exposed. To release the safety, it is necessary to push the lever forward and up; the word gesickert will then be covered by the safety lever arm, and the pistol is ready to fire.
- (2) To load and fire.—A loaded magnzine is inserted into the butt and showed home until the magnzine catch.

A scale of locker and millimeters is printed on the looks of the back cover to ald readers to know the exact length of these units.
