

LSE Graduation Speech

Bjarne P. Tellmann
London, December 12, 2017

Thank you Chair Liataud, Director Shafik, Registrar Thompson, members of the faculty, family, friends, and most importantly, the class of 2017. It is an honor for me to be here on this memorable occasion. Congratulations to you, the graduating Class of 2017!

It has been almost exactly 25 years to the day since I myself graduated from the LSE.

When I was first asked to say a few words today, I must confess that I overwhelmed with the opportunity to help you on your journey ahead.

Instead of merely offering you the traditional “follow your heart” speech, I want to offer you a few practical tips that I wish someone would have told me, standing here, in your shoes, a quarter of a century ago.

Three deceptively simple rules will be vital to your future success as you leave this building.

The first is to establish a strategic plan. At our graduation, we were given the traditional speech to follow our hearts. That’s so true. But I have a secret for you. You also need a plan. As Benjamin Franklin famously said, “If passion drives you, let reason hold the reins.” helps to identify the program characteristics and participants profiles associated with a range of program outcomes These include health related behavioral academic or cognitive and economic related outcomes The review finds that few of the programs studied focus exclusively on the development of socio emotional skills In fact most efforts to develop socio emotional skills are embedded within innovative education and training curricula as well as pedagogical and classroom practices Evidence shows that programs are particularly effective when targeted to highly vulnerable populations and in particular to young children Overall findings indicate that high quality programs for young children tend to foster cognitive abilities in the short run and to impact socio emotional skills over the long run Programs for students enrolled in formal education primary and secondary levels show positive and significant impacts on the outcomes reviewed The most successful of these programs are implemented school wide and follow the SAFE approach that is they are appropriately sequenced active focused and explicit Finally the review finds that programs for out of school children and youth are usually designed as a means of achieving immediate labor market outcomes e g job placement formal employment and higher wages While some of these programs show positive and statistically significant impacts on socio emotional skills the impacts tend to be small
