Africa presents the scope of research and practice of science practical work in African schools. It brings together prominent science educators and researchers from Africa to share their experience and findings on pedagogical innovations and research informed practices on school science practical work. The book highlights trends and patterns in the enactment and role of practical work across African countries. Practical work is regarded as intrinsic to science teaching and learning and the form of practical work that is strongly advocated is inquiry based learning which signals a definite paradigm shift from the traditional teacher dominated to a learner centered approach. The book provides empirical research on approaches to practical work contextual factors in the enactment of practical work and professional development in teaching practical work. This book will be of great interest to academics, researchers and post graduate students in the fields of science education and educational policy.

Report Submitted by the Agricultural Education Commission to the Minister for Agriculture and Animal Husbandry Kenya. Agricultural Education Commission, 1967

Natural Science Education, Indigenous Knowledge, and Sustainable Development in Rural and Urban Schools in Kenya Darren M. O'Hern, Yoshiko Nozaki, 2014-05-05. Through a multi sited qualitative study of three Kenyan secondary schools in rural Taita Hills and urban Nairobi the volume explores the ways the dichotomy between Western and indigenous knowledge operates in Kenyan education. In particular it examines views on natural sciences expressed by the students, teachers, the state's curricula documents and schools exam oriented pedagogical approaches. O'Hern and Nozaki question state and local education policies and practices as they relate to natural science subjects such as agriculture, biology and geography and their dismissal of indigenous knowledge about environment, nature and sustainable development. They suggest the need to develop critical postcolonial curriculum policies and practices of science education to overcome knowledge oriented binaries, emphasize sustainable development and address the problems of inequality, the center and periphery divide and social, cultural and environmental injustices in Kenya and by implication elsewhere. In an era of environmental crisis and devastation education that supports sustainability and survival of our planet is needed. Within a broader sociopolitical context of post colonialism and globalization this volume points out possibilities and challenges to achieve such an education. The authors propose a critical postcolonial approach that acknowledges the contextual and situational production of all knowledge and that de dichotomizes indigenous from Western scientific knowledge.
