Aramaic Incantation Bowls in Museum Collections James Nathan Ford, Matthew

Morgenstern, 2019-11-04 The Frau Professor Hilprecht Collection of Babylonian Antiquities at Friedrich Schiller University Jena houses one of the major European collections of incantation bowls. Forty bowls bear texts written in the Jewish, Manichaean, Syriac or Mandaic scripts and most of the rest, some twenty-five objects, in the Pahlavi script or in various pseudoscripts. The present volume comprises new editions of the Aramaic and Hebrew bowl texts based on high-resolution photographs taken by the authors together with brief descriptions and photographs of the remaining material. New readings are often supported with close-up photographs. The volume is intended to serve as a basis for further study of magic in late Antiquity and of the Late Eastern Aramaic dialects in which the texts were composed. The Routledge Companion to Ecstatic Experience in the Ancient World Diana Stein, Sarah Kielt Costello, Karen Polinger Foster, 2021-12-30 For millennia people have universally engaged in ecstatic experience as an essential element in ritual practice, spiritual belief, and cultural identification. This volume offers the first systematic investigation of its myriad roles and manifestations in the ancient Mediterranean and Near East. The twenty-nine contributors represent a broad range of scholarly disciplines seeking answers to fundamental questions regarding the patterns and commonalities of this vital aspect of the past: How was the experience construed and by what means was it achieved? Who was involved? Where and when were rites carried out? How was it reflected in pictorial arts and written records? What was its relation to other components of the sociocultural compact? In proposing responses, the authors draw upon a wealth of original research in many fields, generating new perspectives and thought-provoking, often surprising conclusions. With their abundant cross-cultural and cross-temporal references, the chapters mutually enrich each other and collectively deepen our understanding of ecstatic phenomena thousands of years ago. Another noteworthy feature of the book is its illustrative content, including commissioned reconstructions of ecstatic scenarios and pairings of works of Bronze Age and modern psychedelic art. Scholars, students, and other readers interested in antiquity, comparative religion, and the social and cognitive sciences will find much to explore in the fascinating realm of ecstatic experience in the ancient world. Collecting Recipes Lennart Lehmhaus, Matteo Martelli, 2017-09-25 With a clear comparative approach, this volume brings together for the first time contributions that cover different periods of the history of ancient pharmacology, from Greek, Byzantine, and Syriac medicine to the Rabbinic, Talmudic medical discourses. This collection opens up new synchronic and diachronic perspectives in the study of the ancient traditions of recipe books and medical collections. Besides the highly influential Galenic tradition, the contributions will focus on less-studied Byzantine and Syriac sources as well as on the Talmudic tradition, which has never been systematically investigated in relation to medicine. This inquiry will highlight the overwhelming mass of information about drugs and remedies which accumulated over the centuries and was disseminated in a variety of texts belonging to distinct cultural milieus. Through a close analysis of some relevant case studies, this volume will trace some paths of this transmission and transformation of pharmacological knowledge across cultural and linguistic boundaries by pointing to the variety of disciplines and areas of expertise involved in
