

Health and Safety Law

What you need to know

All workers have a right to work in places where risks to their health and safety are properly controlled. Health and safety is about stopping you getting hurt at work or ill through work. Your employer is responsible for health and safety, but you must help.

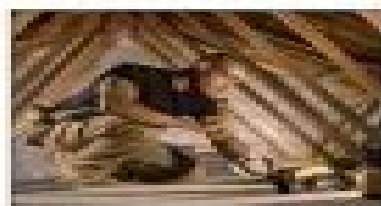

What employers must do for you

1. Decide what could harm you in your job and the precautions to take to avoid it. Then, in part of risk assessment.
2. In a way you can understand, explain how risks will be controlled and tell you who is responsible for this.
3. Closely and work with you and your health and safety representatives in reviewing your work to learn in the workplace.
4. Free of charge, give you the health and safety training you need to do your job.
5. Free of charge, provide you with any equipment and protective clothing you need, and ensure it is properly looked after.
6. Provide toilets, washing facilities and drinking water.
7. Provide adequate first-aid facilities.
8. Report major injuries and fatalities on work to your Incident Contact Centre on 03440 3009 99900. Report other injuries, diseases and dangerous incidents online at www.health.gov.uk.
9. Where more than one person is on your job, get lost or work on all through work. Display a hard-copy or electronic copy of the current information certificate where you can easily read it.
10. Work with any other employers or contractors sharing the workplace or providing employees such as agency workers, or other contract health professionals, to ensure

What you must do

- 1 Follow the training you have received when using any work items your employer has given you.
- 2 Take reasonable care of your own and other people's health and safety.
- 3 Co-operate with your employer on health and safety.
- 4 Tell someone from your company, supervisor, or health and safety representative if you think the work or workplace practices are putting someone's health and safety at risk.

If there's a problem

- 1 If you are worried about health and safety at your workplace, talk to your employer, supervisor, or health and safety representative.
- 2 You can also look at our website for general information about health and safety at work.
- 3 If, after talking with your employer, you are still worried, come to the office and meet face-to-face with one of our health and safety advisers. Employment Medical Advisory Service via 24-hour helpline: www.healthand-safety.co.uk
