Heart Failure Stuart Katz MD, 2013-06-21. Clinical practice consensus guidelines for management of heart failure are available from the American Heart Association, American College of Cardiology, Heart Failure Society of America, Canadian Cardiovascular Society, and European Society of Cardiology. The guidelines from these organizations, based on evidence from clinical trials and expert agreement, are largely concordant and provide useful information for practitioners. Yet the organization of the guidelines may confound efforts by a practitioner to determine which specific intervention or combination of interventions are most appropriate for an individual patient. As part of the Oxford American Cardiology Library, Heart Failure utilizes the staging of heart failure proposed by the ACC/AHA guidelines as a framework to develop a systematic approach for diagnosis and treatment across a broad spectrum of clinical presentations. Each chapter addresses a different stage in the progression of heart failure and provides a patient centered description of the appropriate diagnostic and treatment options for that setting. Each chapter also incorporates discussion of the diagnosis and treatment options for both low ejection fraction heart failure patients and preserved ejection fraction heart failure patients, of which the latter group comprises at least 50% of all heart failure cases in clinical practice. Heart Failure restructures the information in the clinical guidelines to a format that is more accessible and clinically useful to practitioners.

Heart Failure, An Issue of Cardiology Clinics Howard J. Eisen, 2014-02-28. Over 5.7 million people in America carry a diagnosis of heart failure, the incidence of which approaches 1 in 100 people over the age of 65. The cost to society is estimated at $29 billion annually, and over 1.1 million hospital admissions. For hospitalized heart failure patients, the 30 day readmission rate approaches 25%. As our population ages, these numbers are expected to grow. This issue of Cardiology Clinics helps practitioners to manage patients at all ACC/AHA stages of heart failure and addresses key issues that include sudden cardiac death, arrhythmias, acute decompensated heart failure, and heart failure with preserved ejection fraction.

Jessup, Evan Loh, 2003-03-10 Leading practitioners from the University of Pennsylvania review all aspects of heart failure diagnosis and management with a particular emphasis on office based ambulatory care Following the problem solving steps used in an office based practice the authors provide extensive coverage of the presenting signs and symptoms of heart failure as well as the tools with which to evaluate left ventricular function hemodynamics and exercise performance They also discuss the complex evidence based therapeutic options for treating patients with dyspnea fatigue or edema following the new ACC AHA heart failure guidelines that are specifically and directed at targeted symptoms Acute Heart Failure Alexandre Mebazaa, Mihai Gheorghiade, Faiez Zannad, Joseph E. Parrillo, 2009-12-24 For many years there has been a great deal of work done on chronic congestive heart failure while acute heart failure has been considered a difficult to handle and hopeless syndrome. However, in recent years, acute heart failure has become a growing area of study, and this is the first book to cover extensively the diagnosis and management of this complex condition. The book reflects the considerable amounts of new data reported and many new concepts which have been proposed in the last 3-4 years, looking at the epidemiology, diagnostic and treatment of acute heart failure.
