Health Financing Revisited A Practitioners Guide:

Health Financing Revisited Pablo Enrique Gottret, George Schieber, 2006-01-01 This overview of health financing tools policies and trends with a particular focus on challenges facing developing countries provides the basis for effective policy making Analyzing the current global environment the book discusses health financing goals in the context of both the underlying health demographic social economic political and demographic analytics as well as the institutional realities faced by developing countries and assesses policy options in the context of global evidence the international aid architecture cross sectoral interactions and countries macroeconomic frameworks and overall development plans Health Financing Revisited Pablo Gottret, George J. Schieber, 1991 Assessing country health financing systems, 2020-12-18 This document outlines the background to and design of the Health Financing Progress Matrix HFPM WHO s standardized qualitative approach to assessing country health financing systems Primarily qualitative in nature but drawing on extensive quantitative indicators the HFPM assesses a country s health financing institutions processes policies and their implementation against good practice in the context of universal health coverage UHC Benchmarks are defined in terms of nineteen desirable attributes which crystallize evidence about what works in health financing in order to make progress to UHC The paper also details a number of processes which govern the implementation of the HFPM in countries to ensure the results are objective and credible While health financing is only one of the core functions of a health system it significantly influences both the extent to which the population can access health services as well as the extent to which they face financial hardship in the process Through a forward looking design the HFPM not only assesses the current situation in a country but also makes clear recommendations of priority directions for policy and implementation both accelerating progress towards UHC and helping to build resilience across the health systems Health Financing in the Republic of Gabon Karima Saleh, Bernard Couttolenc F., Helene Barroy, 2014-10-20 Gabon is an upper middle income country with reasonable spending on health however its health outcomes resemble that of a country that is low low middle income Where has Gabon gone wrong and what are the challenges that Gabon is facing in improving health outcomes Human Rights in Global Health Benjamin Mason Meier, Lawrence O. Gostin, 2018-03-27 This book uncovers the ways in which human rights influence global efforts to promote the health of the most vulnerable in a globalizing world It examines the evolving relationship between human rights global governance and public health studying an expansive set of health challenges through a multi sectoral array of global organizations Poverty and Inequality in Middle Income Countries Einar Braathen, Julian May, Marianne Ulriksen, Gemma C. Wright, 2016-04-15 This collection offers a timely reassessment of viable ways of addressing poverty across the globe today The profile of global poverty has changed dramatically over the past decade and around three quarters of the poor now live in middle income countries making inequality a major issue This requires us to fundamentally rethink anti poverty strategies and policies as many aspects of the established framework for poverty reduction are no longer effective Featuring contributions from Latin America Africa and Asia this much needed collection answers some of the key questions arising as development policy confronts the challenges of poverty and inequality on the global national and local scale in both urban and rural contexts Providing poverty researchers and practitioners with valuable new tools to address new forms of poverty in the right way Poverty and Inequality in Middle Income Countries shows how a radical switch from aid to redistribution based social policies is needed to combat new forms of global poverty Going Universal Daniel Cotlear,Somil Nagpal,Owen Smith,Ajay Tandon,Rafael Cortez,2015-09-25 The quest for universal health coverage UHC has gathered real momentumover the past decade with countries on every continent now taking part This iswelcome news since a lack of universal coverage means that hundreds ofmillions of people around the world either do not get the health care servicesthey need or they have to pay dearly for them often falling into poverty as aresult But the UHC agenda also poses an enormous challenge to policy makersacross the globe and many countries are eager to learn from the experiencesof others as they undertake the long journey toward UHC Going Universal How 24 Developing Countries Are Implementing UniversalHealth Coverage Reforms from the Bottom Up draws on a wealth of newevidence to help enrich the global knowledge base on UHC It provides asynthesis of UHC reform programs that placed a special focus on expandingcoverage in ways inclusive of the poor The main objective was to documentand analyze their experiences based on a systematic data collection effort thatsought to capture in great detail how they have been implementing UHCreforms The main chapters oer an in depth analysis of how countries areaddressing five key challenges covering people expanding benefits managingmoney improving the supply of health care services and strengtheningaccountability The UHC reform programs described in the volume are new massive andtransformational Most were launched during the past decade and togetherthey now cover more than 2 billion people But most importantly the authorsfind that the programs are fundamentally changing the way health systemsoperate offering the potential to achieve greater equity and better results forthe money spent The authors identify key risks that lie ahead as well as anemerging agenda that requires more country and global learning Overall thisbook offers those contributing to the achievement of UHC worldwide avaluable new resource to help chart a way forward Scaling Up Affordable Health Insurance Alexander S. Preker,Marianne E. Lindner,Dov Chernichovsky,Onno P. Schellekens,2013-05-31 This book presents an in depth review on the role of health care financing in improving access for low income populations to needed care protecting them from the impoverishing effects of illness and addressing the important issues of social exclusion in government financed programs Principles in Health Economics and Policy Jan Abel Olsen,2017 Examining the different structures and techniques involved in making decisions about who benefits from those health care resources available in a publicly funded system this title provides a concise and compact introduction to health economics and policy Political economy analysis of primary health care-oriented reforms World Health Organization,2024-12-03 This case study set out to identify the political economy factors that shaped the trajectory of

Thailand's decades long application of the primary health care PHC approach reinforced through Thailand's Universal Coverage Scheme for universal health coverage The case study examines the political economy factors related to decisions on choices of health care providers for contracting primary care services and purchasing mechanisms for primary care services The case study is part of the Political Economy Analysis of Primary Health Care oriented Reforms Country Case Study Series of WHO's PHC Implementation Solutions Initiative The initiative aims to explore how countries have achieved success in scaling up PHC oriented health systems by documenting and sharing lessons from the vantage point of policy makers and practitioners across contexts

Private Voluntary Health Insurance in Development Alexander S. Preker, Richard M. Scheffler, Mark C. Bassett, 2007 Private voluntary health insurance already plays an important role in the health sector of many low and middle income countries The book reviews the context under which private insurance could contribute to an improvement in the financial sustainability of the health sector financial protection against the costs of illness household income smoothing access to care and market productivity This volume is the third in a series of in depth reviews of the role of health care financing in providing access for low income populations to needed healthcare protecting them from the impoverishing effects of illness and addressing the important issues of social exclusion in government financed programs insurance housing and employment policies as well as the macroeconomics of poverty The Bumpy Road to Universal Health Coverage Martin Eckhardt, 2018-07-26 Background By the turn of the new millennium 84% of families in rural coastal Ecuador had difficulties to access health services A health reform some years earlier to improve this situation had not been implemented In 2001 the non governmental organization NGO Foundation Human Nature together with a rural population established a primary health care center in North Western Ecuador A public private partnership with the Ministry of Public Health was formed Services depended on out of pocket payments restricting the poor's access to care In order to increase access to primary and emergency care Foundation Human Nature planned to establish a community based health insurance In the meantime a major health reform was initiated by a new government in 2008 It aimed at universal health coverage providing qualitative services for all based on primary health care while ensuring protection from financial hardship The aims of this thesis were to appraise the feasibility of community based health insurance in Ecuador to study how rural stakeholders perceived the 2008 reform and its effects on rural health services to explore the local population's perception of the NGO in service delivery and to measure the scope and describe the nature of perceived emergencies the related health care seeking behavior and health expenditure Methods Quantitative and qualitative methods were applied to tackle the research objectives Data collection for the health insurance study and the study of perceived emergencies was carried out through cross sectional household surveys For each of the studies 210 households were sampled with two stage cluster sampling Structured questionnaires were used with on the spot household interviews Focus group discussions with local stakeholders were performed to explore their perceived effects of the 2008 health reform The population's perception of the NGO was also studied through focus group discussions which were complemented by key informant interviews with local stakeholders Inductive qualitative content analysis focusing on the manifest content was applied Results 69% of interviewees were willing to join the presented community based health insurance scheme for 30 US per household and year Attitudes towards the scheme were positive and 92% of interviewees stated they would increase their health service utilization with affiliation The implementation of the 2008 health reform was perceived as topdown lacking communication However the reform's effects were mainly perceived as positive with free medical attendance and drugs Increased service utilization was described as leading to a relative shortage of drugs and appointments Access problems for remote dwellers were found who were described as having to seek private care also in emergencies The NGO and its services were perceived positively by the population due to health care improvements in the region The structure of the public private partnership was unclear leading to dissatisfaction Community participation was found to be rather weak Perceived emergencies occurred to at least 90 1 000 inhabitants in the past year Fever traumatic injury and abdominal pain were the most frequent chief complaints The first contacted providers in 57% of all cases were private for profit providers including traditional healers Public health services treated one third of all cases Health expenditure was found to be high and catastrophic health expenditure occurred in 24%

of all cases

Conclusions Prior to the 2008 reform community based health insurance was found to be feasible in the study region This financing instrument may have a role in the post reform system to cover services that the government does not yet sufficiently provide The effects of the 2008 reform were mainly perceived positively but an adjustment of the system is needed to improve the relative lack of drugs and appointments especially for remote dwellers Free health services may not be sufficient to reach universal health coverage for patients with perceived emergencies Changes in public emergency departments and improved financial protection for emergency patients may improve the situation The NGO s role was perceived positively by the population A lack of communication about the public private partnership and relatively weak community participation restricted the NGO s full potential and should be improved

Psycho Social Aspects of Health and Illness Shikha Dixit,Arun Kumar Sharma,2017-01-01 The chapters in this volume represent the psychological and sociological perspectives of health and illness The text is broadly divided into four sections Health cognitions Health care and health initiatives Mental health and mental illness and Health challenges The chapters in the first section discuss aspects related to illness severity health beliefs and illness representations The second section focusses on alternative health care systems health finance and sociological and psychological aspects of health care The third section deals with mental health care and social representation of mental health and illness The last section presents health challenges of specific groups This volume thus covers a wide spectrum of health issues theoretical standpoints and practical concerns It is expected that this volume will prove to be a good research resource for academics and health professionals who are interested in an interdisciplinary social scientific perspective

The U.S. Commitment to Global Health Institute of Medicine,Board on Global Health,Committee on the U.S. Commitment to Global Health,2009-10-10 Health is a highly valued visible and concrete investment that has the power to both save lives and enhance the credibility of the United States in the eyes of the world While the United States has made a major commitment to global health there remains a wide gap between existing knowledge and tools that could improve health if applied universally and the utilization of these known tools across the globe The U S Commitment to Global Health concludes that the U S government and U S based foundations universities nongovernmental organizations and commercial entities have an opportunity to improve global health The book includes recommendations that these U S institutions increase the utilization of existing interventions to achieve significant health gains generate and share knowledge to address prevalent health problems in disadvantaged countries invest in people institutions and capacity building with global partners increase the quantity and quality of U S financial commitments to global health and engage in respectful partnerships to improve global health In doing so the U S can play a major role in saving lives and improving the quality of life for millions around the world

Global Health and International Community John Coggon,Swati Gola,2013-09-12 This book is available as open access through the Bloomsbury Open Access programme and is available on www.bloomsburycollections.com Global health arguably represents the most pressing issues facing humanity Trends in international migration and transnational commerce render state boundaries increasingly porous Human activity in one part of the world can lead to health impacts elsewhere Animals viruses and bacteria as well as pandemics and environmental disasters do not recognize or respect political borders It is now widely accepted that a global perspective on the understanding of threats to health and how to respond to them is required but there are many practical problems in establishing such an approach This book offers a foundational study of these urgent and challenging problems combining critical analysis with practically focused policy contributions The contributors span the fields of ethics human rights international relations law philosophy and global politics They address normative questions relating to justice equity and inequality and practical questions regarding multi organizational cooperation global governance and international relations Moving from the theoretical to the practical Global Health and International Community is an essential resource for scholars students activists and policy makers across the globe
