The American Class Structure in an Age of Growing Inequality Dennis L. Gilbert, 2017-12-07 With the latest data on income wealth earnings and residential segregation by income The American Class Structure in an Age of Growing Inequality Tenth Edition describes a consistent pattern of growing inequality in the United States since the early 1970s Focusing on the socioeconomic core of the American class system author Dennis L Gilbert examines how changes in the economy family life globalization and politics are contributing to increasing class inequality

Urbanisation, Citizenship and Conflict in India Tommaso Bobbio, 2015-06-19 Urbanisation is rapidly changing the geographic and social landscape of India and indeed Asia as a whole Issues of collective violence urban poverty and discrimination become crucial factors in the redefinition of citizenship not only in legal terms but also in a cultural and socio economic dimension While Indian cities are becoming the centres of a culture of exclusion against vulnerable social groups a long term perspective is essential to understand the patterns that shaped the space politics economy and culture of contemporary metropolises This book takes a critical longer term view of India's economic transition The idea that urban growth goes hand in hand with the modernisation of the country does not account for the fact that increasingly higher portions of the urban population are comprised of lower income groups casual labourers and slum dwellers Using the case study of Ahmedabad this book investigates the history of city and of its people over the twentieth century It analyses the contrasting relationship between urban authorities and the inhabitants of Ahmedabad and examines instances of antagonism and negotiation amongst people groups and between the people and the public authority that have continuously shaped transformed and redefined life in the city This book offers an important tool for understanding the bigger context of the conflicts the social and cultural issues that accompanied the broader process of urbanisation in contemporary India It will be of interest to scholars of Urban History studies of collective violence and South Asian Studies

Survey of Social Science: Social stratification: functionalist perspectives Frank Northern Magill,1994

Social Stratification David B Grusky,1994-08-29 The field of stratification is being transformed and reshaped by advances in theory and quantitative modeling as well as by new approaches to the analysis of economic racial and gender inequality Although these developments are revolutionary in their implications until now there has been no comprehensive effort to bring together the classic articles that have defined and redefined the contours of the field In this up to date anthology the history of stratification research unfolds in systematic fashion with the introductory articles in each section providing examples of the major research traditions in the field and the concluding essays commissioned from leading scholars providing broader programmatic statements that identify current controversies and unresolved issues The resulting collection of articles both celebrates the diversity of theoretical approaches and reveals the cumulative nature of ongoing research This comprehensive reader is designed as a primary text for introductory courses on social stratification and as a supplementary text for advanced courses on social classes occupations labor markets or social mobility The following types of questions and debates are addressed in the six sections of the reader

- 1 Is stratification inevitable Do the recent experiments with destratification in Eastern Europe and elsewhere provide new insights into the functionalist theory of inequality
- 2 Can we identify a set of organized and cohesive social classes in advanced industrial societies Does it make sense to refer to a ruling class a political class or a power elite in these societies
- 3 Are the basic contours of occupational mobility the same within all advanced industrial societies Have the new structuralists led us astray in our attempts to understand the sources and causes of occupational attainment
- 4 Are there fundamental differences across social classes in styles of life patterns of consumption and attitudes toward work Are these class specific cultures attenuating as we move into advanced industrialism
- 5 Is there an emerging underclass in America What are the principal sources of racial ethnic and gender inequality
- 6 Can we identify a teleological dynamic driving the development of stratification systems Are new forms of stratification and inequality emerging as Eastern Europe enters its postsocialist stage

The volume offers essential reading for undergraduates who need an introduction to the field for graduate students who wish to broaden their understanding of stratification research and for advanced scholars who seek a basic reference guide Although most of the selections are middle range theoretical pieces suitable for introductory courses the anthology also includes advanced contributions on the cutting edge of research The editor outlines a modified study plan for undergraduate students requiring a basic introduction to the field

Occupy Tokyo: SEALDs, the Forgotten Movement Anne Gonon,Christian Galan,2023-05-01 Japanese youth like everywhere else are trying to build their future despite the crises that are shaking their world the latest being the triple disaster of Fukushima Often considered to be more focused on a personal or even hedonistic life they surprised the media

when a student movement took the floor to criticize the Abe government's security and Self Defense Forces bills in 2015. The so-called SEALDs movement (Student Emergency Action for Liberal Democracy) was formed some time after the Indigenous or Occupy Wall Street movements but it shares similar concerns. Understanding the SEALDs experience from the perspective of John Dewey's philosophy allows us to highlight once again the dangers that digital technology poses to individuals, the collective, and their values.

Understanding Poverty Elizabeth Seale, 2023-08-15. People in poverty suffer daily under misconceptions about economic hardship and its causes. Providing the most comprehensive consideration to date of poverty in the United States, Elizabeth Seale tackles how we think about issues of culture, behavior, and poverty, cutting straight to the heart of debates about social class. The book addresses tough questions including how being poor affects individual behavior and how we can make sense of that in a larger social and political context. The central premise is that to understand the behavior and lives of people in poverty, one must consider their relational context, especially relations of vulnerability and the human need for dignity. Poverty is a social problem we should address as a society by changing social relations that, as a matter of course, cause unnecessary and immense suffering. To do so, we must directly confront our lack of regard for people in poverty by recognizing that they are in fact worthy of an effort to induce major social change. This critical introduction to poverty will be an important read for undergraduate students and above in sociology wanting to learn more about the growing social problems of poverty, inequality, and stratification.

Shadows at Noon Joya Chatterji, 2023-01-01. A groundbreaking view of South Asian history in the twentieth century that underlines the similarities and intertwined cultures of India and Pakistan. Winner of the 2023 Los Angeles Times Book Prize in History. Longlisted for the 2024 Women's Prize for Non-Fiction. Longlisted for the 2024 Cundill History Prize. Chatterji tells the story of the subcontinent's recent history in a fluent, sweeping arc. Wonderfully enjoyable to read and sure to become a classic. William Dalrymple, The Guardian. This radically original and ambitious history of the Indian subcontinent explores the region's unique twentieth-century history and foregrounds the deep connections rather than the well-publicized fissures between the cultures of India and Pakistan. Taking the partitions of British India rather than the two world wars as the century's inflection points, Joya Chatterji examines how issues of nationalism, internal and external migration, and technological innovation contributed to South Asia's tumultuous twentieth century. Chatterji weaves together elements of her autobiography and family history, stories of such legendary figures as Tagore, Jinnah, Gandhi, and Nehru, and in particular the accounts of the many who were left behind and marginalized in relentless nation-building projects. Chatterji examines the countries mirroring patterns in state building, social and cultural life, modes of leisure, consumption, and oppression, and offers a timely course correction to our understanding of the dynamics of South Asian history. It reframes the events of the twentieth century that are continuing to play out in the present day.
