It encourages teachers to reflect on how their personal cultures influence their expectations regarding classroom communication. This textbook is distinctive in its distillation of research from numerous sources to provide the best viewpoint and systems for focusing on the needs of the individual learner. Dana L. Powell and Robert G. Powell draw on research in both the communication and education disciplines and provide useful strategies for improving teaching practices alongside theoretical models regarding diversity in the classroom. Much of the information found in this text is also inspired by the authors' direct experience in schools and from the experience they have gleaned from other first-line instructors as well as from parents and children. Among the many updates to this Third Edition are: Expanded coverage of students with diverse needs; Discussion on working effectively with parents; Coverage of cultural influences and the impact of race and ethnicity on disciplinary actions; Examination of the role of social media and its impact on instructional communication; The increase of educational technology use. Teachers and scholars in the communication and education fields will find this text practical and valuable for their teaching efforts and it is appropriate for instructional communication courses in both disciplines. Empowering Knowledge Workers Layna Fischer, 2013-12-01 Empowering Knowledge Workers describes the work of managers, decision makers, executives, doctors, lawyers, campaign managers, emergency responders, strategists, and many others who have to think for a living. These are people who figure out what needs to be done at the same time that they do it and a new approach to support this kind of worker presents the logical starting point for understanding how to take advantage of ACM. Management Development Through Cultural Diversity Ronnie Lessem, 2005-08-03 This stimulating, clearly written and well-structured text is a comprehensive introduction to the principles of management and organizational behavior as well as a corrective to the Eurocentric bias of most management texts. This book focuses on four domains of management: primal, rational, developmental, and metaphysical. It develops a transcultural perspective drawing on insights from across the world to examine different management styles, cultures, and stages of business development. Each section examines core management theory and literature, cultural orientation, and related prominent theories.
