Murray, 2021-06-21 No detailed description available for American Universities and Colleges The Nation ,1875 The Middle-Class City John Henry Hepp, IV, 2018-06-29 The classic historical interpretation of the late nineteenth and early twentieth centuries in America sees this period as a political search for order by the middle class culminating in Progressive Era reforms In The Middle Class City John Hepp examines transformations in everyday middle class life in Philadelphia between 1876 and 1926 to discover the cultural roots of this search for order. By looking at complex relationships among members of that city's middle class and three largely bourgeois commercial institutions—newspapers, department stores, and railroads—Hepp finds that the men and women of the middle class consistently reordered their world along rational lines. According to Hepp, this period was rife with evidence of creative reorganization that served to mold middle class life. The department store was more than just an expanded dry goods emporium; it was a middle class haven of order in the heart of a frenetic city, an entirely new way of organizing merchandise for sale. Redesigned newspapers brought well-ordered news and entertainment to middle class homes and also carried retail advertisements to entice consumers downtown via train and streetcar. The complex interiors of urban railroad stations reflected a rationalization of space, and rail schedules embodied the modernized specialization of standard time. In his fascinating investigation of similar patterns of behavior among commercial institutions, Hepp exposes an important intersection between the histories of the city and the middle class. In his careful reconstruction of this now vanished culture, Hepp examines a wide variety of sources, including diaries and memoirs left by middle class women and men of the region. Following Philadelphians as they rode trains and trolleys, read newspapers, and shopped at department stores, he uses their accounts as individualized guidebooks to middle class life in the metropolis. And through a creative use of photographs, floor plans, maps, and material culture, The Middle Class City helps to reconstruct the physical settings of these enterprises and recreate everyday middle class life, shedding new light on an underanalyzed historical group and the cultural history of twentieth century America. The Saturday Review of Politics, Literature, Science and Art, 1862. Dictionary Catalog of the History of the Americas. New York: Public Library, Reference Department, 1961. Science and Civilisation in China, Part 6, Medicine. Joseph Needham, 2000-04-13. The latest volume in Joseph Needham's magisterial review of China's premodern scientific and technological traditions introduces the history of medicine. Following the deaths of Joseph Needham and Lu Gwei Djen, a considerable amount of written material on the development of Chinese medicine awaited publication. This material has been gathered together by the editor Nathan Sivin in the five essays contained in this volume. They offer a broad and readable account of medicine in culture, including hygiene and preventive medicine, forensic medicine, and immunology, and the examinations taken by some Chinese physicians for more than a thousand years. Professor Sivin has edited the essays, expanding them where appropriate and incorporating the results of recent research. His extensive introduction discusses the contributions of Needham and Lu, placing the essays in context and surveying recent scholarship from China, Japan, Europe, and the United States. Making Imperial Mentalities. J. Mangan, 2012-05-04. This book discusses the way in which those born into the British empire were persuaded to accept it, often with enthusiasm. The study compares the perceptions of people at home in the dominions and in the colonies. Across the diversity of imperial territories, it explores themes such as the diverse nature of political socialisation, the various agents and agencies of persuasion, reaction to the experience of dominance by dominant and dominated, the paradoxical impact of the missionary and the subversive role of some women It also considers the significant issues of colonial adaptation resistance and rejection and the post imperial consequences of imperialism
