The Chinese classics with a translation, critical and exegetical notes, prolegomena, and copious indexes James Legge, 1861 The Chinese Classics: with a Translation, Critical and Exegetical Notes, Prolegomena, and Copious Indexes : in Seven Volumes James Legge, 1861 News Framing through English-Chinese Translation Nancy Liu, 2018-11-14

News Framing Through English Chinese Translation provides a useful tool to depict how Chinese news translation can be examined in the era of globalization. The author has integrated framing theory in journalism studies with translation studies and developed a new theoretical model framework named Transframing. This interdisciplinary model is pioneering and will make theoretical and conceptual contributions to translation studies. This book aims to reveal ideological, sociocultural, and linguistic factors creating media discourse by examining Chinese media discourse in comparison to its counterpart in English. Through the analysis of both quantitative and qualitative methods, it is concluded that the transframing model can be applied to interpreting, describing, explaining, as well as predicting the practice of news translation. Christian Literature in Chinese Contexts John T. P. Lai, 2019-12-20

Christianity in China has a history dating back to the Tang Dynasty 618-907 CE when Allopen, the first Nestorian missionary, arrived there in 635. In the late sixteenth century, Matteo Ricci, together with other Jesuit missionaries, commenced the Catholic missions to China. Protestant Christianity in China began with Robert Morrison of the London Missionary Society, who first set foot in Canton in 1807. Over the centuries, the Western missionaries and Chinese believers were engaged in the enterprise of the translation, publication, and distribution of a large corpus of Christian literature in Chinese. While the extensive distribution of Chinese publications facilitated the propagation of Christianity, the Christian messages have been subtly re-presented, re-appropriated, and transformed by these works of Chinese Christian literature. This Special Issue, entitled Christian Literature in Chinese Contexts, examines the multifarious dimensions of the production, translation, circulation, and reception of Christian literature with Christian and literature in their broadest sense against the cultural and sociopolitical contexts from the Tang period to modern China. The eight articles in this volume cover a variety of intriguing topics, including the literary translation endeavors of Western missionaries in Chinese, the indigenous works of the Chinese Christians, the interaction between the Christian and Chinese literary traditions, Chinese reception of the Bible, and numerous other relevant concepts. Chinese Discourses on Translation Martha Pui Yiu Cheung, 2014-04-30

Discourse on translation, at once a term referring to any text works of translation, included that expresses the author's views, ideas, and theorizations on translation, on its modes of operation, its dynamics, principles, and methods, and/or on the philosophy, epistemology, ontology, and hermeneutics of translation, and a term emphasizing the inseparable relation between power and knowledge, is an integral part of all translation traditions. An Anthology of Chinese Discourse on Translation (Volume 1) Martha Pui Yiu Cheung, Lin Wusun, 2014-06-03

Translation has a long history in China. Down the centuries, translators, interpreters, Buddhist monks, Jesuit priests, Protestant missionaries, writers, historians, linguists, and even ministers and emperors have all written about translation and from an amazing array of perspectives Such an exciting diversity of views reflections and theoretical thinking about the art and business of translating is now brought together in a two volume anthology The first volume covers a time frame from roughly the 5th century BCE to the twelfth century CE It deals with translation in the civil and government context and with the monumental project of Buddhist sutra translation The second volume spans the 13th century CE to the Revolution of 1911 which brought an end to feudal China It deals with the transmission of Western learning to China a translation venture that changed the epistemological horizon and even the mindset of Chinese people Comprising over 250 passages most of which are translated into English for the first time here the anthology is the first major source book to appear in English It carries valuable primary material allowing access into the minds of translators working in a time and space markedly different from ours and in ways foreign or even inconceivable to us The topics these writers discussed are familiar But rather than a comfortable trip on well trodden ground the anthology invites us on an exciting journey of the imagination The Chinese Classics James Legge,1861 The Chinese
