Robert Gutman, 2012-04-17 Architecture and sociology have been fickle friends over the past half century in the 1960s architects relied on sociological data for design solutions and sociologists were courted by the most prestigious design schools to lecture and teach Twenty years later at the height of postmodernism it was passe to be concerned with the sociological aspects of architecture Currently the rising importance of sustainability in building not to mention an economical crisis brought on in part by a real estate bubble have forced architects to consider themselves in a less autonomous way perhaps bringing the profession full circle back to a close relationship with sociology Through all these rises and dips Robert Gutman was a strong and steady voice for both architecture and sociology Gutman a sociologist by training infiltrated architecture's ranks in the mid 1960s and never looked back A teacher for over four decades at Princeton's School of Architecture Gutman wrote about architecture and taught generations of future architects all while maintaining an outsider status that allowed him to see the architectural profession in an insightful unique way

Architecture, Theology, and Ethics Elise M. Edwards, 2024-03-18 Architecture Theology and Ethics Making Architectural Design More Just argues that architecture design and creativity are theological ethical concerns that ought to be considered more deeply by Christians who are committed to social and environmental justice Elise M Edwards discusses the significance of architectural design entering into ongoing conversations in theological ethics and aesthetics She argues that architectural design is not just a professional practice for wealthy clients but rather an activity that everyday people undertake when making choices that shape the spaces they inhabit If Christians think theologically about their agency in these decisions they will discover that architectural design becomes an opportunity to contribute to the flourishing for humanity and God's creation Edwards proposes an approach to architectural design that presents it as prophetic action with the power to shape our world This book then presents five moral commitments that guide design intentions and the process of design towards justice and inclusion Grounded in liberationist feminist and womanist thought Architecture Theology and Ethics makes a compelling case for architecture s relevance to Christian ethics and theology Questioning Architectural Judgment Steven A.

Moore,Barbara B. Wilson,2013-07-24 The book shines light on the problem of judgment particularly in the realm of architectural technics and the codes that regulate it The struggle to define sustainability and thus judge architecture through such lenses is but one dimension of the contemporary problem of judgment By providing the reader with an inherently interdisciplinary study of a particular discipline architecture it brings to the topic lenses that challenge the too frequently unexamined assumptions of the discipline By situating architecture within a broader cultural field and using case studies to dissect the issues discussed the book emphasizes that it is not simply a matter of designing better more efficient or more stringent codes to guide place making but a matter of reconstructing the boundaries of the systems to be coded The authors are winners of the EDRA Place Research Award 2014 for their work on the Green Alley Demonstration Project used in the book Architectural Research Addressing Societal Challenges Volume 2 Manuel Jorge Rodrigues Couceiro da

Transcultural Architecture Thorsten Botz-Bornstein, 2016-03-09 Critical Regionalism is a notion which gained popularity in architectural debate as a synthesis of universal modern elements and individualistic elements derived from local cultures This book shifts the focus from Critical Regionalism towards a broader concept of Transcultural Architecture and defines Critical Regionalism as a subgroup of the latter One of the benefits that this change of perspective brings about is that a large part of the political agenda of Critical Regionalism which consists of resisting attitudes forged by typically Western experiences is softened and negotiated according to premises provided by local circumstances A further benefit is that several responses dependent on factors that initial definitions of Critical Regionalism never took into account can now be considered At the book s centre is an analysis of Reima and Raili Pietil s Sief Palace Area project in Kuwait Further cases of modern architecture in China Korea and Saudi Arabia show that the critique which holds that Critical Regionalism is a typical western exercise is not sound in all circumstances The book argues that there are different Critical Regionalisms and not all of them impose Western paradigms on non Western cultures Non Western regionalists can also successfully participate in the Western enlightened discourse even when they do not directly and consciously act against Western models Furthermore the book proposes that a certain architectural rationality can be contained in architecture itself not imposed by outside parameters like aesthetics comfort or even tradition but flowing out of a social game of which architecture is a part The key concept is that of the form of life as developed by Ludwig Wittgenstein whose thoughts are here linked to Critical Regionalism Kenneth Frampton argues that Critical Regionalism offers something well beyond comfort and accommodation What he has in mind are ethical prescripts closely linked to a
