Puente, Robert J. McCaffrey, 1992-08-31 The growth of clinical neuropsychology has been unprecedented This growth has been oriented more toward the provision of than toward the foundation for services Thus while a greater number of psychologists are performing a greater number of neuropsychological procedures there seems to us an uneven parallel growth between these services and the empirical foundations for them It should come to no one s surprise that increasingly aggressive attacks on the field have been leveled Despite these attacks clinical neuropsychology continues to enjoy exceptional growth within psychology and acceptance by other health practitioners insurance companies legislators judges juries and above all consumers of our services Growth without self reflection is a dangerous enterprise as is growth without directions We find it disconcerting that existing and limited self analysis has assumed that neuropsychological dysfunction is immune to the same variables that affect psychological dysfunction Some attention has been paid to the most obvious ones such as age but all others have been ignored and or misunderstood This neglect has spawned a body of knowledge replete with questionable data and unfounded conclusions Hence it is surprising that clinical neuropsychologists consider themselves to be more scientifically sound than their regular clinical counterparts Guide to Psychological Assessment with Asians Lorraine T. Benuto, Nicholas S. Thaler, Brian D. Leany, 2014-06-26 To effectively serve minority clients clinicians require a double understanding of both evidence based practice and the cultures involved This particularly holds true when working with Asian Americans a diverse and growing population The Guide to Psychological Assessment with Asians synthesizes real world challenges empirical findings clinical knowledge and common sense advice to create a comprehensive framework for practice This informed resource is geared toward evaluation of first generation Asian Americans and recent immigrants across assessment methods self report measures projective tests settings school forensic and classes of disorders eating substance sexual While the Guide details cross cultural considerations for working with Chinese Japanese Korean and Indian American clients best practices are also included for assessing members of less populous groups without underestimating overstating or stereotyping the role of ethnicity in the findings In addition contributors discuss diversity of presentation within groups and identify ways that language may present obstacles to accurate evaluation Among the areas covered in this up to date reference Structured and semi structured clinical interviews Assessment of acculturation enculturation and culture IQ testing Personality disorders Cognitive decline and dementia Mood disorders and suicidality Neuropsychological assessment of children adolescents and adults Culture bound syndromes Designed for practitioners new to working with Asian clients as well as those familiar with the population the Guide to Psychological Assessment with Asians is exceedingly useful to neuropsychologists clinical psychologists health psychologists and clinical social workers
