Thinking Small Andrea Hiott,2012-01-17 Sometimes achieving big things requires the ability to think small This simple concept was the driving force that propelled the Volkswagen Beetle to become an avatar of American style freedom a household brand and a global icon The VW Bug inspired the ad men of Madison Avenue beguiled Woodstock Nation and has recently been re imagined for the hipster generation And while today it is surely one of the most recognizable cars in the world few of us know the compelling details of this car s story In Thinking Small journalist and cultural historian Andrea Hiott retraces the improbable journey of this little car that changed the world Andrea Hiott s wide ranging narrative stretches from the factory floors of Weimar Germany to the executive suites of today s automotive innovators showing how a succession of artists and engineers shepherded the Beetle to market through periods of privation and war reconstruction and recovery Henry Ford s Model T may have revolutionized the American auto industry but for years Europe remained a place where only the elite drove cars That all changed with the advent of the Volkswagen the product of a Nazi initiative to bring driving to the masses But Hitler s concept of the people s car would soon take on new meaning As Germany rebuilt from the rubble of World War II a whole generation succumbed to the charms of the world s most huggable automobile Indeed the story of the Volkswagen is a story about people and Hiott introduces us to the men who believed in it built it and sold it Ferdinand Porsche the visionary Austrian automobile designer whose futuristic dream of an affordable family vehicle was fatally compromised by his patron Adolf Hitler s monomaniacal drive toward war Heinrich Nordhoff the forward thinking German industrialist whose management innovations made mass production of the Beetle a reality and Bill Bernbach the Jewish American advertising executive whose team of Madison Avenue mavericks dreamed up the legendary ad campaign that transformed the quintessential German compact into an outsize worldwide phenomenon Thinking Small is the remarkable story of an automobile and an idea Hatched in an age of darkness the Beetle emerged into the light of a new era as a symbol of individuality and personal mobility a triumph not of the will but of the imagination

If you could have a one time affair with someone you've never seen before and would never see again and there was no way that anyone could ever find out would you? Jarvis Sloan was an Internet success story. He'd left a thriving private practice as a psychiatrist specializing in family and sexual medicine in San Diego to form LifeSolutions Seminars, an on line counseling site for unhappy people looking for an alternative to classical counseling. He knew that he was targeting a need before he ever started the development for the site but even he was surprised by how many unhappy people there were out there on the Internet. Ironically his own marriage is a hollow shell. He loves his wife Sharon when he isn't hating her and he loves his sons unconditionally. The problem with his marriage is that sex with his wife has become a lot like planning to catch a ghost, easier to conceive than to put into action. Jarvis decides that there's only one way for him to deal with his growing frustration: affairs. But one affair leads to another then another then another. He quickly comes to the conclusion that while they may be an answer they aren't necessarily a good answer or a safe one. The affairs pose a risk to his family. A risk he's not willing to take. So he tries to come up with a better answer. To do it he takes a step in an unexpected direction. A site devoted to pairing people to meet one another's sexual needs on a one time basis. A new technology he stumbles on accidentally in the course of a casual affair sets the stage for his new plan. It's a technology that fits his idea perfectly because there's virtually no chance of being detected: no notes, no phone calls, no electronic footprints, nothing. It's a direct connection to another person willing to donate their time to help meet your needs just like you're willing to donate your time to meet theirs. Jarvis had already started an Internet sensation by trying to meet the needs of unhappy people. He helped some of them and made a lot of money along the way. If he could make money on LifeSolutions he could make money on this new idea as well and maybe help meet some of his own needs in the process. So Jarvis with the help of Brooke Werner, a brilliant young computer engineer, establishes a registry inside LifeSolutions which allows members to enter a high security area in which they can locate anonymous sexual partners for a single meeting: no commitments, no attachments, no threat to either party's marriage. To ensure confidentiality all information about both parties is erased from the embedded server every seventy-two hours. Making any connections made inside the server impossible to trace. What starts as a small idea for a limited number of people is quickly magnified and transformed by the power of the Internet, generating 60 million in its first two years of operation. Little did Jarvis suspect when he created the TimeDonors sub site that at the height of its success it would inextricably link his own life to seven others in a web of death and betrayal. Over a two month period all eight of them would have their worlds irreversibly changed. More than half of them wouldn't survive and one woman would be forced to find reserves of courage she never knew she had. 50 Museums to Blow Your Mind Ben Handicott, Kalya Ryan, 2016-06-01
