Little Masterpieces Selections Autobiographical Areopagitica:

Little Masterpieces Bliss Perry, 2015-07-08 Excerpt from Little Masterpieces John Milton Selections Chiefly Autobiographical From the Pamphlets and Letters With the Tractate on Education and Areopagitica In one of the most memorable passages of Milton's prose writings published at the very beginning of his activity as a pamphleteer he makes a significant confession concerning his use of prose I should not choose this manner of writing wherein knowing myself inferior to myself led by the genial power of nature to another task I have the use as I may account but of my left hand That other task to which the genial power of nature led him was the production of poetry and a young man who had already written L Allegro and Il Penseroso Lycidas and Comus might be pardoned for long hesitancy before turning to an alien instrument of expression But when God commands to take the trumpet and blow a dolorous or a jarring blast it lies not in man's will what he shall say or what he shall conceal So thought this most fastidious of English poets when he bade farewell to the quiet ways and the serene hours devoted to the muse and boldly entered the arena of political and theological controversy About the Publisher Forgotten Books publishes hundreds of thousands of rare and classic books Find more at www.forgottenbooks.com This book is a reproduction of an important historical work Forgotten Books uses state of the art technology to digitally reconstruct the work preserving the original format whilst repairing imperfections present in the aged copy In rare cases an imperfection in the original such as a blemish or missing page may be replicated in our edition We do however repair the vast majority of imperfections successfully any imperfections that remain are intentionally left to preserve the state of such historical works [Catalog of Copyright Entries.
