Baker, Gauri U. Gadgil, 2017-07-19 As many cities in East Asia and the Pacific prosper some urban dwellers are left behind lacking access to housing services jobs and social equality Education for the Elderly in the Asia Pacific Pennee Narot, Narong Kiettikunwong, 2021-09-25 In many countries across the Asia Pacific region people are adapting to the new demographic shift but there is nonetheless much concern This book documents the various educational approaches rendered by both public and private sectors to enable elderly individuals in their own countries to re engage in society more inclusively to stay longer in the labour market and to become less dependent on the state or their families In order to produce active healthy and productive aging citizens the experiments showcased by this book highlight how adaptive action is needed across many policy areas with emphasis on shaping structural differences in the composition and organisation of higher education systems that can better foster lifelong learning among elderly citizens The book is a great venue to underline the interplay of the theory and practices of vastly complex challenges Oversight Hearing on the Pacific Northwest Power System United States. Congress. House. Committee on Commerce. Subcommittee on Energy and Power, 1996 World Bank East Asia and Pacific Economic Update, April 2018 WorldBank, 2018-04-11 Developing EAP grew slightly faster than anticipated in 2017 The growth of regional GDP excluding China is forecast to accelerate in 2018 while China's GDP growth is expected to moderate as the economy keeps rebalancing Major downside risks include volatility associated with faster than expected monetary policy tightening in advanced economies and rising threat of trade restrictions Developing EAP countries would need to get ready to respond to increasing interest rates and find ways to raise potential growth in the medium run Specifically amid the rising risk of protectionism and changes in the global manufacturing landscape countries should continue to enhance trade facilitation and integration increase the effectiveness of schools and education systems and upgrade capabilities to ensure that workers and managers have necessary skills To provide economic security to the population policies should focus on strengthening social assistance and insurance programs and increasing resilience to systemic shocks

A Resurgent East Asia Andrew D. Mason,Sudhir Shetty,2018-01-04 East Asia has been a paragon of global development success The dramatic transformation of the region over the past half century with a succession of countries having progressed from low income to middle income and even to high income status has been built on what has come to be known as the East Asian development model A combination of policies that fostered outward oriented labor intensive growth while strengthening basic human capital and providing sound economic governance has been instrumental in moving hundreds of millions of people out of poverty and into economic security Yet East Asia s economic resurgence remains incomplete More than 90 percent of its people now live in 10 middle income countries many of which can realistically aspire to high income status in the next generation or two But these countries are still much less affluent and productive than their high income counterparts Even as the region s middle income countries attempt to move up to high income status they confront a rapidly changing global and regional economic environment Slowing growth in global trade and shifts in its patterns rapid technological change and evolving country circumstances all present challenges to sustaining productivity growth fostering inclusion and enhancing state effectiveness A Resurgent East Asia Navigating a Changing World is about how policy makers across developing East Asia will need to adapt their development model to effectively address these challenges in the coming decade and sustain the region s remarkable development performance The world is changing How do East Asia s developing economies navigate this change This is a commendable book on this topic a must read for policy makers academia and students who are interested in East Asia Chatib Basri Former Minister of Finance Government of Indonesia A Resurgent East Asia is a vital publication for the most successful region as it looks to the future and the expectations of its citizens This study helps to identify the new areas of risk and to suggest ways to ameliorate them In so doing it is an invaluable resource for governments Based on first rate analysis it is a must read for policy makers and everyone interested in East Asia's development prospects Danny Leipziger Managing Director The Growth Dialogue and Professor of International Business George Washington University This report delivers a careful and rigorous analysis of the strengths of East Asia's growth with equity development strategy While noting the model's success in lifting millions out of poverty the report also warns of the looming challenge of maintaining growth with inclusion and it highlights the need for countries to improve their social protection systems and ensure that opportunities are fair and available to all A must read for policy makers and development practitioners alike Ana Revenga Senior Fellow Brookings Institution Fixing the Foundation Rythia Afkar, Tara Beteille, Mary Breeding, Toby Linden, Andrew Mason, Aaditya Mattoo, Tobias Pfutze, Lars Sondergaard, Noah Yarrow, 2023-12-27 Countries in middle income East Asia and the Pacific were already experiencing serious learning deficits prior to the COVID 19 pandemic COVID related school disruptions have only made things worse Learning poverty defined as the percentage of 10 year olds who cannot read and understand an age appropriate text is as high as 90 percent in several countries Several large Southeast Asian countries consistently perform well below expectations on adolescent learning assessments This report examines key factors affecting student learning in the region with emphasis on the central role of teachers and teaching quality It also analyzes the role education technologies which came into widespread use during the pandemic and examines the political economy of education reform The report presents recommendations on how countries can strengthen teaching to improve learning and in doing so can enhance productivity growth and future development in the region World Development Report 2023 World Bank, 2023-07-03 Migration is a development challenge About 184 million people 2.3 percent of the world's population live outside of their country of nationality Almost half of them are in low and middle income countries But what lies ahead As the world struggles to cope with global economic imbalances diverging demographic trends and climate change migration will become a necessity in the decades to come for countries at all levels of income If managed well migration can be a force for prosperity and can help achieve the United Nations Sustainable Development Goals World Development Report 2023 proposes an innovative approach to maximize the development impacts of cross border movements on both destination and origin countries and on migrants and refugees themselves The framework it offers drawn from labor economics and international law rests on a Match and Motive Matrix that focuses on two factors how closely migrants skills and attributes match the needs of destination countries and what motives underlie their movements This approach enables policy makers to distinguish between different types of movements and to design migration policies for each International cooperation will be critical to the effective management of migration Growing Smarter World Bank,2018-04-13 One quarter of the world's school age children live in East Asia and Pacific. During the past 50 years, some economies in the region have successfully transformed themselves by investing in the continuous upgrading of the knowledge, skills, and abilities of their workforce. Through policy foresight, they have produced graduates with new levels of knowledge and skills almost as fast as industries have increased their demand for skilled workers. Yet the success of these high-performing systems has not been replicated throughout the region. Tens of millions of students are in school but not learning, and as many as 60 percent of students remain in school systems that are struggling to escape from the global learning crisis or in systems where performance is likely poor. Many students in these systems fail to reach basic levels of proficiency in key subjects and are greatly disadvantaged because of it. Growing Smarter: Learning and Equitable Development in East Asia and Pacific focuses on the experiences of economies in the region that have been able to expand schooling and learning and showcases those that have managed to pursue successful education reforms at scale. By examining these experiences, the report provides both diagnoses and detailed recommendations for improvement not only for education systems within East Asia and Pacific but also for countries across the globe. In East Asia and Pacific, the impressive record of success in education in some low and middle income countries is proof of concept that schooling in resource-constrained contexts can lead to learning for all. This report identifies the policies and practices necessary to ensure that students learn and suggests how countries can improve learning outcomes. Prospective Longevity Warren C.

Sanderson, Sergei Scherbov,2019-11-19 Warren Sanderson and Sergei Scherbov argue for a new way to measure individual and population aging. Instead of counting how many years we've lived, we should think about our prospective age: the number of years we expect to have left. Their pioneering model can generate better demographic estimates which inform better policy choices. World Development Report 2024 World Bank,2024-08-01

Middle income countries are in a race against time. Many of them have done well since the 1990s to escape low income levels and eradicate extreme poverty, leading to the perception that the last three decades have been great for development. But the ambition of the more than 100 economies with incomes per capita between US 1,100 and US 14,000 is to reach high income status within the next generation. When assessed against this goal, their record is discouraging. Since the 1970s, income per capita in the median middle income country has stagnated at less than a tenth of the US level. With aging populations, growing protectionism, and escalating pressures to speed up the energy transition, today's middle income economies face ever more daunting odds. To become advanced economies despite the growing headwinds, they will have to make miracles. Drawing on the development experience and advances in economic analysis since the 1950s, World Development Report 2024 identifies pathways for developing economies to avoid the middle income trap. It points to the need for not one but two transitions for those at the middle income level: the first from investment to infusion, and the second from infusion to innovation. Governments in lower middle income countries must drop the habit of repeating the same investment-driven strategies and work instead to infuse modern technologies and successful business processes from around the world into their economies This requires reshaping large swaths of those economies into globally competitive suppliers of goods and services Upper middle income countries that have mastered infusion can accelerate the shift to innovation not just borrowing ideas from the global frontiers of technology but also beginning to push the frontiers outward This requires restructuring enterprise work and energy use once again with an even greater emphasis on economic freedom social mobility and political contestability Neither transition is automatic The handful of economies that made speedy transitions from middle to high income status have encouraged enterprise by disciplining powerful incumbents developed talent by rewarding merit and capitalized on crises to alter policies and institutions that no longer suit the purposes they were once designed to serve Today s middle income countries will have to do the same
