Turner,2005 The European explorers who first visited the Northwest Coast of North America assumed that the entire region was virtually untouched wilderness whose occupants used the land only minimally hunting and gathering shoots roots and berries that were peripheral to a diet and culture focused on salmon Colonizers who followed the explorers used these claims to justify the displacement of Native groups from their lands Scholars now understand however that Northwest Coast peoples were actively cultivating plants well before their first contact with Europeans This book is the first comprehensive overview of how Northwest Coast Native Americans managed the landscape and cared for the plant communities on which they depended Bringing together some of the world's most prominent specialists on Northwest Coast cultures Keeping It Living tells the story of traditional plant cultivation practices found from the Oregon coast to Southeast Alaska It explores tobacco gardens among the Haida and Tlingit managed camas plots among the Coast Salish of Puget Sound and the Strait of Georgia estuarine root gardens along the central coast of British Columbia wapato maintenance on the Columbia and Fraser Rivers and tended berry plots up and down the entire coast With contributions from ethnobotanists archaeologists anthropologists geographers ecologists and Native American scholars and elders Keeping It Living documents practices many unknown to European peoples that involve manipulating plants as well as their environments in ways that enhanced culturally preferred plants and plant communities It describes how indigenous peoples of this region used and cared for over 300 different species of plants from the lofty red cedar to diminutive plants of backwater bogs Living Data Roberts, Celia,Mackenzie, Adrian,2019-07-24 As individuals increasingly seek ways of accessing understanding and sharing data about their own bodies this book offers a critique of the popular claim that more information equates to better health In a study that redefines the public academic and policy related debates around health bodies information and data the authors consider the ways in which the phenomenon of self diagnosis has created alternative worlds of knowledge and practises which are often at odds with professional medical advice With a focus on data that concerns significant life changes this book explores the potential challenges related to people's changing relationships with traditional health systems as access to and control over data shifts The Secret Teachings of Plants Stephen Harrod Buhner,2004-10-27 Reveals the use of direct perception in understanding Nature medicinal plants and the healing of human disease Explores the techniques used by indigenous and Western peoples to learn directly from the plants themselves including those of Henry David Thoreau Goethe and Masanobu Fukuoka author of The One Straw Revolution Contains leading edge information on the heart as an organ of perception All ancient and indigenous peoples insisted their knowledge of plant medicines came from the plants themselves and not through trial and error experimentation Less well known is that many Western peoples made this same assertion There are in fact two modes of cognition available to all human beings the brain based linear and the heart based holistic The heart centered mode of perception can be exceptionally accurate and detailed in its information gathering capacities if as indigenous and ancient peoples asserted the heart s ability as an organ of perception is developed Author Stephen Harrod Buhner explores this second mode of perception in great detail through the work of numerous remarkable people from Luther Burbank who cultivated the majority of food plants we now take for granted to the great German poet and scientist Goethe and his studies of the metamorphosis of plants Buhner explores the commonalities among these individuals in their approach to learning from the plant world and outlines the specific steps involved Readers will gain the tools necessary to gather information directly from the heart of Nature to directly learn the medicinal uses of plants to engage in diagnosis of disease and to understand the soul making process that such deep connection with the world engenders

Ethics for Living and Working Simon Robinson,John Strain,2008 In this work Botin begins by reflecting on the development of electronic records in the Danish healthcare system Richard Cooper takes the theme of electronic health records into the field of pharmacy On the face of it both of these would seem to provide a way of improving service However the more we use technology the more it is important to examine underlying values and ethical issues and this leads to an increased focus on developing and maintaining the autonomy and responsibility of the patient or customer Rolv Blaker Eileen Nafstad and Norman Andressen then take the focus to psychology Blaker directly addresses the ideology that may be predominant in a society and thus may be reflected in any professional practice whereas Norman Andressen and Ingrid Dundas take this further in analyzing underlying ideologies in teaching research methodology in psychology Hilde Eileen Nafstad in the following chapter takes this theme to a more profound level by focusing on the ideology based assumptions in research on human suffering concretized by studies of Post Traumatic Stress Syndromes in relation to war experiences Simon Robinson invites us to look at the moral context of employability and Elizabeth Ozorak looks at the world views and values underlying the student experience of service or volunteer learning Bruce Macfarlane takes the debate further in chapter eight by focusing on the academic profession and the idea of academic citizenship Derek Sellman takes this theme and applies it to the profession of nursing while Joan Whitman Hoff in her chapter takes us into what still for many people is uncharted ethical territory the world of IT as it used in teaching Suzy Jagger s chapter focuses on the teaching of computer ethics Like Sellman she wants to focus on the moral development of the students and looks to how this might be charted Development ethical development or any other involves change and John Strain considers whether we ought to take history more seriously in the ethical education In an age which is persistently confronted with innovation it is understandable that ethics is regarded as something that people will find compelling on account of its innovative character This book then argues that Applied and Professional Ethics is not to be confined to any predetermined shape Along with the dilemmas and the theories there are those underlying values and world views that are of equal importance in creating ethos and community and in enabling creative response Such values are there at the heart of virtue ethics Because of the plurality of the educational and professional community values and perspectives and assessments of values differ and thus dialogue is at the heart such ethics This book suggests that the teaching of Applied and Professional Ethics has to engage at all these levels and thereby both take seriously all aspects of ethics for living and working All of these chapters began their life as either keynote lectures or papers at the Second International Conference on Teaching Applied and Professional Ethics in Higher Education the Real World Real People Conference Ethics in a Virtual World London 30th August to September 1st 2005     Regulations and Procedure, United States Veteran's Bureau United States.
