Quantum Leap Dean Nelson, Karl Giberson, 2011-08-10 Quantum Leap uses key events in the life of Polkinghorne to introduce the central ideas that make science and religion such a fascinating field of investigation Sir John Polkinghorne is a British particle physicist who after 25 years of research and discovery in academia resigned his post to become an Anglican priest and theologian He was a professor of mathematical physics at Cambridge University and was elected to the Royal Society in 1974 As a physicist he participated in the research that led to the discovery of the quark the smallest known particle This cheerful biography cum appraisal of his life and work uses Polkinghorne's story to approach some of the most important questions a scientist's view of God why we pray and what we expect does the universe have a point moral and scientific laws what happens next

From Physicist to Priest John Polkinghorne, 2008-09-01 I am a scientist theologian someone who is both a physicist and a priest a statement that sometimes arouses the kind of curiosity or suspicion that might follow the claim to be a vegetarian butcher Cambridge don curate in a working class area of a big city vicar of a country parish in Kent contributor to governmental committees prize winning author of more than thirty five books KBE and much more John Polkinghorne tells his remarkable life story in a direct and modest yet profound narrative He looks back on his journeys into both disciplines from a human angle including the formative experiences and key relationships he experienced as a child an undergraduate graduate and beyond into university teaching family life priesthood and writing He describes his developing thoughts and understanding of the value and interdependence of each of the major disciplines and by so doing brings a down to earth touch to the big questions that each approach raises

Finding Ourselves after Darwin Stanley P. Rosenberg, Michael Burdett, Michael Lloyd, Benno van den Toren, 2018-07-17 A multinational team of scholars focuses on the interface between Christian doctrine and evolutionary scientific research exploring the theological consequences for the doctrines of original sin the image of God and the problem of evil Moving past the misperception that science and faith are irreconcilable the book compares alternative models to those that have generated faith science conflict and equips students pastors and anyone interested in origins to develop a critical and scientifically informed orthodox faith

The Way the World is J. C. Polkinghorne, 2007-01-01 In this brief and highly accessible book for general readers distinguished physicist turned theologian John Polkinghorne presents a reasoned account of the Christian view of the world as seen by the one of the world's leading interpreters of the interface between science and religion Drawing from his experiences as a scientist and a theologian Polkinghorne argues that Christianity presents a credible and compelling worldview that can be taken seriously even while fully understanding the importance of science

A Physicist Examines Hope in the Resurrection John F. Wilson, 2016-12-22 John Polkinghorne ordained member of the Royal Society past President of Queen's College Cambridge Knight Commander of the Order of the British Empire 2002 Templeton Prize winner theoretical physicist and theologian writes in breathless style to unfold core Christian doctrine in dialogue with science His work deftly addresses how one would interpret and commend Christian faith in the contemporary world as he elucidates the key topics in the dialogue of religion with science Polkinghorne's work addresses the hope Christians have present and future in the faithfulness of a loving God who stands alongside them today and for all eternity Eschatological hope enables and empowers Christian life and emerges in God's resurrection of Jesus from the horrific crucifixion Polkinghorne ably supports his thesis with a strong argument for the resurrection built on the kenotic acts of God His thesis sees Christian eschatology as the advent of hope the heart of faith In Christian eschatology as argued by Polkinhorne and supported in the work of Jurgen Moltmann and Nicholas T Wright Christ's presence is not some far off event but present reality
