Proleptic Pedagogy Sondra H. Matthaehi, Nancy R. Howell, 2014-06-17 Could we have imagined how much theological education would change in the new millennium Shifting needs of students classrooms and churches have demanded constant revisions of the curriculum course design classroom technology and pedagogical strategies Saint Paul School of Theology felt the tide of change within our own walls and designed a project called Proleptic Pedagogy to address three distinct pedagogical challenges for the future of theological education First instead of fitting new technologies into old pedagogies how are teaching and learning transformed by shifting needs of students who are digital natives digital immigrants or distance learners Second instead of reactive strategies what pedagogy proactively eliminates accommodations because courses are designed with flexibility and openness to diverse learning styles disabilities and needs Third instead of engaging student diversity with the tools of the 1960s what new teaching and learning strategies anticipate future student racial and ethnic demographics and interracial educational experiences This volume of essays narrates our classroom stories teases out pedagogical issues examines pedagogical literature reflects on theology of pedagogy and constructs pedagogical proposals with an open invitation for other theological educators to join our conversation about the future of theological education

Christian Practical Wisdom Dorothy C. Bass , Kathleen A. Cahalan , Bonnie J. Miller-Mclemore , James R. Nieman , Christian B. Scharen , 2016 In this richly collaborative work five distinguished scholars examine the oft neglected embodied practical wisdom that is essential for true theological understanding and faithful Christian living After first showing what Christian practical wisdom is and does in several real life situations the authors tell why such practical wisdom matters and how it operates exploring reasons behind its decline in both the academy and the church and setting forth constructive cases for its renewal

Shaping the Claim Marvin A. McMickle, 2008-09-03 Shaping the Claim helps the preacher discover the core of the message to be preached the sermonic claim In order to be effective says McMickle a sermon needs to address the hearers at three distinct levels the head or the intellect the heart or passion and conviction and the hand or an expected and desired response In order to discover the biblical claim that a sermon should make upon a particular congregation at a particular time McMickle presents a helpful three step process 1 What 2 So What and 3 Now What The book is keyed to online sermon samples and other Web based features such as sermon illustrations and art

You Never Step into the Same Pulpit Twice Ronald J. Allen,2022-06-23 This volume develops an approach to preaching that brings together two important forces One is process theology and the other is a homiletic of conversation based on mutual critical correlation In this approach the preacher does not unilaterally announce the Word of God but is the leader of an exciting conversation involving the biblical text process theology the congregation and voices from the larger world The preacher seeks to help the congregation identify God s invitations towards inclusive well being and to imagine how to respond in ways that are consistent with those invitations that promote inclusive well being The book begins with a crisp and clear summary of the worldview of process theology highlighting its distinctive views on how God operates in the world through invitation and on the interrelationship of all things The work then outlines an approach to biblical exegesis informed by process perspectives and sketches a method for bringing the biblical voice into dialogue with voices from tradition contemporary theology and the congregation and preacher The volume suggests shaping the sermon to honor process theology and conversation The volume concludes by noticing how perspectives from process and conversation help the preacher embody the sermon in engaging ways

Finding Language and Imagery Jennifer L. Lord,2009-11-01 Sermons use words And though it may seem obvious that preachers should be careful and exacting in word choice preachers often set aside this aspect of preaching in favor of exegesis form and sermon focus and make such language work a secondary task In Finding Language and Imagery Jennifer L. Lord asserts that because language shapes faith preachers must be disciplined to find fresh words for sermons and to make good choices about both their own words and those borrowed from others By presenting key tools and terms along with writing exercises Lord helps users develop both their understanding of language and their skills to capture the religious imagination of their listeners Book jacket

Theologies of the Gospel in Context David Schnasa Jacobsen,2017-08-25 Many preachers and teachers of preaching talk about the gospel few name it Theologies of the Gospel in Context assembles a gifted group of homileticians who think that preachers need to be able to articulate the gospel not in general but in a certain time and place in context They consider what gospel sounds like for people under oppression in capitalist economies in neocolonial contexts for survivors of trauma and for disestablished mainline churches marred by racism Preachers will appreciate these preacher scholars desire to articulate the gospel with clarity especially since the term
